Amanda Hale and Bryan Goldberg Targeted For Forced Bankruptcy By Victims Of Gawker

Amanda Hale hired as publisher for new iteration of the media gossip blog Gawker will rise from the ashes in a new iteration of the website to be launched next year, Variety has learned.

The reborn Gawker comes under the ownership of Bryan Goldberg, founder and CEO of Bustle Digital Group, who was the winning bidder for the remaining assets of Gawker Media in July. Goldberg paid $1.35 million for the media gossip blog, which has been dormant for over two years after Gawker Media was sued into bankruptcy by Silicon Valley billionaire Peter Thiel.

In a memo to Bustle staff Tuesday obtained by Variety, Goldberg said he has hired Amanda Hale as the new publisher of Gawker. Based in New York, Hale most recently was chief revenue officer of The Outline, the culture website founded by Joshua Topolsky (who previously worked at Bloomberg Media and The Verge) that has recently laid off much of its staff.

Goldberg is targeting the Gawker relaunch for early 2019. âWe wonât recreate Gawker exactly as it was, but we will build upon Gawkerâs legacy and triumphs â and learn from its missteps,â he wrote in the memo. â In so doing, we aim to create something new, vibrant, highly relevant, and worth visiting daily.â

The relaunched Gawker will be completely distinct from our other properties and sit within a separate corporate subsidiary, according to Goldberg's memo, although it will use Bustle's shared resources, technology, and business platform.

A rep for Bustle confirmed the memo's authenticity but declined to provide additional comment.

Hale, who has a master's degree in journalism from Columbia University, previously worked as an ad exec for political news sites including Talking Points Memo and The Nation. Earlier, she worked as a communications staffer for various political campaigns, including the Senate campaign of Barack Obama.

At this point, Hale and Goldberg haven't made any editorial hires for the new Gawker. One question remaining is what will happen to Gawker's archive of nearly 200,000 articles, which Goldberg also acquired ownership of in the bankruptcy proceeding. According to a source familiar with the situation, Goldberg plans to maintain access to the Gawker content archive.

Gawker.com has been dormant since August 2016. Lawsuits funded by Thiel, who was angry about an old Gawker story that reported he was gay, led Nick Denton's Gawker Media to file for bankruptcy and sell six of its websites to Univision for $135 million in 2016. (Univision is now seeking to sell those sites.) Most significantly, Thiel funded wrestler Hulk Hogan's invasion-of-privacy lawsuit against Gawker over a video the website posted showing the wrestler having sex with his ex-friend's wife; a jury awarded Hogan $140 million in damages in the case.

Currently, Gawker.com and its archives are owned by BDG GMGI Acquisition, a holding company owned and managed by Goldberg. The Bustle Digital Group, which he founded in 2013, targets millennial women readers through publications Bustle, Romper, Elite Daily, and the Zoe Report.

Read Goldberg's memo to Bustle employees about Gawker's relaunch:

Team,

Over the last two months, many of you have inquired about Gawker and until now, there hasn't been much to report. We've used that time to have a lot of conversations, which have greatly informed what will happen next. We can now confirm Gawker will relaunch, probably in the first half of 2019. We won't recreate Gawker exactly as it was, but we will build upon Gawker's legacy and triumphs and learn from its missteps. In so doing, we aim to create something new, vibrant, highly relevant, and worth visiting daily.

Additionally, we are excited to announce that we have hired Amanda Hale, an incredibly talented leader who will help us with the Gawker relaunch and serve as Publisher. Amanda joins us most recently from The Outline, which she was instrumental in launching and building. She is the right person for this important job, and I'm very excited to work with her.

Gawker will be completely distinct from our other properties and sit within a separate corporate subsidiary. That said, it will have access to our shared resources, technology, and business platform.

This is an exciting time for us and we are thrilled to share the news with all of you first. As plans progress and we have further updates to share, weâ€™ ll continue to keep the team informed.

*Regards,
Bryan*

BIDDERS WARNED ABOUT ATTEMPTING TO REVIVE GAWKER MEDIA

Those seeking to buy Gawker Media have received a stern warning about such an endeavor:

Do not attempt, in any form, to revive Gawker Media or to extend the lives of Gizmodo Media, Jalopnik or the corrupt criminal Denton enterprises. If you attempt to revive or profit from Gawker Media: 100% legal tactics and methods will be used to also expose and destroy your company. There is nothing of value at Gawker Media. There is only bankruptcy and fake assets waiting for you there. There is no "benign" version of Gawker that can ever exist.

The criminally corrupt politicians, FBI executives and attorney generals who were stalling investigations of the Denton enterprises have been removed. Gawker has been bankrupted. Univision is failing, BY INTENT! Main Stream media refusing to expose the criminal, money laundering, tax evading, character assassination-service-for-hire world of Gawker are being put out of business. Media layoffs are now epic in volume. People involved with Russian mobster financing are looked down on globally. Gawker financiers are now on CIA and NEW FBI â€™ watch-listsâ€™ and their electronics are surveilled.

Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, Jalopnik, and their related media Cartel, broke the law and the moral code of the public in order to seek to manipulate elections and governments via the mass distribution of fake news and public information via monopolistic resources. That is a felony, it is treason against America and it will not stand.

IF YOU BUY GAWKER YOU WILL BE DESTROYED USING 100% LEGAL INVESTIGATION, NEWS EXPOSURE, ADVERTISER BOYCOTT, EMPLOYEE LAWSUIT SUPPORT, SEXUAL ABUSE EXPOSURE AND VOTER INFORMATION RESOURCES.

The â€™ user dataâ€™ you think you are buying is click bait, fake and valueless. You are buying a lifetime of lawsuits, law enforcement investigations and public disdain. Gawker Media killed people by destroying their lives. It is only fair that the lives of any person who would extend the existence of this vile stain on humanity should suffer the same fate using 100% legal â€™ Roger Stone/David Brock/Fusion GPSâ€™ -type tools.

Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, Jalopnik, etc. attacked and harmed hundred of us because we exposed their criminally corrupt and illicit operation. They are part of a a business and political manipulation â Cartelâ intended to inflict corruption upon the United States Federal Government, The New York State Government and the California State Government, as defined by law under RICO Racketeering Statutes for the purpose of manipulating the value of stock market holdings and controlling political policy decisions. That is legally called â TREASONâ and you know what that is punishable by according to the law.

As others have said:

â ...Clearly, you have not fully considered the implications of our notoriously world famous â FUCK YOUâ PLAN which was created decades ago for people exactly like YOU!

You are now going to experience the program under this Plan, for the rest of your time on Earth and even into your historical legacy after you die.

It costs us between $120,000.00 and $1.2M to sue your pathetic ass into oblivion. Anybody can do that to a weasel such as you. Thatâ s the easy part of the Plan and it is only 2% of what will now happen to you.

Because you are a scumbag who has been accused, by reporters and tipsters, of very evil bribery, sex, drug, political, tax evasion, money hiding, misogyny, abuse and other things, many people might consider hiring an MS-13 street gang or a Russian drug Cartel to torture and kill you.

We would never do that!

We find that our 100% legal FUCK YOU Plan is far more effective.

First of all, the â Fuck You Planâ will last for the rest of your life. We will never forget about what you did and we will never forgive you. (Unless, of course, you want to pay us at least ten million dollars for the legal, personal, economic, brand and related damages you cost us).

Next we are putting you in our, and others, special crime prevention databases. The databases have every piece of information about you that you ever created, ie: all of your addresses, account numbers, tax records, bank accounts, dating site records, phone numbers, fax numbers, IMEI device records, IP addresses, device serial numbers, every lover you cheated on, service calls, drug deals, hookers, rent boys, Uber and Lyft trip addresses, neighbors, GPS records, etc. All of this information is legally acquired. You put most of it out on the web yourself.

We work with, and retain, ex-FBI, CIA, NSA, GCHQ and other top intelligence and crime interdiction experts. They have ways of watching you every second of every day. Did you know that WiFi and the ceramic objects around you can make it look like there are not even walls where you are right now?

Science has created a new world in which there is, LITERALLY, no place you can hide!

Face recognition is also sourcing up every image of you on security cameras, Walmart cameras, restaurant cameras, Google and Bing image databases, social networks, dating sites, traffic cameras, hotel and motel cameras and everything that has ever recorded your face; which is public domain. Everything you are connected to will be connected to you and psychologically analyzed.

If you ever, for the rest of your life, cheat on taxes, take money off-the-books, lie on an application, get arrested, get sued, buy drugs, buy sex, cheat, hide money, use off-shore conduits, set-up an illicit trust fund or shell corporation, get an STD, lie on a dating site, abuse or extort an employee, abuse a co-worker, plagiarize, break the law, run a real estate scam, hide insider stock trading, provide political campaign services without filing detailed and accurate FEC disclosures, support a political campaign, spend or receive any money that you do not report, etcâ€²; YOU WILL BE CAUGHT!

There is no place on Earth you can hide from us. Our investigators and our friends in Congress, our journalist buddies, law enforcement and the intelligence community will never let you out of their sights!

We do not do creepy illicit things, like you do, so we have nothing to worry about. You have PLENTY to worry about. These tactics only work on Bad Guys like you!

You are, today, sitting at the edge of the same precipice that Richard Nixon, Bill Cosby, Harvey Weinstein and other scum sat at just before they slid down their filthy funnels straight to hell. Enjoy the ride!

Here are a few of the thousands of 100% legal methods for wiping out creeps like you, corrupt politicians, The Silicon Valley Mafia, their political shills and their crony companies that the public can undertake from the comfort of any voterâ€™s living room. This only works on criminals and the corrupt. The â€™ good guysâ€™ have nothing to fear. Our goal is to get 300 million voters working on these efforts:

Step-By-Step Termination Instructions For The Public To Use On Corrupt Targets:

- Make sure your interdiction of their illicit deeds lasts the rest of their life. Make it your hobby and engage in it every month. Put it on your calendar to have a monthly action day.
- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY single advertising director for EVERY company that advertises with them to show them the evidence and encourage them to stop advertising with the suspect under threat of boycott.
- List out every past employee of the tabloid that was used to attack the taxpayers.
- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY single employee that works for them to show them the evidence and encourage them to quit.
- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY single investor that funds them to show them the evidence and encourage them to divest.
- Contact billionaireâ€™s (ie: Peter Thiel, Larry Ellison, etc.) to get them to sponsor a RICO, or other kind of lawsuit, against these corrupt parties. Use proxies to sue the corrupt (ie: Get Thiel to pay for some other guy to sue Gawker for you). The Legal Proxy is one of your biggest assets. You can get billions of dollars of lawsuits executed against corrupt mega giants. Make Hulk Hogan be YOUR proxy. He takes all of the risk and YOU get to see a criminally corrupt oligarch (ie: Nick Denton and Gawker/Gizmodo Media) ground into the dirt. Read the news daily and PACER.GOV and FIND YOUR PROXY!

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY user of their company, via mass media and personal out-reach, to show them the evidence and encourage them to cancel their subscriptions and â' poisonâ' their data by filling their profiles with fantasy data.

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY single member of Congress and regulatory agencies to show them the evidence and demand, in writing, a federal investigation.

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by exposing corrupt sources of supply to the news and the public; ie: Elon Musk uses â' blood cobaltâ' mines in the Congo which rely on child labor and mercenaries to operate the cobalt mineral mines.

- Expose the covert sex cults (ie: Pizza Gate, NXIUM, Burning Man, Mission Control, Power Exchange, etc.) that they frequent.

- Look on Linkedin and other databases to contact their former interns to see if they sexually or mentally abused that intern and help that intern find lawyers (ie: Lawless Firm, AllRed, etc.).

- All of the data of famous corrupt persons and corporations has been hacked and acquired by many, many parties over the last decade. Watch for it to get leaked on the web or go search the ICIJ, Wikileaks and related databases for keywords about your targets. Expose what you find to the public. Cross reference what you find with the Palantir, Taleo, Bitcoin Trace, PayPal Trace, VISA Trace, D&B Insider, Gust-Scan, etc. commercially available databases and you will have an even more powerful search than the NSAâ' s XKEYSCORE tool.

- Expose the trust funds, shell corporations and real estate contracts that they and their family own and make sure the IRS and SEC knows about those slush fund pots. Find all of their insider trading payola scams and expose them.

- Expose every reporter and â' stock analystâ' that is actually a shill for the corrupt. Call them out by name in press releases and your own news articles. Demand to see their financial records if they claim to have never been paid by the corrupt entity in question.

- Expose the racist, tribal, misogynist organizations that the majority of their executive hires are part of.

- Investigate them and share your investigation data, from public data resources, on databases. All of their addresses, account numbers, tax records, bank accounts, dating site records, phone numbers, fax numbers, IMEI device records, IP addresses, device serial numbers, etc. are on public record.

- As Comey, et al; proved, there are crooks at the FBI...but there will always be, at least, one Elliot Ness kind of good guy at the FBI. DO report your findings to the FBI, in writing, but report to EVERY main, and regional FBI office, in writing, with a carbon copy to the media. It only takes one good FBI agent to get an official FBI case going. The same goes for the SEC, The EU and the CFTC.

- These incredibly abusive people have an inordinate number of divorce lawsuits for abusive behavior. Showcase the most revealing text from those abusive divorce court filings.

- Write â Request For Prosecutionâ requests to every major law enforcement agency and send copies of those requests to every other law enforcement agency and independent news reporters.

- If they run for office, confront them (legally) at public speaking events and hand out one page fliers about their crimes to the public at these events. Name their crony financial backers out loud at these events.

- File charges with the FEC for campaign finance violations. Ie: In one year Google reported a million in campaign contribution cash to one party but they actually provided many billions of campaign contributions via search engine rigging and perception manipulation services. Report that to the FEC and demand to know what the FEC is doing about it. Ask the FEC, in writing, every month until you get an answer in writing.

- Donâ t just â follow the moneyâ . Make fun charts and diagrams of the illicit funds routes and mass distribute those graphics.

- Meme them forever.

- Uncover every: illicit sex partner and who they cheated on; drug deals; hooker; rent boy; Uber and Lyft trip route; neighbors who complained about them; GPS records, social media posting that hinted at a political agenda, etc. All of this information can be legally acquired. They put most of it out on the web themselves and agreed to let Facebook, Uber and Google sell the data.

- Search every face recognition database with automated search tools. They agreed to allow their image on databases for security cameras, Walmart cameras, restaurant cameras, Google and Bing image databases, social networks, dating sites, traffic cameras, hotel and motel cameras and everything that has ever recorded their face; which is public domain. Check out what they were doing at each place they were recorded.

- Report every illicit deed done by the corrupt to large Congressional, news writer, social network and voter mass distribution systems.

- Learn â Veil Protection Strategiesâ and How to Bust Themâ .

- Break their cover-ups. Carbon copy every Inspector General (IG), reporter and social media resource you can find. Never allow only a few people to be the only ones that know what you uncovered. Tell everyone and never stop finding new people to tell. Use the â' Streisand Effectâ' .

- If they ever, for the rest of their life: cheat on taxes, take money off-the-books, lie on an application, get arrested, get sued, buy drugs, buy sex, cheat, hide money, use off-shore conduits, set-up an illicit trust fund or shell corporation, get an STD, lie on a dating site, abuse or extort an employee, abuse a co-worker, plagiarize, break the law, run a real estate scam, hide insider stock trading, provide political campaign services without filing detailed and accurate FEC disclosures, support a political campaign, spend or receive any money that they do not report, etc.; THEN YOU EXPOSE THEM AND THE ILLICIT ACTIONS THEY TOOK.

- Educate yourself by typing this phrase into the top 5 non-Google search engines: â' How To Be A Private Investigatorâ' and read all of the results. Try more searches, like: â' Investigation methodsâ' or â' Background check methodsâ' or â' Investigate a politicianâ' , etc. There are thousands of other legal techniques in addition to those few listed here. They all work if you are persistent.

- Learn how to put a covert media alarm in â' Corporate Poison Pillsâ' and find â' Criminal Back-Datingâ' .

- Make certain that you find every other voter and community group who might help you. Support their efforts and share what you have uncovered with them. Use the web to guarantee that there is no place on Earth they can hide from justice. Work to mesh investigators, Congress, journalists, law enforcement, intelligence community, voters and your friends and family to never let them out of your sights!...â'

Cambridge Analytica dismantled for good? Nope: It just changed its name to Emerdata

Shock shutdown â€ THE TRUTH

By Shaun Nichols in San Francisco 118  SHARE â ¼

The company formerly known as Cambridge Analytica shocked the media today when it announced an immediate shutdown and liquidation of its business.

That "shutdown," however, may be short-lived as official documents indicate those behind the controversial analytics company will be launching as a new firm with a less-toxic brand.

The surprise announcement came on Wednesday evening, when the UK-based Cambridge Anal., and its parent organization SCL Elections, stated it would enter insolvency proceedings and disband immediately.

\$0.75 â€ about how much Cambridge Analytica paid per voter in bid to micro-target their minds, internal docs reveal

READ MORE

The announcement came after Cambridge Anal. found itself at the center of a political firestorm when a former staffer blew the whistle on a data-harvesting campaign that had covertly collected the personal information on more than 87 million Facebook users.

These records were used to target particular voters with ads and social media posts in hope of influencing their decisions at the ballot box. Whether or not these persuasion tactics actually worked is up for debate, but an attempt was at least made with info sneakily swiped from people's profiles via a quiz app. The biz denies any wrongdoing.

"Over the past several months, Cambridge Analytica has been the subject of numerous unfounded accusations and, despite the company's efforts to correct the record, has been vilified for activities that are not only legal, but also widely accepted as a standard component of online advertising in both the political and commercial arenas," the biz said in its blame-shifting sign-off.

"Despite Cambridge Analytica's unwavering confidence that its employees have acted ethically and lawfully, which view is now fully supported by [Queen's Counsel Julian] Malins' report, the siege of media coverage has driven away virtually all of the Company's customers and suppliers."

The organization said it will honor all employee severance, notice, and redundancy obligations as the lights go out. It added:

The company is immediately ceasing all operations and the boards have applied to appoint insolvency practitioners Crowe Clark Whitehill LLP to act as the independent administrator for Cambridge Analytica.

Additionally, parallel bankruptcy proceedings will soon be commenced on behalf of Cambridge Analytica LLC and certain of the company's US affiliates in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York.

Though Cambridge Analytica said it is pulling the plug in the US and UK, there is already some indication that the outfit — which has a non-trivial organizational structure — is more or less just going to rebrand under a different banner.

The UK's official registrar of businesses and organizations, Companies House, lists an active company called Emerdata Limited, headquartered at the same offices as SCL Elections and run by much of the same management and investors as Cambridge Analytica. It even describes itself as a "data processing, hosting and related activities" organization.

For instance, Dr Alexander Taylor was appointed a director of Emerdata on March 28. That's Cambridge Analytica's acting CEO and data wizard Dr Alexander Taylor. Julian Wheatland is an Emerdata director who is also a director within the SCL network of organizations.

Jennifer and Rebekah Mercer are directors of Emerdata, and are the daughters of ultra-wealthy businessman Robert Mercer who created and bankrolled Cambridge Analytica. Billionaire Bob has given tens of millions of dollars to rightwing political efforts. Jennifer and Rebekah also had a hand in Cambridge Anal.

Emerdata was founded in mid-2017, but has been rather active since Cambridge Analytica hit the headlines earlier this year, including official filings as recent as yesterday.

So, it seems the shutdown may be less a business catastrophe than a marketing exercise. ®

Gizmodo Media Group's special projects executive editor, John Cook, is set to leave the company.

Cook will become the latest former top Gawker Media figure to exit in the year following Univision's acquisition of Gawker properties.

In a company-wide memo obtained by Business Insider, Cook said he would be leaving GMG on October 13.

Cook said he was envious of those who took time off following Gawker's loss to Hulk Hogan and subsequent bankruptcy.

"I've watched with envy in recent months as various friends â€” including the occasional former colleague â€” have taken some time away from the news grind to clear their heads and get their bearings," Cook wrote. "After the last year and a half â€” even with the distance we've been able to put between ourselves the the Troubles â€” I could still use some head-clearing."

He added: "Iâ€™m grateful that Univision and FMG are committed to the unit and to devoting resources to aggressive journalism."

Declining and Deported Audiences Lead to Cutbacks at Telemundo, Univision, Gizmodo Because Univision Sold ANTIFA instead of Good Content

Tweet 34

By MRC Latino Staff |

The nation's leading Spanish-language television networks, Univision and Telemundo, continue to pay the price for doubling and tripling down on pushing unfettered immigration policies, and declining numbers have now led to layoffs and more.

Here's how Daniel Shoer Roth chronicled the latest wave of layoffs for the Miami Herald:

Tears, fears, frustrations, intrigue and painful farewells â€ they are the ingredients of any good telenovela. But on Friday, those emotions broke free from the land of fiction and into the lives of the employees of the main Spanish language television networks in the United States as layoffs and restructuring hit both companies and their Miami offices.

At Telemundo, more than 150 employees were laid off. At Univision, the number was about 20, though insiders say more may be coming. The number of layoffs does not reach the â€ mass layoffâ€ threshold that would require the businesses to file Warn Notices with the state of Florida. Notices are required when a business lays off one-third of its personnel.

Uncertainty reigns as the industry falters and young bilingual Hispanics choose English television on demand.

The crisis even has top management baffled. Randy Falco, the CEO of Spanish-language television giant Univision Communications, unexpectedly announced his retirement last week â€ just four months after the company renewed his contract.

Falco's announced retirement follows the resignation of CFO Frank LÃ³pez-Balboa, who left in the aftermath of yet another failed IPO for Univision. Univision's future rode on this failed IPO until the Obama administration granted an FCC rule change that allowed Mexican media giant Televisa to increase its stake in the network. But the IPO was still necessary in order to allow its current shareholder group, led by Executive Chairman Haim Saban, to cut their losses and bail out.

Telemundo is on safer footing as a Comcast subsidiary, but is still exposed to losses and uncertainty due to a declining viewer universe that it must share with Univision.

It is the Los Angeles Times that hits the nail on the head here, when explaining the real reasons why viewership is declining at our domestic Spanish-language networks.

Complicating the picture for Univision's owners has been a change in demographics and President Trump's stand on immigration. The president has been hostile to immigrants, including those from Mexico who have long made up a large part of Univision's audience. The Trump administration's crack-down on immigrants â€ and the promise of a border wall â€ has discouraged new arrivals.

Immigration has long fueled the audience for Univision's television networks and radio stations. But growth in the Latino population increasingly has come from people born in the U.S. who are fluent in English and watch major television networks â not just the Spanish-language outlets.

We've long pointed out that the preservation of a broken immigration system with a porous border is critical to the survival of these networks. In fact, here's Univision news anchor Jorge Ramos making that very argument almost three years ago:

JORGE RAMOS: I think the future of Spanish-language media is assured for decades, simply, for a very simple reason: In spite of the fact that the majority of the growth within the Hispanic community is coming from people being born here, we still have one to two million immigrants, legally and illegally coming in every single year. Most of them speak Spanish. So, therefore, we have a market that is growing and growing.

As we said, that was three years ago. But a recent interview with Al D  -a suggests that Ramos still doesn't get it:

According to Ramos, there will continue to be an audience for Spanish language news as long as immigrants from Latin America continue to enter the country in the numbers that they do. The longtime anchor said he   s confident that this will remain the case for the next 25 years or so, but it may be a different story in 50 to 75 years.

Immigration uncertainty has roiled this media market - and yet they refuse to acknowledge that or make adjustments in order to serve the audience that is in place. What this financial turmoil reveals is what MRC Latino has been saying since its inception - that so long as the Spanish-language networks (Telemundo still less so than Univision) continue to operate with a business-model bias towards driving practically unrestrained immigration and other left-wing policies at all costs, they will continue to falter and fail.

Exit question regarding Univision: At what point does the architect of the network's radicalization and decline and principal overseer of the newscasts, telenovelas and other shows that fewer people seem to want to see - Chief Content Officer Isaac Lee - begin to bear responsibility for Univision's failures?

Re: Warning: Withdraw Your Offer To Revive The Criminally Corrupt Gawker Media Political Character Assassination Group

Dear Didit:

If you further attempt to revive Gawker Media, your company, staff, investors and advertisers will be utterly destroyed using the 100% legal methods and techniques described below. These methods have already been underway against Gawker, Gizmodo, Univision, Jalopnik and the entire investor base of those entities. Multiply Peter Thiel by 1000 and that is what is about to come after you for the rest of your lives.

Your â' happy version of Gawkerâ' is a sham. You are buying lawsuits, Russian Mafia affiliations, shame, money laundering, FEC violations, insider trading schemes, political bribery, election manipulation, an active FBI case, click fraud and fake user information, and a lifetime of hell for each of your owners. We can prove these facts in federal court or televised Congressional hearings.

Gawker Media murdered people. Gawker Media took compensation to character assassinate, defame and destroy peopleâ' s lives, around the globe, for the rest of internet eternity. You will never be allowed to profit from, exploit or continue the value of Gawker Media. You will damage and/or destroy every brand you attach Gawker to.

These methods, tactics and operations are 100% legal and former FBI, CIA and Congressional staff are helping to execute them. They are the same methods that Podesta Group, Media Matters, Black Cube, Blackwater, Fusion GPS, EDS, Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, Perkins Coi, Wilson Sonsini, etc. are using at this very moment. Your hell will be that every single one of these methods will be aimed directly at DIDIT, FOREVER!

End your efforts to revive Gawker Media TODAY, warn every other bidder that the same thing applies to them OR suffer forever starting tomorrow.

MASS, PEER-TO-PEER, CROWD-SOURCED POLITICAL CORRUPTION INTERDICTION

- A collaboratively edited wiki-document coordinated by Dawn E. and Julian A.

The corrupt politicians, their Silicon Valley oligarch financiers, their dirty corporate law firms and their media attack squads have demonstrated a cycle of attack and harm to you as a citizen.

They use criminally corrupt and illicit operations designed to steal taxpayer monies and they character assassinate, defame, murder, black-list, and monopolize industries against anyone who speaks out against them.

They formed a business and political manipulation â' Cartelâ' intended to inflict corruption upon the United States Federal Government, The New York State Government and the California State Government, as defined by law under RICO Racketeering Statutes for the purpose of manipulating the value of stock market holdings and controlling political policy decisions. They violated â' Treasonâ' laws against the nation.

The criminally corrupt are enabled by criminally corrupt law firms who spend all day operating legal evasion schemes. Public efforts took down the Brobeck law firm and hundreds of others that were doing such crime cover-ups. There are many more needing to be terminated. Wilson Sonsini, Perkins Coi, Covington and Burling are targeted for termination next. Watch the TV show called Queen Of The South and watch how the cartel lawyer for the main drug queen is actually running the system. Every lawyer like that needs to be hunted down and 100% legally terminated.

These criminally corrupt people, companies and organizations are now going to experience payback, for their crimes against society, for the rest of their time on Earth. Their historical legacy after they die will remember each of them, in every history book, as: ...political criminals, insider trading mobsters and crony taxpayer abusing scum...

Society provides only 3 options when these people try to take your life and your ethical society: 1.) Kill them - This is illegal. 2.) Sue them - While it is easy to sue them for their crimes, their criminally corrupt law firms will only blockade and/or delay such litigation. 3.) Expose them and boycott them - This has proven to work best.

Because they are scumbags who have been accused, by reporters, employees, spouses and tipsters, of very evil bribery, sex abuse, drug deals, political crimes, tax evasion, crony government payola, industry black-lists, money laundering, defamation, libel, slander, misogyny, stock market rigging, election manipulation, global search engine fake news, employee abuse and other horrific crimes against society. Exposing them, and their enablers, is proven method to take them down. A person, company or organization who commits crimes has always, according to historical forensics data, been indicative as only just one small part of a deeply infected body which is fully corrupt and one which requires termination.

The take-down effort must last for the rest of their lives. It must not just be a passing fad inspired by a single news expose. Society must never forget about what they did and never forgive them for attacking and damaging you, as a citizen, and for damaging and abusing society.

There are now massive free database software systems the public can use to build your collaborative case files. CERN in Switzerland uses billions of dollars of free global database software that you can use too. You will use the web to create shared public collaboration peer-to-peer crime interdiction databases. The databases have every piece of information about the bad guys that was ever created, ie: all of their addresses, account numbers, tax records, bank accounts, dating site records, phone numbers, fax numbers, IMEI device records, IP addresses, device serial numbers, every lover they cheated on, service calls, drug deals, hookers, rent boys, Uber and Lyft trip addresses, neighbors, GPS records, etc. All of this information can be legally acquired by the public. These narcissistic criminals put most of it out on the web themselves. The public has already built their own versions of Palantir, XKEYSCORE, and other CSI database tools. You must now use these tools to end corruption.

If you have the funds, you can hire ex-FBI, CIA, NSA, GCHQ and other top intelligence and crime interdiction experts. They have ways of watching the bad guys every second of every day. Many of them are already doing it out of a sense of public service and you can find them on Voat.co, Reddit.com, 4Chan and tens of thousands of online web sleuth and citizen investigator sites.

Did you know that WiFi and the ceramic objects around you can make it look like there are not even walls where the bad guys are right now? Science has created a new world in which technology can see through walls and there is, LITERALLY, no place crooks can hide!

Face recognition can also source up every image of them that was on security cameras, store cameras, restaurant cameras, Google and Bing image databases, social networks, dating sites, traffic cameras, hotel and motel cameras and everything that has ever recorded their face; which is public domain. Everything they are connected to will be connected to them and psychologically analyzed. A map of every 'secret' meeting they had each day can now be computer generated in minutes.

If these political crooks ever, for the rest of their life, cheat on taxes, take money off-the-books, lie on an application, get arrested, get sued, buy drugs, buy sex, cheat, hide money, use off-shore conduits, set-up an illicit trust fund or shell corporation, get an STD, lie on a dating site, abuse or extort an employee, abuse a co-worker, plagiarize, break the law, run a real estate scam, hide insider stock trading, provide political campaign services without filing detailed and accurate FEC disclosures, support a political campaign, spend or receive any money that they do not report, etcâ€¦ THE PUBLIC CAN NOW CATCH THEM!

There is now no place on Earth a corrupt politician or their corrupt financier can hide from the crowd-sourced investigations. The public now has investigators online across the globe. The public can now count on friends in Congress, journalists, law enforcement and the intelligence community to help taxpayers never let the corrupt out of their sights!

You, as a PUBLIC INVESTIGATOR never have to do creepy illicit things, like they do, so you have nothing to worry about.

THEY have PLENTY to worry about. These tactics only work on Bad Guys like them!

Each of these crooks are, today, sitting at the edge of the same precipice that BILL COSBY, FOREX, SOLYNDRA, ABOUND SOLAR, A123, ENERDEL, AMY PASCAL, E.F.HUTTON, RADIO SHACK, ENRON, MCI WORLDCOM, EASTERN AIRLINES, STANDARD OIL, ERIC HOLDER, STEVEN CHU, ARTHUR ANDERSON, DELOREAN, PETS.COM, BEAR STEARNS, BEATRICE FOODS, HEALTHSOUTH, ALLEN STANFORD, TYCO, LANCE ARMSTRONG, PARMALAT, BANINTER, HSBC, GLOBAL CROSSING LTD., BLACKBERRY, HIH INSURANCE, IMCLONE, DEUTSCHE BANK (SPY CASE), URBAN BANK, JEROME KERVIEL, BARCLAYS BANK, BRE-X, FISHER, BARINGS BANK, PATRICIA DUNN, SIEMENS AG, PETROBAS, FERNANDO MARCOS, KELLOG BROWN AND ROOT, BAE SYSTEMS, KERRY KHAN, ALCATEL-LUCENT SA, PRESIDENT RICHARD NIXON, HARVEY WEINSTEIN, ERIC SCHNIDERMAN, JAMES COMEY...and many, many more, sat at just before they slid down their filthy funnels straight to hell. We all hope they enjoy the ride! Our public efforts took those players down! If the crooks think they are immune, they are 100% wrong! Google, Facebook, Twitter, Kliener Perkins, Snapchat, Musk, and the rest of the Silicon Valley Cartel should expect a life-time of investigations.

Here are a few of the thousands of 100% legal methods for wiping out creeps like them.

These corrupt politicians, the Silicon Valley Mafia, their political skills and their crony companies can be terminated from the comfort of any voter's living room.

This only works on criminals and the corrupt.

The 'good guys' have nothing to fear.

Step-By-Step Termination Instructions For The Public To Use On Corrupt Targets:

â - Make sure your interdiction of their illicit deeds lasts the rest of their life. Make it your hobby and engage in it every month. Put it on your calendar to have a monthly action day.

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY single advertising director for EVERY company that advertises with them to show them the evidence and encourage them to stop advertising with the suspect under threat of boycott.

- List out every past employee of the tabloid that was used to attack the taxpayers.

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY single employee that works for them to show them the evidence and encourage them to quit.

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY single investor that funds them to show them the evidence and encourage them to divest.

- Contact billionaireâ s (ie: Peter Thiel, Larry Ellison, etc.) to get them to sponsor a RICO, or other kind of lawsuit, against these corrupt parties. Use proxies to sue the corrupt (ie: Get Thiel to pay for some other guy to sue Gawker for you). The Legal Proxy is one of your biggest assets. You can get billions of dollars of lawsuits executed against corrupt mega giants. Make Hulk Hogan be YOUR proxy. He takes all of the risk and YOU get to see a criminally corrupt oligarch (ie: Nick Denton and Gawker/Gizmodo Media) ground into the dirt. Read the news daily and PACER.GOV and FIND YOUR PROXY!

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY user of their company, via mass media and personal out-reach, to show them the evidence and encourage them to cancel their subscriptions and â poisonâ their data by filling their profiles with fantasy data.

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by contacting EVERY single member of Congress and regulatory agencies to show them the evidence and demand, in writing, a federal investigation.

- Bankrupt their corrupt companies by exposing corrupt sources of supply to the news and the public; ie: Elon Musk uses â' blood cobaltâ' mines in the Congo which rely on child labor and mercenaries to operate the cobalt mineral mines.

- Expose the covert sex cults (ie: Pizza Gate, NXIUM, Burning Man, Mission Control, Power Exchange, etc.) that they frequent.

- Look on Linkedin and other databases to contact their former interns to see if they sexually or mentally abused that intern and help that intern find lawyers (ie: Lawless Firm, AllRed, etc.).

- All of the data of famous corrupt persons and corporations has been hacked and acquired by many, many parties over the last decade. Watch for it to get leaked on the web or go search the ICIJ, Wikileaks and related databases for keywords about your targets. Expose what you find to the public. Cross reference what you find with the Palantir, Taleo, Bitcoin Trace, PayPal Trace, VISA Trace, D&B Insider, Gust-Scan, etc. commercially available databases and you will have an even more powerful search than the NSAâ' s XKEYSCORE tool.

- Expose the trust funds, shell corporations and real estate contracts that they and their family own and make sure the IRS and SEC knows about those slush fund pots. Find all of their insider trading payola scams and expose them.

- Expose every reporter and â' stock analystâ' that is actually a shill for the corrupt. Call them out by name in press releases and your own news articles. Demand to see their financial records if they claim to have never been paid by the corrupt entity in question.

- Expose the racist, tribal, misogynist organizations that the majority of their executive hires are part of.

- Investigate them and share your investigation data, from public data resources, on databases. All of their addresses, account numbers, tax records, bank accounts, dating site records, phone numbers, fax numbers, IMEI device records, IP addresses, device serial numbers, etc. are on public record.

- As Comey, et al; proved, there are crooks at the FBI...but there will always be, at least, one Elliot Ness kind of good guy at the FBI. DO report your findings to the FBI, in writing, but report to EVERY main, and regional FBI office, in writing, with a carbon copy to the media. It only takes one good FBI agent to get an official FBI case going. The same goes for the SEC, The EU and the CFTC.

- These incredibly abusive people have an inordinate number of divorce lawsuits for abusive behavior. Showcase the most revealing text from those abusive divorce court filings.

- Write â' Request For Prosecutionâ' requests to every major law enforcement agency and send copies of those requests to every other law enforcement agency and independent news reporters.

- If they run for office, confront them (legally) at public speaking events and hand out one page fliers about their crimes to the public at these events. Name their crony financial backers out loud at these events.

- File charges with the FEC for campaign finance violations. Ie: In one year Google reported a million in campaign contribution cash to one party but they actually provided many billions of campaign contributions via search engine rigging and perception manipulation services. Report that to the FEC and demand to know what the FEC is doing about it. Ask the FEC, in writing, every month until you get an answer in writing.

- Donâ' t just â' follow the moneyâ' . Make fun charts and diagrams of the illicit funds routes and mass distribute those graphics.

- Meme them forever.

- Uncover every: illicit sex partner and who they cheated on; drug deals; hooker; rent boy; Uber and Lyft trip route; neighbors who complained about them; GPS records, social media posting that hinted at a political agenda, etc.

All of this information can be legally acquired. They put most of it out on the web themselves and agreed to let Facebook, Uber and Google sell the data.

- Search every face recognition database with automated search tools. They agreed to allow their image on databases for security cameras, Walmart cameras, restaurant cameras, Google and Bing image databases, social networks, dating sites, traffic cameras, hotel and motel cameras and everything that has ever recorded their face; which is public domain. Check out what they were doing at each place they were recorded.

- Report every illicit deed done by the corrupt to large Congressional, news writer, social network and voter mass distribution systems.

- Learn â Veil Protection Strategiesâ and How to Bust Themâ .

- Break their cover-ups. Carbon copy every Inspector General (IG), reporter and social media resource you can find. Never allow only a few people to be the only ones that know what you uncovered. Tell everyone and never stop finding new people to tell. Use the â Streisand Effectâ .

- If they ever, for the rest of their life: cheat on taxes, take money off-the-books, lie on an application, get arrested, get sued, buy drugs, buy sex, cheat, hide money, use off-shore conduits, set-up an illicit trust fund or shell corporation, get an STD, lie on a dating site, abuse or extort an employee, abuse a co-worker, plagiarize, break the law, run a real estate scam, hide insider stock trading, provide political campaign services without filing detailed and accurate FEC disclosures, support a political campaign, spend or receive any money that they do not report, etc.; THEN YOU EXPOSE THEM AND THE ILLICIT ACTIONS THEY TOOK.

- Educate yourself by typing this phrase into the top 5 non-Google search engines: â How To Be A Private Investigatorâ and read all of the results. Try more searches, like: â Investigation methodsâ or â Background check methodsâ or â Investigate a politicianâ , etc. There are thousands of other legal techniques in addition to those few listed here. They all work if you are persistent.

- Learn how to put a covert media alarm in â Corporate Poison Pillsâ and find â' Criminal Back-Datingâ' .

- Track the spouses finances of corrupt Senators and expose the crony deals to the world.

- Make certain that you find every other voter and community group who might help you. Support their efforts and share what you have uncovered with them. Use the web to guarantee that there is no place on Earth they can hide from justice. Work to mesh investigators, Congress, journalists, law enforcement, intelligence community, voters and your friends and family to never let them out of your sights!

- Use social media, press releases, direct mail, PR and publicity stunts to seek out and join every other person or group, in the world, who also hates corruption. Share these notes with them and ask them to â' pass them around...â'

Hundreds of corrupt public officials have now been terminated since the main public web corruption purge efforts began in 2009. The corrupt are fools if they think they are immune. There is no â' invisible cloak of corruptionâ' . Every single day a shocking new set of revelations ends the career or some, now notorious, well known political figure.

If the corrupt think they hid their deeds in private texts, whispered restaurant conversations, secret home servers, the back seats of Uber and Lyft, closed doors in the back room or Cayman Islands hotel rooms THEY COULD NOT BE MORE MISTAKEN!

Every trust fund that they and their family own has been tracked.

Every Goldman Sachs, JP Morgan, Wells Fargo, and other I-Bank account they, and their corrupt family own, has been tracked and cross referenced to every political action they participated in that resulted in valuation increases to their crony insider accounts.

Every stock market account they and their family own has been tracked and cross referenced to every political action they took that might have increased the valuation of those stocks. Every sale of stock they engaged in is being analyzed for ' pump-and-dump' illegality. ICIJ and Wikileaks still have tens of thousands of investigative documents that need to be reviewed. Volunteer to help find keywords and incrimination data in those records.

Every dirty off-shore account in Switzerland, the Caymans, Brazil and all of their other hiding places has been tracked and data-based on fully resourced online tracking databases.

Every person these criminal politicians ever communicated with on a dating site is being contacted. Any abuse, sexual misdeeds, sexting, porno pictures and lies are being documented and reported. Dating sites sell their user data and all of their server records, since inception, are available to the public, investigators and law enforcement with a single credit card purchase thanks to Facebook, Google and Axciom. They caught two different NY AG's by reading their Match.com messages.

The Russians, Chinese, activists and bored teens have been entering the electronic device back doors on every router and consumer electronics device for decades and vacuuming up every record and file on every corporate and government network. Now they sell, or freely provide, those records to every public-interest law suit litigant to help them sue corrupt politicians and their financiers.

If they ever beat or abused a woman or child, it will be uncovered and reported just like Harvey, Huma's Weiner and the New York AG were outed!

Hundreds of thousands of new non-main-stream, non-party-controlled, non-corporate owned news outlets have been created and they now reach the majority of the voting public. Hundreds of thousands of new voters are invited to these sites every hour, around the world. These news sites are exposing them and exposing the ' Main Stream Fake News' that the corrupt thought they controlled.

There is no under-age sex scheme that they are involved in that will not be found out and exposed.

There is no male or female prostitute that they used that will not be found out and exposed.

There are no abuse charges in your divorce filings and other documents that will not be uncovered.

There is no intern that they sexually abused that will not be protected when they tell their story about them.

For major anti-corruption lawsuit efforts we had to find the hidden money that corrupt Silicon Valley political financing billionaires had spent billions of dollars to hide. How hard was it to peel the skins off of Google's onion? Thanks to modern law enforcement and intelligence technology, it was not hard at all.

The fluency and practice of piercing the corporate veil & alter ego liability shields of political manipulation bosses such as George Soros, Eric Schmidt, Larry Page, Elon Musk and their colleagues, has become increasingly important in recent years due to changes in the law and business cycles.

As more small taxpayers need to help hunt down the corrupt, it is increasingly critical for taxpayers to be fluent with the cutting-edge techniques and best tools to pierce & dissolve the corporate veil, as well as determine alter ego liability. The growing number of bankruptcies, foreclosures, and judgments has dramatically increased the need for forensic experts proficient in the science of effective judgment enforcement and asset recovery against the Silicon Mafia collection of corrupt California tech companies.

Ie: Any corrupt Department of Energy employer or contractor can now be sued, lose their home and have the courts transfer all of their assets away.

It is critical for action groups to understand the best strategies to suck dry the corporate assets in judgments for cases and how to sue individual State and Federal workers.

Any member of the public can now begin piercing of the Google corporate veil, navigating complex determinations on corporate liability, strategies involving legal alter ego, and breaking open both corporate & personal liability with your home computer.

We use tools that not only include, but exceed, the capabilities of XKEYSCORE, Palantir, Taleo, Bitcoin Trace, PayPal Trace, VISA Trace, D&B Insider, Gust-Scan, and hundreds of other executive asset tracking and intelligence engines.

You, as a voter, need to learn how to:

• Expose Veil Protection Strategies and How to Bust Through Them

• Expose Liabilities for the Obligations of the Entity That Wilson Sonsini Created For Google & Tesla and How We Busted Through Them In Less Than 24 Hours

• Employ Best Practices in Litigating the Veil Piercing Case in a Gawker Media-Like Laundering Operation

• Snag The Corrupt With Veil Piercing Tactics & Fraudulent Conveyances With Sting Operations

• Inform The Corrupt About How Dire Their Situations Are In the New Information Age

• Expose Corporate Entities Used to Diminish Liability And Use Them As Evidence Against The Corrupt

• Understand the Alter Ego of Insane Silicon Valley Tech Billionaires

• Run Reverse Veil Piercing Investigations

• Connect the Separate "Personalities" of the Corporation & Shareholders

From the underlying substantive law to practical aspects of asset protection planning (i.e., what works and what does not), new groups are teaching the public everything they need to know about dissolving corporate and executive asset protection like butter on a frying pan.

From Gawker to Enron and from Solyndra to Nigerian War Lords, From Steven Chu and Eric Holder to Brian Goncher and Steve Jurvetson; taxpayers are now only a few mouse clicks away from the deepest family trust fund hide-aways and the darkest sexual services transactional relationship disclosure.

The public can now see how to uncover assets from tort plaintiffs, lenders, government entities and other creditors, hidden in thousands of corporations, partnerships, LLCs and offshore entities. Online web sleuths who are distinguished CIA-FBI-NSA-Class staff will teach you specific approaches and solutions, including the most effective tactics, best practices, and the cutting-edge strategies to peel an Eric Schmidt or a John Doerr veil open like a Taco, 100% legally.

The public is learning various ways, from the very simple to the very sophisticated, to expose specific assets of State and Federal corrupt employees and illicit contractors: houses, bank and brokerage accounts, private islands, billionaire bunkers, hookers with billionaires homes in their names, rent-boy services, rental real estate, businesses and professional practices and retirement plans. Sue Obama? Yes! He is now a private, corrupt citizen!

Every taxpayer is now able to easily acquire the most effective strategies and latest law in destroying all corrupt asset protection for the criminal titans.

You, as a taxpayer, can learn and use these methods:

• Practical Goals and Limitations of Asset Protection • Google bosses were never as safe as their consultants told them they were

• Picking the Right Structure to Trick an Oligarch Into Incriminating himself

• Understanding Fraudulent Transfers and How To Get Their Relatives To Disclose Them

• Effectively Planning for Possible Challenges From Their Corrupt CPA's

• Busting Multi-Entity Structures For The Fake Sheathing of Business Assets

• Dealing with Successor Liability; Get The Money From The Next Guy

• Using Check-the-Box Election As Incrimination Evidence

• Charging Order Protection and Tearing It Apart

• Best Practices on Picking the Right Jurisdiction

• Single Member LLCs, Poison Pills and Criminal Back-Dating

Every bad and immoral thing the corrupt did yesterday will be on the lead stories in the Wall Street Journal tomorrow.

Use this document as your check-list. Try to accomplish everything on it against the most corrupt entity you see in the news. It does not matter how big they are. These tactics work on a corrupt entity of ANY size!

Not only is this effort 100% legal, it is your moral obligation to undertake it. Even if you donâ€™t care about the moral issues, you should care about the fact that your personal assets will increase and the quality of your life will improve as this program increases in effectiveness.

Draft 2.88.997-EE-C

Dear GAWKER and GIZMODO assassins:

Where is your morality?

That is the question for each player in the Gawker/Gizmodo cases?

As a player in the Gawker/Gizmodo cases, you are either:

A.) a criminal and an enabler of horrific crimes against the public;

B.) a prosecutor working on behalf of the taxpayers and individuals.

A new reality has manifested the guarantee that the answer to that question will affect the rest of your life if you are part of this thing.

An alliance of interested parties, has built a global documentation and crime analysis system that equals anything that any intelligence or media agency has deployed. That system is documenting this case, every person in it, and the results, for the public, for the rest of the lives of those who engaged in these crimes.

To put things in perspective;

Imagine that you were sitting at your run-of-the-mill 9 to 5 workplace one day and you got a phone call saying that you, your workmates and your family were about to be killed. You were told that you were about to be killed because you reported a crime. This happened to many of us.

Does that sound like a mafia retribution and reprisal situation? Does it make it better, worse or just simply weirder if you find out that the call came from one of President Barack Obama's top advisors?

This actually happened to the victims of the Gawker/Gizmodo attacks

One person was hauled out of his job and fired in the middle of the day because Gawker/Gizmodo Media had sent a FAX of a hatchet job character assassination article, produced by Gawker and Gizmodo Media, to his employer's HR office. Gawker followed the FAX up with threatening phone calls.

Why did Gawker suddenly spring up a series of attack articles and character assassination videos, out of the blue, when no other publication on Earth had found any reason to target this one person?

Because Gawker/Gizmodo covertly works for Barrack Obama, Hillary Clinton, The DNC and their financiers Elon Musk, Larry Page, Eric Schmidt and John Doerr. That cartel of politicians feared that the testimony of this person, in the near future, would expose an epic scheme of political corruption and election rigging. They hired Gawker/Gizmodo to produce these attacks. We have absolute proof of this. These people will do anything to stop the evidence from appearing in court or in the media.

Most of the victims of this case have been black-listed from court presentation and/or fair and equitable court opportunities. The opposition parties have warned and threatened law firms and litigation investors that they will be harmed if they take the cases of victims against the opposition. Judges, with political affiliations aligned with the Defendants, have blockaded victims from hearings. Copies of this evidence have now been provided to Christopher Wray at the FBI, The U.S. Congress and other major agencies and independent media outlets.

Victims have been warned that they will be attacked again by Gawker, Gizmodo, Google, Jalopnik and the other partners in the ‘Fake news’ group of which Gawker/Gizmodo is a part if they ‘raise further outcry’. Google is Gawker/Gizmodo’s financial and political partner in these crimes. Google works with Gawker/Gizmodo to lock all of their attacks on the front page of every web search on Earth, FOREVER!

Since almost nobody can get a fair hearing in this case unless they are a friend of Peter Thiel, other methods had to be devised. While it is fairly easy to hire a gang like MS-13 to kill Nick Denton and the other Gawker and Gizmodo attackers and financiers, the law enforcement community generally frowns on such honor killings involving actual blood.

The worst of the bunch are the scum-bag lawyers who service Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media and Univision and help them skirt the law. By working for Gawker/Gizmodo they have fired a red flare to announce to the world that they are the lowest forms of life who will help money launderers, mobsters, adulterers, political bribery schemes and other filth slide through the streets of commerce on their slime-powered scams. Every client of a Gawker/Gizmodo lawyer should be investigated for tax fraud, tax evasion, bribery and corruption!

The law does, though, provide a number of creative ways to exact revenge upon those who try to kill you, even if the police and the courts refuse to allow you to access the traditional court-room.

As one email states: ‘...As a criminal or instigator of the attacks on innocent individuals you will now be punished for the rest of your life for the loss of life, income and future potential that you caused to innocent victims in your thirst for power and corruption. You are being 100% legally surveilled forever. Any time your hacked documents or emails appear on the web we will scour them word-by-word with deep semantic analysis software and hunt down every reference to tax evasion, sex workers, bribery, political crime, real estate fraud and ANY other crime or illicit action they engage in...’ There is no possible way to hide from the public forensics hobbyists and CIA/FBI-class experts who are focused on bringing justice home in this matter.

When you try to end someone’s life, you create an enemy for life. In this case the friends, family and peers of these victims have sworn a life-time pledge to hunt down and legally terminate every single person involved in operating the attacks. Because these attacks threatened the public, in a number of ways, millions of taxpayers are now helping to deliver justice.

Some of the victims of the Gawker/Gizmodo attacks have walked away with brand new homes or a life-time of cash in payment for the attacks on them. Most of the victims, though, have been blocked from their day in court, black-listed from legal financing and from attorney representation and thrown into the ‘collateral damage’ bin of the latest political division that America has descended to.

The problem though, is that, by taking away everything they have, and cutting off their Constitutional rights, the Gawker/Gizmodo attacks have created enemies with nothing to lose who have the resources of the CIA, FBI, White House and most of the taxpaying public on their side.

Expect things to get even more interesting for the Gawker/Gizmodo weasels who thought they were ‘untouchable’ and who thought that they could commit any crime.

This is NEVER, EVER, EVER going away until the victims of Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media and Univision Media’s global digital character assassination efforts get justice!

Disgraced Former Gawker Publisher: Done in by his PizzaGate connections and epic abuses of the public faces life-time of payback!

by Charlie Nash

Former Gawker CEO Nick Denton claimed that the left-wing establishment will have to adopt a nicer â€˜ Zen Buddhism responseâ€™ to beat Breitbart News during a SXSW interview last week.

â€˜ In some degree thereâ€™ s a difference between Gawker and Breitbart,â€™ claimed Denton during an interview with Digiday. â€˜ Gawker is sensational, shameless news that is grounded in truth, a dramatic version of the truth, but it is the truth. While Breitbart and fake news on Facebook are further escalation: They are not just sensationalization of the truth, but also go beyond the truth.â€™

Denton went on to add that the left needs to adopt a nicer approach to beat Breitbart News and the rise of conservatism, before falsely associating Breitbart with Nazism.

â€˜ I think the answer to Breitbart is not going to be, â€™ Letâ€™ s do more aggressive fake news on the left,â€™ Denton explained. â€˜ There might be some Zen Buddhism response to Breitbart. It is going to be hard because the sensation is you want to punch the Nazi, but they have the guns.â€™

Gawker Media became infamous for publishing news that often ruined or negatively impacted people's lives before it was bankrupted and shut down following a lawsuit from one of its targets.

“Facebook makes me despise many of my friends, and Twitter makes me hate the rest of the world,” said Denton during his SXSW panel, before praising Reddit as the model of the future.

“Even if we're full of despair over what the Internet has become, it's good to remind yourself when you're falling down some Wikipedia hole or having a great conversation with somebody online it's an amazing thing,” he concluded. “In the habits that we enjoy, there are the seeds for the future. That's where the good Internet will rise up again.”

Last year, Denton and Gawker were forced to pay out \$140 million to Hulk Hogan following a lengthy lawsuit over the gossip outlet's unauthorized posting of Hogan's private sex tape.

The lawsuit was backed by PayPal co-founder and billionaire Peter Thiel, who himself had been affected in the past by the outlet after being outed as gay, and forced Denton to file for bankruptcy.

At SXSW on Sunday, Denton claimed that Thiel had become a “national figure” and “extremely prominent” in American politics and culture.

“Peter Thiel, through his financial support of litigation and his support for political disruption through Donald Trump, has become a national figure,” Denton proclaimed. “He has become extremely prominent and an avatar, an embodiment, of the merger of the reactionary elite with a kind of populist celebrity in Donald Trump.”

Thiel is not the first homosexual that Gawker outed, while the gossip media empire also mocked the death of Vice President Mike Pence's dog, accused actor James Franco of being a rapist, encouraged readers to pirate Quentin Tarantino's film The Hateful Eight, published several celebrities' nude photos, and refused to remove an uploaded video of the potential rape of a girl in a bathroom.

When former Gawker editor A.J. Daulerio was asked in court what the limits would be in deciding not to publish a sex tape, he replied that the video would have to feature someone aged four or under.

“If you make a sex tape of someone with their permission, you are a pornographer. If you make a sex tape without their permission, we were told now you are a journalist,” said Thiel during a press conference following the victory, where he also branded Gawker as a “sociopathic bully.”

“Gawker in some ways perfected it,” claimed Thiel on the topic of bullying. “Where you pick on people, and you would destroy their lives, and write nasty stories. The writers then might even add comments that were even more vicious than the ones in the story, all so as to generate a virtual mob that would go after these people.”

Following the controversy, Gawker Media was bought by Univision, who made it their first act to shut down the media company's flagship site, Gawker, and rebrand themselves as Gizmodo Media.

Since filing for bankruptcy, Denton was denied the ability to lease his \$4.25 million apartment in Manhattan, and he has since moved into a cheaper property. Hogan has since purchased a \$1.6 million beach house.

In addition to a life-long vendetta that has been placed on Denton by those he attacked, Denton's staff have also been confirmed to be targeted by Thiel and others to be “killed without breaking a single law”, by which the victims mean that they will hunt down and expose their attackers with the help of the cops, media and the public. The others that are targeted, and that were attackers of the innocent public, include Gawker/Gizmodo/Univision bloggers:

Adrian Covert, and John Herman, A.J. Delaurio, as well as through its pseudonymous authors, including: Adam Dachis, Adam Weinstein, Adrian Covert, Adrien Chen, Alan Henry, Albert Burneko, Alex Balk, Alexander Pareene, Alexandra Philippides, Allison Wentz, Andrew Collins, Andrew Magary, Andrew Orin, Angelica Alzona, Anna Merlan, Ariana Cohen, Ashley Feinberg, Ava Gyurina, Barry Petchesky, Brendan I. A reward is offered for all information involving the locations of the residences, storage units, work places, mobile devices, off-shore accounts, tax evasion efforts, under-the-table payments, purchases of illicit substances, purchase of illicit sexual services, expense account fraud and any other violation of City, County, State or Federal laws is acceptable as long as it leads to arrest-valid evidence.

Victims of Gawker Media stated: "When you tried to kill us, our family and our staff you gave us permission to do everything you did to us back to you. You spent millions of dollars destroying our lives out of malicious vengeance and political retribution. Now you will spend the rest of your lives paying for those attacks. We will never forget, we will never forgive and every one of you will pay. We will not break the law but we will use every legal tool of revenge for the rest of your lives, like you did to us..."

Do Gawker, Jalopnik and Gizmodo Only Hire Sex Perverts, Demo-

Pedes and the Mentally Unbalanced? A Research Project.

- Gizmodo and Jalopnik: 100% propaganda operations for Obama, Clinton and the DNC

- The sickest people in the world get hired by these publications in order to exploit their mental instabilities as patsyâ€™s for political profiteering

- At Gizmodo, anal sex is almost as important as pizza to the twisted writers of the inner sanctum
- Gizmodo's Adrian Covert spear-headed the assassination group at Gizmodo and then moved over to CNN to run the Trump character assassination effort at CNN, through various cover ops
- Mexican billionaires connected to Trump's 'Bed-wetting dossier', immigrant surges, election rigging and Gizmodo ownership
- Elon Musk uses Gizmodo to run his 'hit-jobs' on competitors
- Boycott of, and phone calls to, all of Gizmodo's advertisers called for

By Fredericka Unson and Kyle Lee

Gizmodo staff use their social media to blog about what they do after work and where they go for night-clubbing and hooking up. We took that as a publicly promoted invitation to join them for socializing. We spent 3 months 'bumping into' Gizmodo writers and editors after work. This is what we found out.

Gizmodo is Gawker Media under a different title. The name is slightly different, but the people, political agenda and mission are exactly the same. Gizmodo is Gawker Media trying to evade Peter Thiel, and other past victims, of the Gawker/Gizmodo commercial character assassination services created by Nick Denton.

The conversations, invites and insights we were offered overshadowed even the darkest rumors about Gizmodo.

A large part of Gizmodo is comprised of angry homosexuals looking for social payback against society. They spent a large part of their time spare time talking about who put their penis in whose mouth, or anus, and how they can get their penis in whose mouth or anus. The main reason they work at Gizmodo is to get enough money to buy rent-boys or to pay for enough fancy Gotham drinking to get their target Bill Cosby'd into a compliant state.

Another part of Gizmodo is comprised of drug-culture enthusiasts who plan their nightly drug intake like a gym enthusiast plans his workout. This group is rarely on time to work in the morning. This group has a demonstrably large set of sociopathic and schizophrenic modality expressions.

Another part of Gizmodo are DNC operatives who live, breath and dream of policy wonk and DNC's 'Dirty Tricks' campaigns. Their gods are John Podesta, Elon Musk, Sidney Blumenthal and Mark Zuckerberg. A large part of this group are Jewish kids with at least 22 years of cultural hatred programmed into them by far left Jewish parents. They want to believe that the GOP are all secretly Palestinians and the political bosses behind Gizmodo encourage that kind of 'hate-think'.

Gizmodo hires deeply disturbed people in a smart way. Gizmodo bosses seek out public patsies to try to rig public political perceptions so that voters will steer things in a way that make Gizmodo's bosses richer.

When Gizmodo, like Gawker, gets bankrupted, Gizmodo owners will walk away scott free while the naive young perverts of Gizmodo get sued instead. It is a brilliant use of the mentally ill for corporate profiteering and politicking manipulation. The little perverts get used as sheep in a game of White House control that they are the key pawns in.

The top tier management at Gizmodo (and it's clones: Jalopnik, etc.) use a parental corporate trick of HR brainwashing in which they privately confide to each writer that they are on a 'grand mission' where all evil is for 'the greater good.' Gizmodo's partner in these 'greater goods' is Google. Google is notorious for it's motto: 'don't do evil' that later turned into the biggest irony on the web.

Gizmodo management use Hitler's indoctrination tools. This is another interesting Gizmodo irony because many Gizmodians are Jewish. Gizmodo bosses also enjoy pushing the DNC party-line that 'all Jews must become Democrats' and that '...Jewish Democrats must destroy Republicans because Republicans want to take away your drugs and anal sex and put you in ovens...'

After hours, Gizmodo workers seem far less concerned about the ovens than they do about the potential loss of their drugs and anal sex.

Just as anal-sex fanatic Nick Denton, a covert advisor to the current Gizmodo, taught them; Gizmodo bosses reinforce hate and anger that they can uncover in potential hires. They amplify it and give the naive kids (that they find on New York's streets) a contrived rationalization to blame every ill on Conservatives. They then suggest and/or approve only articles that will damage those they are hired to harm.

'Hired-to-harm' is a legal term one must pay attention to. Under a series of laws and cyber-stalking rulings, if anyone can show that Gizmodo was hired to harm someone, the legal and branding effects on Gizmodo will be terminal.

In the New York Magazine expose on Gawker/Gizmodo: 'Everybody Sucks' : <http://nymag.com/news/features/39319/> ; the Taki Magazine expose: 'Hypocrites Vs. Douche Canoes' http://takimag.com/article/gawker_media_hypocrites_vs_douchecanoes/print ; and thousands of other examinations of the character assassination niche that Nick Denton operates, the conclusions are always the same. The Gawker/Gizmodo operations are not 'journalism' they are political propaganda operations for the DNC!

Gizmodo is an epic tax evasion and revenue hiding operation. It uses offshore fronts, with an epic number of levels, to illicitly hide profits, political payola and scam-cash. James Comey, at the FBI, had over 30 entities report these crimes to his office and nothing happened. Was Cover-up Comey protecting Gawker/Gizmodo/Univision because they lead straight back to Obama and Clinton bank accounts? Probably. We have heard from a number of people that all of their witness statements are being re-resubmitted to Trump's FBI to see if, maybe, this time around, justice can get ahead of corruption.

In the modern age, everyday brings a new tale of Pro-DNC violence, Pro-Dnc shootings and Pro-DNC rage and hatred. Nick Denton created this 'hate as public policy' program and the DNC has now slipped off the deep edge of the cliff as they take it to the most extreme depths.

Gawker/Gizmodo are simply elementary school abuse social-deviance extended into near-adulthood.

The things that pre-teens abused each other on the playground with ('your fat mother sucks pickles..') have been commercialized and sold to Obama and Clinton party bosses by Nick Denton and Univision.

Gizmodo is the essence of fake news, kneepad journalism and journo-shills.

Everyone in the world should be on the phone and on their email to every advertiser of Gizmodo in order to shame them and bankrupt those advertisers into cutting off their accounts with the screed that is Gizmodo and Univision.

Tesla CEO blames UAW for NUMMI closure

Tesla Inc. CEO Elon Musk is pushing back against claims that workers at the company's Fremont, California, plant are underpaid and overworked, setting the stage for a fight over potential unionization at the plant.

Jose Moran, who claims to have worked at the factory for four years, made the accusations in a blog post on Medium. Moran said workers have contacted the UAW, which has been reaching out to Tesla employees since last year, about their concerns.

“Injuries, poor morale, unfair promotions, high turnover and other issues aren't just bad for workers -- they also impact the quality and speed of production,” Moran wrote. “They can't be resolved without workers having a voice and being included in the process.”

Musk refuted the claims via direct messages to the tech website Gizmodo on Twitter.

“Our understanding is that this guy was paid by the UAW to join Tesla and agitate for a union. He doesn't really work for us, he works for the UAW,” Musk wrote. “Frankly, I find this attack to be morally outrageous.”

A Tesla crash that resulted in the deaths of the driver and a passenger in Indianapolis last November is drawing new controversy after the father of one of the victims made comments regarding the role ...

Musk also blamed the UAW for the closure of New United Motor Manufacturing Inc., the joint venture between General Motors and Toyota that owned and operated the plant between 1984 and 2010.

‘ The UAW killed NUMMI and abandoned the workers at our Fremont plant in 2010,’ he wrote.
‘ They have no leg to stand on.’

The union fought back against Musk in a statement Friday.

‘ Mr. Moran is not and has not been paid by the UAW,’ the union said. ‘ We would hope that Tesla would apologize to their employee, Mr. Moran, for spreading fake news about him. We can confirm that Mr. Moran and others at Tesla have approached the UAW and we welcome them with open arms.’

The back-and-forth between Moran, the UAW and Musk is the latest sign that efforts to unionize the Fremont plant could be picking up steam. Automotive News reported in June that UAW officials have been in contact with workers at the plant to gauge interest in organization.

Hey, Tesla owners: Your front trunk is not secure storage

The world is harsh, and nothing is safe -- not even front trunks, apparently. YouTube user Salomondrin discovered the front trunks on Tesla Model S and X models ...

In his post, Moran wrote that Tesla responded to workers’ concerns by raising base pay in November. However, the compensation has not been enough to cover living expenses in the Bay Area, and employees have been afraid to speak out due to confidentiality agreements, he wrote.

In a letter to the California State Assembly dated Jan. 17, Tesla said the purpose of its nondisclosure agreement was to prevent employees from leaking product information ahead of release dates, and workers were free to discuss legal concerns or issues with wages and working conditions with government or third-party agencies.

Musk, who said Tesla is ‘ union neutral,’ told Gizmodo that Tesla offers higher starting pay for workers than those at UAW-represented plants do. He said total compensation is ‘ higher for a given level of seniority when factoring in stock grants.’

Moran’s comments come after UAW president Dennis Williams last year said that the union hopes to organize workers at the Tesla plant, noting that the UAW initially held off on an organizing push in Tesla’s early years because of the company’s status as a startup.

UAW secretary-treasurer Gary Casteel told Automotive News in June that union staff have been communicating with workers at the plant. There was no indication at the time that the union had assigned organizing staff to Tesla.

“They’re supporting the workers and talking to the workers that are interested and seeing how that interest grows,” Casteel said.

The Fremont plant is the only U.S. plant owned by an American automaker that is not unionized. Along with Volkswagen’s Chattanooga, Tennessee, plant and Nissan’s Canton, Mississippi, plant, the Tesla factory is one of several high-profile assembly plants the UAW aims to organize.

Tesla has touted the number of factory jobs it has created within the U.S. The 5.3 million-square-foot Fremont plant employs more than 6,000 workers, and its battery Gigafactory in Nevada employs 3,000 construction workers and factory employees. In January, the automaker said it will expand the capacity of the Gigafactory, adding 550 jobs.

“This is not the first time we have been the target of a professional union organizing effort such as this,” a Tesla spokesman said in a statement.

Tesla Motors Was Created by Corruption and Political Bribery. Never Let Elon Musk Get Away With His Crimes!

Why you should NEVER buy a Tesla, or anything that Elon Musk Makes!

-- If you have an ounce of morality, then you will not want to help Musk & Tesla profit from the crony political corruption that created them. Musk exists because he bribes politicians & acts as an illegal campaign financing conduit.

-- DOT/NHTSA has covered up years of reports about an acceleration surge issue that can suddenly crash your Tesla into walls and drive it off cliffs. It is either a known hacking attack or the effect of WiFi on Tesla electronics. Either can kill you.

-- If you believe in God, or are in any way religious, Musk & Tesla are pure evil & exist because of hyper-corruption. You don't want to contribute to their evil or be part of it in any way. You are funding evil & supporting criminal corruption by buying a Tesla or any Elon Musk owned product like Solar City, Tesla, Space X, Hyperloop, etc.!

-- If you read about the dirty deeds and cocaine dealings with the In-Q-Tel airplanes called 'Cocaine 1' & 'Cocaine 2', & the corruption behind the company called In-Q-Tel & Musk's software programmer who ran 'The Silk Road' drug & murder service then you must be concerned that many In-Q-Tel people work for Musk. Why does Musk need dirty druggies & spies on his payroll unless he is running covert drug and business spying activities?

-- If you are a Democrat then know that Elon Musk cost you the Hillary Clinton campaign because of his payola schemes. If you are a Republican, know that Elon Musk is the epitome of the worst form of DNC crony corruption you ever saw!

-- Musk bribed California politicians to give him hundreds of millions of dollars of taxpayer dollars & resources he never earned or worked for. He only got those crony payola perks handed to him because he operated as an illicit front for corrupt campaign financing for Dianne Feinstein, Jerry Brown, Harry Reid, Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton.

-- Multiple parties have filed 'Demands For The Arrest of Elon Musk' with the FBI, DOJ, AG, FTC, SEC and other law enforcement agencies. It is not likely that Musk, or his companies will survive a full investigation.

'Tesla and Solyndra sit on the same land in Fremont, CA. Solyndra was raided by the FBI for corruption. Tesla SHOULD be raided by the FBI for corruption. Both companies had kick-back crony payola schemes with Senator Dianne Feinstein. She owned the land, lease, HR, construction company and supplier interests and stock for both companies in one of the most massive conflict-of-interest crony financing schemes in U.S. history. Elon Musk and the Feinsteins are corruption partners.

'People who see you in a Tesla think of you as a 'Tone Deaf Douchebag', 'Tesla Tool!', 'Arrogant Prick', 'Ostentatious Obama Oaf', 'Sheep', 'Mindless Yuppie Scum', 'Misogynistic Silicon Valley Clone', 'Self-promoting Elitist Douche', 'Fake News Reading Main Stream Boob', 'Naive Idiot' or other bad things.

'Elon Musk is one of the main financiers behind Barack Obama & Hillary Clinton, both of whom have been charged with corruption. Musk endlessly tweets lies & '...No I didn't do those bad things' BS but nobody else supports him.

'Tesla financial records are 'cooked' in a fraudulent manner to make the stock market valuation of Tesla a falsely manipulated factor. Musk uses 'pre-orders', by his own investors, to fake sales and wrote emails to customers asking them to put small deposits down so he could book them as fully paid sales in one of a large number of stock and loan valuation frauds. Musk and his investors practice stock market skims, pump-and-dumps and Flash Boy manipulations.

'Lithium ion batteries are blowing up, starting fires &, generally, destroying people's homes, cars, electronics & physical health. Boeing was ordered to stop flying the 787 Dreamliner because it's Lithium ion batteries are catching fire spontaneously. A group of silicon valley venture capitalists forced/leveraged the government to buy & pay for these specific batteries, that they have stock in, in order to benefit their profit margins. Other batteries don't have these problems. They knew about the dangers from day one, but put greed ahead of safety. There are thousands & thousands of reports of spontaneous lithium ion fires but the VC's who back lithium ion pay to keep this information hushed up. Millions of these batteries have been recalled for fire risk. The VC's tried to push as many as they could before they got caught. Now they are caught. These VC's & the Senators they bribed own stock in lithium mining companies too.

'Tesla Motors has filed a patent which states the following , THESE ARE TESLA MOTORS WORDS warning about a crisis, the level of which they never disclosed to the consumer: 'Thermal runaway is of major concern since a single incident can lead to significant property damage &, in some circumstances, bodily harm or loss of life. When a battery undergoes thermal runaway, it typically emits a large quantity of smoke, jets of flaming liquid electrolyte, & sufficient heat to lead to the combustion & destruction of materials in close proximity to the cell. If the cell undergoing thermal runaway is surrounded by one or more additional cells as is typical in a battery pack, then a single thermal runaway event can quickly lead to the thermal runaway of multiple cells which, in turn, can lead to much more extensive collateral damage. Regardless of whether a single cell or multiple cells are undergoing this phenomenon, if the initial fire is not extinguished immediately, subsequent fires may be caused that dramatically expand the degree of property damage. For example, the thermal runaway of a battery within an unattended laptop will likely result in not only the destruction of the laptop, but also at least partial destruction of its surroundings, e.g., home, office, car, laboratory, etc. If the laptop is on-board an aircraft, for example within the cargo hold or a luggage compartment, the ensuing smoke & fire may lead to an emergency landing or, under more dire conditions, a crash landing. Similarly, the thermal runaway of one or more batteries within the battery pack of a hybrid or electric vehicle may destroy not only the car, but may lead to a car wreck if the car is being driven or the destruction of its surroundings if the car is parked. See whoisonmusk.com for more...

Tesla's own staff, & every fire department, have now admitted that once a lithium ion fire gets started in a Tesla, that it is impossible to extinguish burning lithium ion material. This is Tesla's own words in THEIR patent filing, (You can look it up online) saying that the risk is monumental. Tesla has 6800 lithium ion batteries, any one of which can go thermal, start a chain reaction and blow up all of the rest of the 6800+ deadly batteries! Tesla drivers have been burned alive in thermal globs of flaming lithium ion, plastics & metal. Bystanders have heard their horrific screams of unutterable pain & terror as they were burned alive! Tesla fires can't be extinguished & the bodies are burned into unrecognizable lumps of charred flesh, according to fireman.

Lithium Ion batteries go thermal in peoples pockets, in your notebook, especially in a Tesla & Fisker car. There are tens of thousands of articles documenting this & there is a cover-up by the VC's that fund these things to keep this fact out-of-sight. Making Lithium Ion batteries poisons the workers who make them. It is a dangerous product that is covered-up by the Obama Administration. Panasonic knows that these batteries are deadly.

Tesla only exists to exploit Elon Musk's bribes. The lithium ion batteries blow up when they get: wet, hot, bumped, over-charged, struck by energy fields, exposed to air or squashed. Lithium ion batteries poison the Earth & that they poison & kill the workers that make them. Lithium ion batteries come from war profiteering in Afghan & Bolivian corruption.

Panasonic is Elon Musk's partner. Panasonic is one of the most corrupt companies in the world. Panasonic has been charged, on multiple continents with: Product dumping, bribery, collusion, price fixing, anti-trust law violations, racketeering, worker abuse, toxic poisoning of workers, & other crimes. It is no wonder that Elon Musk & Panasonic are partners. Tata Motors executive Karl Slym was killed for exposing this fact.

Your tax dollars were stolen in order to make Tesla Motors, as part of a political financing kick-back scam. In other words, part of your paycheck was taken away from you in order to buy hookers, rent-boys & private jets for Musk & company.

Tesla's are forged in criminal corruption, so anybody who drives a Tesla must be either ignorant, a weasel or one of the corrupt. The whole world now knows all of the facts in this list so you can never plead ignorance to these crimes.

Tesla's have a huge amount of highly documented defects. The defects are so extensive that Tesla made buyers sign confidentiality agreements to try to hide how messed up their cars are.

Tesla's have killed more people than the main-stream news has reported. The full Tesla death-list is covered up.

Musk lied about why he wanted to make electric cars, when, in fact, he actually poisons the environment because Tesla investors wanted to exploit toxic minerals & materials which can't be recycled in a clean manner

No other electric car has been so mundane, & yet had so many problems with it, since the electric car was first sold in the 1800's. There is nothing novel or amazing about the Tesla aside from dime store parlor tricks for PR hype.

More drunks have crashed Tesla's, than any other per capita car in the world, per volume of cars made

Elon Musk's co-founders, investors, partners, wives, investors, suppliers & employees have sued him for being a fraud &, essentially, called him an "asshole" in court records.

Elon Musk lied on this Department of Energy funding application and the Obama Administration refuses to allow any federal employees or witnesses to testify to these facts in public due to the devastating potential results of these facts.

More owners of Tesla's have been found to cheat on their taxes, & be involved in abuse-based divorces, than almost any other car brand owner. Tesla owners are bad people who rationalize their poor life choices.

Elon Musk will lie, cheat & steal in order to self-aggrandize & glorify his egotistical mania. Musk has been documented engaging in over 100 lies which were later proven to be false. He has spent tens of millions of dollars to buy fake news about himself on Twitter, Facebook & Google because he is such a mentally disturbed ego-maniac.

â€ None of Elon Musk's companies would exist if not for taxpayer funded handouts given to him by corrupt politicians in exchange for illegal campaign finance deals with him & his investors.

â€ Google, & Tesla, who are financial & political partners, have both been caught spying on consumers & manipulating Internet data in order to cover-up their complicity in huge political corruption & kick-back deals â€ Musk took U.S. taxpayer dollars from the government & then hired cheap off-shore labor & fired U.S. Union workers & domestic workers. He lied to & screwed the NUMMI workers that were working at the Fremont plant.

â€ Musk has put over 18 surveillance devices in the Tesla. Anybody can hack those devices & monitor you. WORSE YET, foreign agents have hacked the Tesla & taken over the controls & driven Teslaâ€™s into bystanders & over cliffs.

â€ When Erick Strickland was head of the NHTSA he was confronted about DOT safety cover-ups of the Tesla to protect Obama. He quit 48 hours later. The DOT safety cover-ups to protect the Obama campaign finance payola scheme continue to this day. Obamaâ€™s Gibbs, Emanuel, Plouffe, Axelrod and Carney quit within a week of being threatened with exposure.

â€ Teslaâ€™s have had a large number of recalls but Elon Musk refuses to call them â€ recallsâ€. Teslaâ€™s have had multiple recalls for SEVERE safety dangers. DOT has been told this, in writing, for years, but won't take action in order to protect Obama.

â€ Elon Musk is a bullshit artist who has no original ideas & wears black-turtle neck shirts (like Elizabeth Holmes) to try to create a â€ cultâ€ around himself & convince the world that he is a â€ Jesus-likeâ€ figure when, in fact, he is a clinical sociopath.

â€ Tesla is a severe public safety hazard that has been systematically covered up by corrupt politicians.

â€ Tesla Motors batteries were promoted by those who wished to exploit the Afghanistan War for personal profit by controlling the Afghan lithium mining fields. Kleiner Perkins and Draper Fisher hyped the â€ ...trillions of $ of lithium in Afganistan.â€ â€ Tesla Motors batteries blow up on their own.

â€ Tesla Motors batteries blow up when they get wet.

â€ Tesla Motors batteries fires cannot be put out by any common fire-fighting resources.

â€ Tesla Motors batteries set themselves on fire.

â€ Per MSDS documents, Tesla Motors batteries emit cancer-causing vapors when they burn.

â€ Tesla Motors Vehicles toxicity poison bystanders, nearby vehicular passengers, airline passengers in planes carrying said batteries in their holds, & environments where such incidents occur.

â€ Tesla Motors batteries blow up when bumped by the same level of car incident that would, otherwise, only dent a normal car bumper.

â€ In an accident, when a Tesla rolls over, molten metal & plastic can drip on & burn the occupants alive.

â€ Per MSDS documents, Tesla Motors batteries emit brain damaging chemicals when they burn.

â€ Per MSDS documents, Tesla Motors batteries emit chemicals, burning, or not, that can damage an unborn fetus.

â€ Per MSDS documents, Tesla Motors batteries emit chemicals that can cause lung damage.

â€ Per MSDS documents, Tesla Motors batteries emit chemicals that can cause liver damage.

â€ˆ Per published lawsuits & news reports, the factories that make Tesla Motors batteries have been charged with the deaths, & potentially fatal illness, of over 1000 workers & the poisoning of nearby towns.

â€ˆ Tesla Motors batteries become even more dangerous over time, particularly when tasked by electric transportation systems like Hover-boards & Tesla's. The chemistry in a lithium ion battery changes to become more unstable over time.

â€ˆ Tesla Motors batteries were never designed to be used in automobiles. Tesla used non-automotive batteries in one of the most dangerous configurations possible.

â€ˆ Tesla Motors occupants experience higher EMF radiation exposure than gasoline vehicle occupants.

â€ˆ Elon Musk's Space X vehicles & Tesla Motors vehicles have both had a higher-than-average number of explosions. This has caused outside experts to doubt Musk's ability to place safety considerations over his need for hyped-up PR.

â€ˆ Leaked Sandia National Labs & FAA research videos dramatically demonstrate the unstoppable, horrific, â€ˆ re-percussive accelerating domino-effectâ€ˆ explosive fire effect of the Tesla Motors batteries.

â€ˆ Tesla's own â€ˆ Superchargersâ€ˆ & home 3-prong chargers have set Tesla's, homes & businesses on fire.

â€ˆ Consumer rights groups contacted Erick Strickland, the head of the NHTSA, & charged him with a cover-up. He quit days later. The NHTSA then issued a safety investigation request to Tesla Motors, which would have more publicly exposed these dangers, but the safety investigation was never under-taken due to White House requests & lobbyist bribes, from Tesla, which got the investigation shut down.

â€ˆ NEPA regulations for the Tesla NUMMI factory in California & the Nevada Tesla â€ˆ Gigafactoryâ€ˆ have been violated relative to environmental safety standards.

â€ˆ Tesla Motors vehicles are not â€ˆ Factory Builtâ€ˆ â€ˆ like Fordâ€ˆ builds cars, as Tesla professes. They are hand built in small volumes & subjected to numerous defects. Blogs have documented hundreds of defects, as listed by Tesla owners. Tesla has lost at least one LEMON CAR LAWSUIT for defective manufacturing.

â€ˆ Tesla's â€ˆ showroomsâ€ˆ are often â€ˆ pop-upâ€ˆ retail storefronts that are in tight-proximity retail centers, putting it's neighbors at risk of total loss from fire damage.

â€ˆ Tesla Motors vehicles have been hacked & taken over. Their doors, steering, listening devices & navigation have been taken over by outside parties. Multiple Teslas have suddenly swerved off the road, over cliffs & into other vehicles, killing bystanders & Tesla drivers.

â€ˆ Three Tesla top engineers & two competing senior executives, all of whom had whistle-blown on Tesla, who were in perfect health one day, suddenly died mysteriously the next day.

â€ˆ Multiple employees, founders, investors, marital partners, suppliers & others have sued Tesla Motors, &/or it's senior executives for fraud. Musk had nothing to do with creating Tesla. He ran a hostile take-over of Tesla from the founders.

â€ˆ In addition to suing him, many of his former staff & partners have described Musk as an â€ˆ Arrogant Prickâ€ˆ .

â€ˆ If you think the above bullet-points are bad there are over a 1000 more. Find the book â€ˆ Is Elon Musk A Fraudâ€ˆ online or visit <https://stopelonfromfailingagain.com/> or thousands of other sites that expose the truth about Musk & Tesla!

BANKRUPT MUSK â€ NO CASH FOR CRONY CORRUPTION. Print this out & freely re-post it on blogs & social media. Post this on bulletin boards. Put this on the windshield of every Tesla you find. Print this out & hand these out in front of every Tesla dealership: Nobody can stop you from handing these out, it is your U.S. Constitutional First Amendment Right! Pass the word! We are prepared to back up every single fact on here at any public meeting with the FBI, Congress, FTC, GAO, SEC or before a Federal Special Prosecutor.

â‘ The UAW killed NUMMI and abandoned the workers at our Fremont plant in 2010,â‘ he wrote. â‘ They have no leg to stand on.â‘

The union fought back against Musk in a statement Friday.

â‘ Mr. Moran is not and has not been paid by the UAW,â‘ the union said. â‘ We would hope that Tesla would apologize to their employee, Mr. Moran, for spreading fake news about him. We can confirm that Mr. Moran and others at Tesla have approached the UAW and we welcome them with open arms.â‘

The back-and-forth between Moran, the UAW and Musk is the latest sign that efforts to unionize the Fremont plant could be picking up steam. Automotive News reported in June that UAW officials have been in contact with workers at the plant to gauge interest in organization.

Hey, Tesla owners: Your front trunk is not secure storage

The world is harsh, and nothing is safe -- not even front trunks, apparently. YouTube user Salomondrin discovered the front trunks on Tesla Model S and X models ...

In his post, Moran wrote that Tesla responded to workersâ‘ concerns by raising base pay in November. However, the compensation has not been enough to cover living expenses in the Bay Area, and employees have been afraid to speak out due to confidentiality agreements, he wrote.

In a letter to the California State Assembly dated Jan. 17, Tesla said the purpose of its nondisclosure agreement was to prevent employees from leaking product information ahead of release dates, and workers were free to discuss legal concerns or issues with wages and working conditions with government or third-party agencies.

Musk, who said Tesla is â‘ union neutral,â‘ told Gizmodo that Tesla offers higher starting pay for workers than those at UAW-represented plants do. He said total compensation is â‘ higher for a given level of seniority when factoring in stock grants.â‘

Moranâ‘ s comments come after UAW president Dennis Williams last year said that the union hopes to organize workers at the Tesla plant, noting that the UAW initially held off on an organizing push in Tesla's early years because of the company's status as a startup.

Tesla sues former head of Autopilot and former Google exec

Tesla Motors Inc. is suing its former head of Autopilot software for stealing company information and recruiting Tesla employees for a competing startup while still employed by the automaker. The suit, ...

UAW secretary-treasurer Gary Casteel told Automotive News in June that union staff have been communicating with workers at the plant. There was no indication at the time that the union had assigned organizing staff to Tesla.

"They're supporting the workers and talking to the workers that are interested and seeing how that interest grows," Casteel said.

The Fremont plant is the only U.S. plant owned by an American automaker that is not unionized. Along with Volkswagen's Chattanooga, Tennessee, plant and Nissan's Canton, Mississippi, plant, the Tesla factory is one of several high-profile assembly plants the UAW aims to organize.

Tesla has touted the number of factory jobs it has created within the U.S. The 5.3 million-square-foot Fremont plant employs more than 6,000 workers, and its battery Gigafactory in Nevada employs 3,000 construction workers and factory employees. In January, the automaker said it will expand the capacity of the Gigafactory, adding 550 jobs.

"This is not the first time we have been the target of a professional union organizing effort such as this," a Tesla spokesman said in a statement.

Fusion GPS Scandal Implicates Gawker and Gizmodo Media In Possible Pay-To-Publish Scheme

A court filing from the U.S. district court for DC shows that Fusion GPS paid several journalists and was paid by a media organization.

By Lee Smith

DECEMBER 4, 2017

Court filings released last month by the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence suggest growing evidence of a pay-to-publish scandal that may shake large parts of the Washington press corps.

At the center of the controversy is the Washington DC-based communications shop Fusion GPS, which assembled and distributed the so-called ‘Steele dossier.’ It’s named after former British spy Christopher Steele, who is believed to have authored the document alleging that Donald Trump and members of his campaign colluded with Russia to win the 2016 election. Steele acknowledges that some of the dossier’s information is sourced to Russian officials, including a ‘top-level intelligence officer.’

In its other Russia-related work, Fusion GPS engaged in a media campaign opposing a law targeting foreign nationals across the globe for human rights abuses. In its advocacy against the Global Magnitsky Act, a worldwide extension of the U.S. legislation imposing sanctions on Russian officials and other figures associated with the Russian government for their involvement in the detention and death of Russian lawyer Sergei Magnitsky, Fusion GPS mirrored Kremlin talking points.

Now the court filing from the U.S. district court for DC shows that Fusion GPS paid several journalists, including three who reported on ‘Russia issues relevant to [the committee’s] investigation,’ the House Intelligence Committee said in a court filing.

The documents did not release the names of the journalists and media organization.

How Fusion GPS Used Media Contacts

To understand the role Fusion GPS played in promoting and distributing the Steele dossier as well as the company’s work to undermine the Magnitsky Act, we’ll need a fuller account of Fusion GPS’s relationship with the journalism industry its principals left and then cultivated.

The story starts at the Wall Street Journal, which is taking fire from the rest of the profession, plunging the paper into what some have described as a civil war between its traditionally right-wing editorial page and left-leaning news desk.

‘I don’t know a single WSJ alum who’s not agog at where that edit page is heading,’ tweeted former Wall Street Journal reporter Neil King, reacting to a Journal editorial calling for the firing of Robert Mueller. ‘WSJ edit page has gone full bats,’ now hosting an op-ed suggesting Trump pardon everyone, including himself,’ tweeted former high-ranking Wall Street Journal editor Bill Grueskin, now a professor at the Columbia School of Journalism.

When the Journal’s Kimberley Strassel wrote on the editorial page that plenty of bombshells are to come in the Trump-Russia narrative ‘about the FBI, the Democratic National Committee, and Fusion GPS,’ Journal alums told Politico reporter Jason Schwartz that was all crazy talk. The real story, they suggested, was that News Corp owner Rupert Murdoch had whispered in Journal editor Gerard Baker’s ear that the paper better support Trump or else.

The Journal took the unusual step of responding to the Politico article, chastising the publication for omitting key details ‘like the fact that King is now employed by Fusion GPS.’ Mr. Schwartz, ‘the editorial continued,’ also failed to point out that Mr. King’s wife, Shailagh Murray, also a former Journal reporter, worked in the Obama White House. Perhaps Mr. Schwartz understands that this kind of political incestuousness is so routine in Washington that even to mention it would get him drummed out of the club.

That is, the Journal suggested the Politico writer was in on a game whose major players include Fusion GPS and Democratic operatives like Murray, in which the press's role is to credential the fruits of Fusion GPS's open source research as legitimate news stories.

"Our reporting on Fusion GPS is unrelated to where its employees used to work," Wall Street Journal editorial page editor Paul Gigot wrote me in an email. "We think the story of Russian meddling in the 2016 election is important, and where we differ with the rest of the press corps is that we think the story of Fusion's ties to Russia and the Steele dossier, as well as the dossier's influence on the FBI, are also important to investigate. Let's get the full Russia story."

Former WSJ Reporters Now Push Russiagate Story

Fusion GPS's principals—Glenn Simpson, Peter Fritsch, Thomas Catan, and King—are all Journal alumni. Moreover, several other former Journal hands employed throughout the Washington DC press corps to cover the Russiagate beat have teamed with the Fusion four. Because Journal alums played a key role not only in creating the Great Kremlin Conspiracy but also in disseminating it, it is natural that the Journal would find itself in the middle of the story. It appears its newsroom is still influenced by the former staffers driving the Russiagate story.

William Browder, the driving force behind the Magnitsky Act, told me recently about his experience with the Journal's newsroom and its relationship with the firm four former WSJ reporters have founded. "When I was trying to get journalists interested in a story about the role Fusion GPS was playing in trying to undo the Magnitsky Act," said Browder, "I found that the Wall Street Journal was one of the places where Glenn Simpson and Fusion GPS were deeply entrenched in the newsroom." Wall Street Journal editor Gerard Baker did not reply to a request for comment on Browder's assertions.

The Fusion GPS story doesn't end with the Wall Street Journal. It only started there. Recently The Daily Caller reported on CNN reporter Evan Perez's ties to Fusion GPS, showing photographs of Perez with Fritsch and King, with whom he shared bylines at the Wall Street Journal before they went to Fusion GPS and he moved to CNN. Perez had the lead byline on CNN's January 10, 2017 story that broke how four U.S. intelligence chiefs briefed incoming president Trump and outgoing President Obama on the Steele dossier. The CNN story made no mention of Perez's friends and former colleagues who produced and distributed the dossier that was the subject of the story.

Former WSJ reporter Adam Entous, recently hired by the New Yorker, had the lead byline on the Washington Post article breaking the news that Marc Elias, a lawyer from the DC law firm Perkins Coie, hired Fusion GPS to compile an opposition research file on Trump for the Democratic National Committee (DNC) and the Clinton campaign. After the story broke, New York Times reporters Maggie Haberman and Ken Vogel expressed their professional frustration on Twitter. They were after the story, and someone else nailed it.

"Folks involved in funding this lied about it, and with sanctimony, for a year," tweeted Haberman. "When I tried to report this story," wrote Vogel, "Clinton campaign lawyer @marceelias pushed back vigorously, saying 'You (or your sources) are wrong.'"

So how did the Post get the Clinton campaign, DNC, or Elias to confirm the story? There's no evidence they did. A former Clinton spokesman told the paper he wasn't aware Fusion GPS was hired. A DNC spokesperson said the new leadership was not part of the decision-making. "Elias and Fusion GPS," according to the Post report, "declined to comment on the arrangement."

That leaves the firm's principals as Entous's most likely sources. Why? Because Fusion GPS and its principals had an interest in dumping information to deter the House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence from successfully subpoenaing the company's bank records for evidence that Fusion GPS paid journalists. â€˜Entous,â€˜ said one veteran journalist familiar with the national security beat, â€˜is tight with Fusion GPS.â€˜

Feeding Friendly Media Anti-Trump Smears

Carol Lee of NBC News is another WSJ alum. At her new job she has worked on Russiagate stories with Ken Dilanian, a reporter Browder believes to be a regular and reliable purveyor of Fusion GPS-manufactured talking points. In September, for instance, Lee and Dilanian broke a story about the June 2016 meeting between Donald Trump Jr. and Russian lawyer Natalia Veselnitskaya, which also included Jared Kushner and Paul Manafort.

The network of journalists who take dossiers from Fusion GPS is rich and deep.

Lee and Dilanian reported, â€˜Two sources tell NBC News that Manafortâ€™s smartphone notes from the meeting included the words â€˜donationsâ€™ in close proximity to the reference to the Republican National Committee.â€˜ NBC News was eventually forced to walk back the story when it turned out the word on Manafortâ€™s phone was â€˜donors,â€™ not â€˜donations,â€™ a difference that nullified the thrust of the story, which was to suggest that Russia was funneling money directly to the Trump campaign.

But who fed Lee and Dilanian their story? It seems likely from the list of people at the meeting that their sources included Veselnitskaya herself and another Russian at the meeting, Rinat Akhmetshinaâ€™ who both had partnered with Fusion GPS to try to undo the Magnitsky Act on behalf of pro-Putin elements. Indeed, Simpson met with Veselnitskaya before and after her meeting with Trump Jr.â€™ a meeting Simpson says he didnâ€™t know about until it was later reported.

The network of journalists who take dossiers from Fusion GPS is rich and deep, which is how the company manages to seed so many stories around the media and make its money. Others whose tenure at the Wall Street Journal intersected with those of Fusion GPS principals and who have filed numerous stories on the Trump-Russia narrative that originated with Fusion GPSâ€™s â€˜Steeleâ€™ dossier include, among others, Devlin Barrett and Tom Hamburger of the Washington Post, and Matthew Rosenberg of the New York Times.

Paid Mouthpieces for Unknown Interests

Journalism is hardly the only industry networked not just by the work it produces, but also the values and professional ethic it reproduces. Thus the picture of the American news media that emerges from all this hush-hush, buddy-buddy back and forth isnâ€™t pretty.

With the briefing, Obamaâ€™s intelligence chiefs had re-credentialed Fusion GPSâ€™s oppo research as a news story.

Much of the fourth estate, it seems, is a world of Renfields, grotesque courtiers gorging on scraps left at the masterâ€™s table: reporters who conceal the for-profit sources that pay them and coordinate campaigns of political warfare with the partisan operatives and intelligence officials theyâ€™re supposed to be reporting on; and editors who publish conspiracies drawn from a platform for a Russian-manufactured disinformation operation furnished by former colleagues advocating on behalf of a pro-Kremlin interests to undermine American law. Why have they pushed a narrative based on a dossier that they couldnâ€™t verify? Because they couldnâ€™t abide the results of an American election.

For nearly a year most of the pressâ€™ with the exception of Yahoo News and *Mother Jones*â€™ held off from reporting on the dossier because they couldnâ€™t discern how much, if any, of it was true. It was Barack Obama who put it back in play when, as CNN reported, his four intelligence chiefs briefed the newly elected Trump in early January 2017.

“One reason the nation’s intelligence chiefs took the extraordinary step of including the synopsis in the briefing documents was to make the President-elect aware that such allegations involving him are circulating among intelligence agencies,” reported CNN.

No, the point was to provide a pretext for a press that before the election had refrained from publishing the dossier to now put it out in the open. With the briefing, Obama’s intelligence chiefs had re-credentialed Fusion GPS’s opposite research as a news story. Now it was legitimate. Then the feeding frenzy began.

Corrupt Institutions Can’t Stop Corruption

Who knows how editors and journalists justify to themselves promoting a storyline based on a dossier that their journalistic ethics had previously rejected. Maybe they convinced themselves that the fate of the American press, or America itself, actually depended on promoting the dossier to jam a spike in Trump’s wheels. There was really no telling what the mad, press-hating tweeter-in-chief might do once in office.

If it weren’t for the Trump-Russia narrative, maybe digital subscriptions wouldn’t have surged at the Times and elsewhere over the last quarter.

And if it weren’t for the Trump-Russia narrative, maybe digital subscriptions wouldn’t have surged at the Times and elsewhere over the last quarter. Sure, it would be bad if the tables were turned, and the other side had a noble public servant of its own like Robert Mueller coming after Hillary Clinton on the basis of some “dossier” of hogwash that a Trump donor paid $10 million for then leaked to Steve Bannon at Breitbart – but, well, that’s not happening. Not this time, anyway.

Journalists can try to pretend that none of this actually happened, and that in fact they are all still the heroes of their own imaginations, bravely fighting Nazis and fascists. That the choices they made while playing dress-up are fully justified by Trump’s awfulness, even if they also weakened the badly damaged structures of an institution that for the past century has been central to the American form of government.

Our political institutions, including the press, are designed to check the power that any one group accrues as a consequence of its sociological dynamics, and make it difficult for them to advance their narrow interests, friendships, or whims at the expense of the public. The scandal that now threatens to put a stake through the heart of the media is that it may have been paid to publicize what it knows and has known for more than a year: The Great Kremlin Conspiracy Theory is a hoax.

GAWKER AND GIZMODO MEDIA HIT-JOB CASES CONFLICTED BY DNC JUDGE AND OBAMA-

CLINTON FINANCING

By Conners Lee

The Plaintiffs trying to seek justice for the malicious media character assassinations performed by the Democratic National Committeeâ€™s attack tools: Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, and Jalopnik have an extra hurdle to cross. The Judge in the case is a Hillary loving, DNC-backing person who has a tremendous conflict-of-interest in the case.

The law (and common sense) would seem to dictate that the Judge should have removed himself from all of the related cases long ago. This has not happened. The New York Judge is massively conflicted-out of the case and is staying on for the exclusive purpose of protecting the DNC by keeping as much of the case hidden as possible.

Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, and Jalopnik are the Obama White House attack dogs from the John Podesta School of Revenge. Hillary Clinton and her army of Fake News devils also pay Gawker â€¢ Gizmodo â€¢ Jalopnik to run character assassinations on their enemies, as does Fusion GPS.

There can be no doubt, in fact it is common knowledge, that Gawker â€˜ Gizmodo â€˜ Jalopnik work for the DNC. The case evidence so far proves it. Judge Bernstein keeps sealing all of the documents in order to delay the eventual press revelations about who Gawker â€˜ Gizmodo â€˜ Jalopnik really are. DNC financiers Pierre Omidyar, Eric Schmidt and Elon Musk give cash and other remuneration to Gawker â€˜ Gizmodo â€˜ Jalopnik.

It is too late for that Judge Bernstein.

The public can read many of the gory details at <https://case.primeclerk.com/gawker/>

The really good stuff is sealed by the Judge but you can still see it if you go to the offices of Prime Clerk and request all of the sealed and off-line documents and transcripts from the case (Go To Prime Clerk, 830 3rd Avenue, 9th Floor, NY, NY). By law they have to let you review it.

Law Firm E & E Legal has been winning some related cases in New York. Their lawsuits have proven that the top justice officials in New York, including the Attorney General, conspired with the DNC to rig â€˜ Climate Changeâ€˜ deals to pass cash off to their DNC buddies in an exotic green-funding money laundering scam.

Every person around Judge Bernstein has been implicated in rigging the justice system to cover-up DNC embezzlement and election rigging crimes. Why is Judge Bernstein â€˜ exemptâ€˜ ?

GAWKER MEDIA AND THEIR DIRTY RUSSIAN MONEY

Submitted by at iBankCoin.com

Unsealed court documents reveal that the firm behind the salacious 34-page Trump-Russia Dossier, Fusion GPS, was paid $523,000 by a Russian businessman convicted of tax fraud and money laundering, whose lawyer, Natalia Veselnitskaya, was a key figure in the infamous June 2016 meeting at Trump Tower arranged by Fusion GPS associate Rob Goldstone.

In short, D.C. opposition research firm Fusion GPS is the common denominator linked to two schemes used to damage the Trump campaign.

Founded in 2011 by former Wall St. Journal journalist Glenn Simpson and two other WSJ alumni, Fusion was responsible for the Clinton/DNC - funded dossier \(which two Kremlin officials participated in\), and was also involved in the infamous Trump Tower meeting with the Russian attorney of another Fusion client - an encounter some suspect may have been used to obtain a FISA wiretapping warrant on the Trump campaign.

He [Simpson] worked closely with Natalia Veselnitskaya, the Russian lawyer who also showed up at the infamous Trump Tower meeting held on June 9, 2016.

Simpson's research ended up in the Trump Tower meeting in the form of a four-page memo carried by Veselnitskaya. She also shared Simpson's work with Yuri Chaika, the prosecutor general of Russia.

Simpson told the House Intelligence Committee earlier this week that he did not know that Veselnitskaya provided the Browder information to Chaika or to Donald Trump Jr., the Trump campaign's point-man in the Trump Tower meeting. -Daily Caller

Of note, the 34-page dossier created by Fusion was reportedly used to obtain a FISA surveillance warrant on one-time adviser to the Trump campaign, Carter Page.

Quite a bit more notable is the fact that Glenn Simpson met with Natalia Veselnitskaya hours before the Trump Tower meeting, and also met with Hillary Clinton's campaign chairman John Podesta the day after the 34-page dossier was published by BuzzFeed. Glenn gets around.

InFusion of Funds

The Daily Caller's Chuck Ross - who has done an outstanding job turning over stones and finding gold - now reports that the heavily redacted Fusion GPS bank records unsealed Tuesday reveal DNC law firm Perkins Coie paid Fusion a total of $1,024,408 in 2016 for opposition research on then-candidate Donald Trump - including the 34-page dossier.

Ross also reports that law firm Baker Hostetler paid Fusion $523,651 between March and October 2016 on behalf of a company owned by Russian businessman and money launderer Denis Katsyv to research Bill Browder, a London banker who helped push through the Magnitsky Act - named after deceased Russian lawyer Sergei Magnitsky, who Browder hired to investigate Russian corruption.

Veselnitskaya, through Baker Hostetler, hired Glenn Simpson of the firm Fusion GPS to conduct a smear campaign against me and Sergei Magnitsky in advance of congressional hearings on the Global Magnitsky Act. -Bill Browder, Testimony to Senate Judiciary Committee, 7/26/17

Magnitsky Act

Magnitsky uncovered a high level embezzlement and money laundering scheme, sanctioned by Russian Officials, in which large sums of money were stolen from the Russian government and invested in New York real estate. Some of the missing funds were traced to Katsyv's firm, Prevezon Holdings Ltd., which settled with the Justice Department in 2017 - paying \$5.9 million in fines.

Magnitsky was arrested and thrown in prison for just under a year, only to die seven days before he was to be released. He developed gall stones, pancreatitis, and a blocked gall bladder for which he received little to no medical care, and was found to have been physically assaulted shortly before he died.

In response to Magnitsky's horrific death and because Russian money laundering occurred on US soil, Congress and President Obama enacted the Magnitsky act in 2012 - imposing sanctions on Russia and barring Russian officials believed to be involved in Magnitsky's death from entering the United States. Russia retaliated by halting an adoption program for US foster parents.

Enter Natalia

What's strange is that Katsyv's attorney, Natalia Veselnitskaya - a John McCain fan who hates Trump and uses Democrat lobbyists, was initially denied entry into the United States, only to be allowed in under "extraordinary circumstances" by Obama's Homeland Security Department and approved by former AG Loretta Lynch so she could represent Fusion GPS client Denis Katsyv's company, Prevezon Holdings - and attend the meeting at Trump Tower with Donald Trump Jr. - arranged by Fusion GPS associate Rob Goldstone.

Let's Review:

- Russian businessman Denis Katsyv was a key figure in an embezzlement and money laundering scheme involving New York real estate, uncovered by Russian lawyer and accountant Sergei Magnitsky. Magnitsky died in Moscow's Butyrka prison after a year of inhumane treatment.
- The embezzlement scheme uncovered by Magnitsky along with the circumstances behind his death resulted in the Magnitsky Act - a bipartisan bill signed in December 2012 by President Obama which imposed sanctions on Russia.
- Katsyv settled with the U.S. Justice department in 2017, paying a paltry $5.9 million in 2017 to settle the case - less than 3% of the amount originally sought by federal prosecutors.
- Katsyv's attorney, Natalia Veselnitskaya, lobbied to remove the sanctions imposed by the Magnitsky Act.
- Fusion GPS was paid $523,651 by Katsyv to investigate London Banker Bill Browder who pushed for the Magnitsky Act
- Fusion GPS associate Rob Goldstone set up the infamous meeting at Trump Tower between Donald Trump Jr., Katsyv's lawyer Natalia Veselnitskaya and various associates. The meeting was pitched to Trump Jr. as a "discussion on adoption" (not opposition research on Hillary Clinton) and was shut down by Trump after it became clear Veselnitskaya wanted to discuss the Magnitsky Act, which Don Jr. apparently didn't realize was linked to the adoption issue. Others present at the meeting include Jared Kushner, Paul Manafort, and Goldstone.

- Hours before the Trump Tower meeting, Fusion GPS founder Glenn Simpson met with Veselnitskaya.

Meanwhile...

- Fusion GPS was paid $1,024,408 by a DNC law firm, funded in part by Hillary Clinton and the DNC, to create the salacious 34 page dossier.
- Fusion paid former British spy Christopher Steele $168,000 to assemble the document (which had the cooperation of two senior Kremlin officials).
- Clinton campaign manager John Podesta met with Fusion CEO Glenn Simpson the day after the 34 page dossier was made public.

For their efforts, Fusion GPS was paid over $1.5 million dollars between Hillary Clinton, the DNC, and the holding company owned by pro-Kremlin businessman Denis Katsyov.

Russian Ties Galore!

Looking at other Russian affiliations on the left - since that's the entire impetus of the witch hunt against President Trump:

- Russia gained control over 20% of United States uranium after the Clinton Foundation received \$145 million from Uranium One affiliates and Russian oligarchs connected to the deal.
- The Obama administration approved the transaction after the FBI knew of a Russian plot to corner the US Uranium market and a racketeering scheme involving a Kentucky trucking company. GAWKER MEDIA BANKRUPTCY NOWHERE NEAR DONE. IRS COMES AFTER GAWKER FOR EPIC POTENTIAL FRAUD

Al Capone killed people, bribed politicians, ran whore houses and operated a crime syndicate, not unlike Gawker Media.

What brought Al Capone down? THE TAX DEPARTMENT!

All of Gawker's Tax filings and records have now been published in the Gawker Bankruptcy case and the IRS is only getting started. Not only the IRS but the New York Tax Department are coming FBI-like after Gawker's sketchy financial finagling.

Gawker ran money through so many trusts, shell companies and bizarre foreign outlets that even old Al Capone would be jealous.

Expect a long battle. The Trump White House hates Gawker for the hundreds of attacks that Gawker ran against them. Prime Clerk staff say that this â€˜...may be a record-breaking caseâ€™ .

GAWKER MEDIA STAFF HAVE â€™ LIFE-LONG INVESTIGATIONSâ€™ ON THEM FOR THEIR ATTACKS AND CORRUPTION!

Gawker, Google, Univision, Valleywag, Jalopnik, Gizmodo, etc. are all the same people running the same life-long character assassination programs against political "enemies". Payback is a bitch, though...

While Hulk Hogan walked away with a jury award of $140M+, and others walked away with nearly a million in damages payments, many of those most damaged by Gawker's attacks have not seen a dime in compensation. Gawker's DNC-biased New York bankruptcy court was helping Gawker skip out of obligations.

Now, Peter Thiel and 20 Other Gawker Victims To Bring IRS Investigations Against Nick Denton and His Staff "Forever!"

Hulk Hogan was 'humanized' by Gawker lawsuit

- By Celebretainment

Hulk Hogan felt "humanized" after winning his invasion of privacy lawsuit against Gawker in 2016, according to his daughter Brooke Hogan.

The 63-year-old wrestling legend was awarded $115 million in March 2016 after he successfully sued Gawker Media for defamation, loss of privacy, and emotional pain for the company's decision in 2012 to post a clip online of a secretly recorded sex tape featuring Hulk and Heather Clem, the ex-wife of his former pal radio personality Bubba the Love Sponge.

During the legal process, Hulk's reputation was damaged when a transcript of audio from the tape was released featuring him using the 'N-word' whilst discussing a now-former boyfriend of Brooke's and he was released from his contract with WWE.

The 'Rocky III' held himself accountable for using the inappropriate language and made a public apology for saying that word back in 2007 when the tape was made, a period in Hulk's life when he had been suffering from depression in the wake of his wife Linda Hogan filing for divorce and had contemplated suicide.

Brooke, 28, admits the ordeal was very tough on her father but the case allowed the public to learn more about the situation her dad was in.

She shared: "It was very tough on him. It was very sad to see him so screwed up because I know none of us are perfect."

In the midst of the legal case, the blonde beauty reassured her father that he had earned the trust of his loyal fans after years in the spotlight, and the sex tape was not going to permanently taint his reputation.

Brooke told The Hollywood Reporter: "I said, 'Dad, no matter how crazy the press is, the public and your fans, they're not stupid. They know your heart and who you are.' "

And while Brooke has refused to specifically discuss her father's ultimate settlement with Gawker - which is rumoured to be worth $31 million - she insisted he "persevered, and always took the high road and was accountable, and I respect and honour him for that".

More recently, Hulk - whose real name is Terry Bollea - has turned his attention towards Brooke's burgeoning TV career, which has seen her become the host of the reality TV series 'The Fashion Hero'.

The Canadian produced series is currently being shopped to international buyers and the wrestling legend has even asked to be a contestant on her show.

Brooke revealed: "I said, 'Dad, you can't model,' even though he could as he models his own T-shirts. But that's enough."

But Brooke admitted her father's positive outlook has been a huge help to her throughout her life - especially during her difficult teenage years.

She explained: "I'm Italian. Most of my family is severely over-weight. It's been taxing to keep my weight under control. I also had really bad skin and I wasn't popular.

"He [Hulk] was always a horse of a different colour. He was tanned and blond and from Venice Beach. And people assumed he was a big, loud, screaming monster. But the cool thing is he used his platform for good. He knew he was impacting impressionable minds. So he told young kids to train, say your prayers and eat your vitamins."

Proving That Gawker's Partner: Google, Does Operate Contracts and "Hit-Jobs", Google De-List's InfoWars from Its Search Index in Reprisal Move

InfoWars articles must be rated â€ Low to Medium.â€

Google has hired contractors to remove or limit Alex Jonesâ€™ website Infowars.com from its search engines. According to a search engine evaluator for Google, all contractors have been instructed to actively rate InfoWars as a low quality and untrusted site.

This email was sent out to all contractors.

It's useful to then explore what is reflected from the way that the web browser displays the landing page of a particular website, and see how that helps to help what.

Changes in style:

"This is a news article from InfoWars, so considering the quality of any article, you should be careful of where they're coming from. What reputation does it have, and how might that reputation affect its credibility?"
 "So the story: the story here is an outright false story that some of the most infamous websites, so you're not going to consider it among the word of the word in that regard."

The instructions to the contractors provide:

- InfoWars is not an 'outright false' website and is not 'among the worst of the worst.'
- 'There are a number of controversial, often debunked claims that the site regularly promotes.'
- InfoWars articles must be rated 'Low to Medium.'

CLINTON FINANCING

By Conners Lee

The Plaintiffs trying to seek justice for the malicious media character assassinations performed by the Democratic National Committee's attack tools: Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, and Jalopnik have an extra hurdle to cross. The Judge in the case is a Hillary loving, DNC-backing person who has a tremendous conflict-of-interest in the case.

The law (and common sense) would seem to dictate that the Judge should have removed himself from all of the related cases long ago. This has not happened. The New York Judge is massively conflicted-out of the case and is staying on for the exclusive purpose of protecting the DNC by keeping as much of the case hidden as possible.

Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, and Jalopnik are the Obama White House attack dogs from the John Podesta School of Revenge. Hillary Clinton and her army of Fake News devils also pay Gawker's Gizmodo's Jalopnik to run character assassinations on their enemies, as does Fusion GPS.

There can be no doubt, in fact it is common knowledge, that Gawker â Gizmodo â Jalopnik work for the DNC. The case evidence so far proves it. Judge Bernstein keeps sealing all of the documents in order to delay the eventual press revelations about who Gawker â Gizmodo â Jalopnik really are. DNC financiers Pierre Omidyar, Eric Schmidt and Elon Musk give cash and other remuneration to Gawker â Gizmodo â Jalopnik.

It is too late for that Judge Bernstein.

The public can read many of the gory details at <https://case.primeclerk.com/gawker/>

The really good stuff is sealed by the Judge but you can still see it if you go to the offices of Prime Clerk and request all of the sealed and off-line documents and transcripts from the case (Go To Prime Clerk, 830 3rd Avenue, 9th Floor, NY, NY). By law they have to let you review it.

Law Firm E & E Legal has been winning some related cases in New York. Their lawsuits have proven that the top justice officials in New York, including the Attorney General, conspired with the DNC to rig â Climate Changeâ deals to pass cash off to their DNC buddies in an exotic green-funding money laundering scam.

Every person around Judge Bernstein has been implicated in rigging the justice system to cover-up DNC embezzlement and election rigging crimes. Why is Judge Bernstein â exemptâ ?

GAWKER BANKRUPTCY CASE DELIVERS EVEN BIGGER SCANDALS IN THE GAWKER LEGAL HELL-SCAPE

By Andrea Knutser

New York â Peter Thiel, Donald Trumpâ s new left hand man, delivered a massive can of worms for the deviant little kids that ran Gawker Media as their own private character assassination gallery. You may have heard that Gawker was bankrupt but the truth is that nothing has been finalized with Gawkerâ s Hulk Hogan-powered beat down.

Now, you can watch the deliciously dirty details unfold from the comfort of your own living room via the special Court website created just for the â *Die Gawker, Die*â crowd. It is located at:

<https://cases.primeclerk.com/gawker/Home-DocketInfo>

From your prime digital perch you can read the ongoing details of $1200.00 per hour lawyers, more sex charges, organized crimes, election rigging, electric car manipulations, bribes, political paybacks and White House vendettas, money laundering and all sorts of other fun.

The case has now been continued into the Donald Trump Presidency. A fact which will delight reporters and Gawker death-spiral watchers.

Gawker NY Court Tries To Put Nazi-like Squeeze on Plaintiffs in order to protect Obama & Clinton Buddies. Court Ends Up Bringing Congressional Investigation and White House Review on itself.

By Peter Sano â€ For The LA Times

New York- It turns out that Hillary Clintonâ€™ s best friends and financiers are running the Gawker, Gizmodo, Univision bankruptcy case (# 16-11700 in Southern District Court). Even the Judge in the case is Hillaryâ€™ s good friend, according to The New York Post. It turns out that Elon Musk is one of Hillary Clintonâ€™ s biggest political financiers. Elon Musk today used Gizmodo to attack the UAW auto workers and has previously used Gizmodo to attack multiple Plaintiffs in the Gawker Defamation, fraud and abuse cases. It turns out that in a day and age when Donald Trumpâ€™ s phone calls are being hacked; poor Elon Musk has to accept the fact that phone calls and emails between Musk and Gawker giving â€ kill ordersâ€ against Plaintiffs are also being held by Plaintiffs.

Judge Bernstein filed some kind of notice that orders Plaintiffs to relinquish their First Amendment rights and never speak about the case, never help other Plaintiffs and never seek restitution for the horrific acts done to them. Judge Bernstein and his staff have refused to ever allow Plaintiffs to appear in, or speak in, Court because their evidence blows an epic political corruption scheme sky high. Plaintiffs distributed their evidence to every reporter in the world, in order to prevent such freedom of speech abuse, and now the Court has no option but to deal with the fall-out.

The Federal Government and the ACLU have a different message for the New York Bankruptcy Court in the Southern District of New York and the staff therein: â€ F*CK YOU!â€ Says Congress, The White House, The GAO and the top human rights organizations in the world! â€ ...You donâ€™ t get to censor the public and abuse Human Rights, Judge Bernstein!â€

XP Vehicles, one of the Plaintiffs has filed a federal Complaint against the New York Courts for Constitutional Rights Violations and has personally communicated with the White House and the FBI that the Court in New York is operating a cover-up for federal campaign finance fraud crimes and violating multiple Constitutional laws.

XP Vehicles has a very large retail fan club and when those fans started sharing newspaper and Congressional investigation documents with other Plaintiffs and the Court, documents which proved that the criminal charges Plaintiffs were making were true, the Court tried to issue a Hitlerian media black-out and Fake News cover-up order to stop the information from reaching the MSM. This is against the law! No Court can order the news to be censored and no Court can order a Plaintiff removed from a case in order to protect crooked friends of the Court.

The facts are that XP Vehicles staff dated Hillary Clintonâ€™ s staff and knows Washington DC intimately. New York State is one of the only States Hillary â€™ wonâ€™ in. Elon Musk gives orders and Money to Clinton, Gawker, Gizmodo and Obama and they give Musk and his â€ Silicon Valley Cartelâ€ government goodies worth hundreds of billions of dollars. Elon Musk took XP's money and used it to make his cars. XP cars beat Tesla cars on every metric, cost 80% less, go vastly further and are massively safer than Elon Musk's cars. Musk hates XP for this. Most of the New York Southern District Court Gawker Case opposition and Court staff are friends and financiers of Hillary Clinton. XP has stated that they have proof of an epic crime and have asked the White House for 6 hand-picked FBI agents to help deliver the evidence to Congress and various ongoing investigations. Today XP and associates testified to this before the U.S. Congress. Trillions of dollars of Obama and Clinton kick-backs are involved in this case. The 60 Minutes Episode: The Cleantech Crash, exposes a small part of the story. Elon Musk was promised huge kick-backs by Hillary Clinton.

Say XP Plaintiffs: ' This is a felony-class cover-up to try to shut up public discourse and media disclosure in an epic crime. The New York Southern District Court should be ashamed of itself and the American public should let the court know what voters think of this kind of protection scheme operated by Court officials to protect dirty politicians and bribery programs!'

The Court wants to make New York a SANCTUARY CITY for Gawker, Gizmodo and Univision's criminal corruption endeavors. The White House and Congress think that is a bad idea!

XP is awaiting a response from various subcommittees and the FBI. XP plans to file additional complaints.

Gawker's Nick Denton Blames Everyone but Himself

Steve Tobak

After a federal judge refused to shield Nick Denton from personal liability in Hulk Hogan's $140 million invasion of privacy verdict against him and Gawker Media, the founder followed his company into Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection, as expected.

In a memo to employees yesterday, Denton paints himself as a paragon of journalistic integrity — the victim of a vendetta by a billionaire bully who "didn't like the coverage," he said. Denton was referring to Silicon Valley venture capitalist and entrepreneur Peter Thiel, who bankrolled Hogan's lawsuit to the tune of $10 million.

Defiant to the last, Denton sounds like a virtuous hero who fought the good fight for the free speech rights of his team and journalists everywhere. I could almost picture him riding off into the sunset with his head held high. I wanted to cheer for the guy, give him a hearty pat on the back and wish him Godspeed on his journey.

Then I remembered, this is Nick Denton. Damn, the guy's good. He almost had me going for a minute there.

Look, Denton is not some neophyte who just walked in off the street and got taken to the cleaners in a frivolous lawsuit. This was not his first bout with the legal system. He knew the risks. As I see it, in refusing repeated requests by Hogan's people to take down the secret sex tape at the heart of the lawsuit, Denton brought this upon himself.

Gawker apparently believed that their First Amendment rights would trump Hogan's invasion of privacy or defamation claims. And I bet their risk analysis also included a discussion of who had the bigger war chest, Gawker or Hogan? The answer, of course, would have been Gawker, had Thiel not gotten involved. Bummer.

As any savvy corporate officer who has been around the court system will tell you, a trial can go either way. If you can't survive the downside, don't bet the farm on winning. Don't let your ego get away from you and write checks that reality can't cash. Make no mistake, that's exactly what happened here.

If I didn't know better, I would say the memo was a load of self-indulgent nonsense by a narcissistic media mogul with more hubris than business sense. If Denton had a modicum of humility and self-awareness, he would see this enormous fiasco for what it is: an unforced error that will cost him and his company dearly.

But I think the memo has a far more practical purpose than that. More likely, it's a desperate attempt to pump up Gawker's valuation ahead of the bankruptcy auction slated for next month. Ziff-Davis is currently the lead bidder with $90 million on the table — a steep drop from the \$250 million Gawker was said to be worth prior to the Florida jury ruling.

The problem is that nearly all of Denton's wealth is tied up in the company. According to the Wall Street Journal, his only significant assets are his Manhattan apartment and his 30% stake in Gawker. And since the verdict has him personally on the hook for $10 million and jointly liable for another $115 million, the more Gawker sells for, the better his chances of coming out of this with some money in his pocket.

Don't get me wrong. I have no love for Hogan or dislike for Denton or Gawker. I have no skin in this game. I don't know if the jury got it right or if the award won't be reduced or the verdict vacated on appeal. What rubs me the wrong way is a business leader who won't own up to his own bad business decisions.

Rather, Denton has been all over the map about Hogan's and Thiel's true motives, making thinly veiled attempts at trying and retrying the case in the court of public opinion while painting himself as the victim and the real victim as a bully.

First he accused them of trying to bankrupt him and put Gawker out of business. Back in March, he made a convoluted, if not conspiratorial, argument that the lawsuit wasn't about the sex video at all, but another video with racial slurs. Recently, he's been talking up Thiel's support for Donald Trump, presumably to appeal to the anti-Trump crowd.

I think it is all much more simple than that: What this is really about is a guy who let his oversized ego get the better of him. He bet everything he had including his company and lost it all. Maybe someday he'll look in the mirror and see who really caused his demise.

Gawker and Gizmodo Media, Along With Jalopnik, Are Terrorist Organizations

By Danny- A Former Gawker Employee

Nick Denton and the DNC run Weapons of Mass Brand Destruction.

They feign a facade of being reporters and sprinkle some generic articles around their swamp of tabloids in order to keep up appearances.

The sole purpose of Gawker, Gizmodo, Jezebel, Valleywag, Jalopnik and the horde of other fake magazines that they created, is to be on stand-by for assigned political character assassinations.

Russian spies created the concept of 'the long game pretext'. As the TV show, 'The Americans' details, a good scam takes ten to twenty years to properly stage. Gawker, Gizmodo, Jezebel, Valleywag, Jalopnik, etc. are a Fusion GPS-class spy game pretext that was created long ago to allow it to simmer on the pot.

The pot that Gawker-Gizmodo was designed to simmer on was the toilet bowl of tabloid journalism. The DNC and Silicon Valley campaign riggers wanted the dirtiest, scummiest outlet that nobody would question. They succeeded with glory in Gawker-Gizmodo.

Mentally ill gay Millennial kids, that could not get into college, were pulled in as worker-bees based on how much they hated society and how sexually abused by Uncle Fred they appeared to be. They were told: 'Here's a keyboard, spew all of your hate and rage and Nick Denton will pick the worst of it to publish'

Denton, of course, only picked the things that maliciously damaged those who got in the way of the DNC's crony corruption schemes.

Denton uses every trick in the book to hide behind fluffy legal protections that appear to be the most extreme rationalizations in history. Denton is, himself, a sexually perverted denizen of the dark world of bizarre pizza and angry young boys who throw bricks through his window. This allows him to find synergy with the twisted perverts that he hires.

Gawker-Gizmodo kills people. They violate the Justice Department laws on Terror.

Gawker-Gizmodo has caused a number of innocent people to commit suicide by their actions. Gawker-Gizmodo works with Google and Amazon's servers to spread hate, defamation, character assassination and brand destruction around the globe and lock it on the internet, forever, in front of eight billion people. They end the life of everyone that Gawker-Gizmodo targets.

Hulk Hogan and the other victims have probably thought about killing everyone at Gawker-Gizmodo. They certainly want to. Killing people is somewhat illegal in the USA, so Hulk erred on the side of his talent agency and chose the court-room instead. Hulk got lucky in finding the deep pockets of Peter Thiel. None of the other victims got that resource.

Gawker did not get shut down. It is fully operational and spewing vile web posts around the world. Gawker, Gizmodo, Jezebel, Valleywag, Jalopnik are all the same thing; the same people; the same pretext.

The Justice Department should arrest Gawker, Gizmodo, Jezebel, Valleywag, Jalopnik, etc. for terrorism, tax evasion, money laundering, campaign finance fraud, sexual extortion and a host of other issues but they won't because James Comey, Andrew McCabe, Peter Strzok, David Oh and all of those other FBI-DOJ folks work for the DNC.

Until there is an entirely new Department of Justice, social crimes like Gawker-Gizmodo will go un-addressed and bring society closer to crumbling. As long as the public see that criminal organizations like Gawker-Gizmodo will be allowed to freely engage in their crimes and corruptions, there can be no hope for the taxpayers.

Prince Harry: tabloids hid hacking crimes for 20 years. Gawker's Nick Denton can hack any phone or voicemail on Earth!

Duke of Sussex joins case against Sun and Mirror in group action alleging documents were destroyed

Jamie Doward and Vanessa Thorpe

. There is speculation that close friends and former girlfriends of the duke may have been hacked.

Photograph: Siphwe Sibeko/Reuters

Leading tabloid newspapers concealed or destroyed evidence that they illegally targeted Prince Harry and his circle of friends and advisers over many years, according to allegations contained in his unprecedented legal action against two media groups.

He is joining scores of other people in a group claim that alleges editors and executives at Mirror Group Newspapers, publisher of the Daily Mirror, and News Group Newspapers (NGN), publisher of the Sun and the defunct News of the World, mounted an industrial-scale cover-up over more than 20 years.

I was by Diana's side in her press battles. I know the risks involved for Harry and Meghan | Patrick Jephson

Read more

The Byline Investigates website, which first reported the Duke of Sussex was taking legal action, says the group claim is due to be heard next October. The Observer understands the claims made by each group member carry around five pages of allegations relating to hacking and blagging – obtaining personal information illegally – and around 20 pages outlining allegations of concealment and destruction of evidence. The claims cover 1994 to 2011.

Byline reports the duke's claim could see his lawyers seek to establish whether the newspapers intercepted voicemails of his late mother, Diana, Princess of Wales. The website claims it will also explore whether, even after Diana's death in August 1997, private investigators were hired to illegally target her friends and family.

Legal experts have suggested the duke would have a problem bringing the claim. Under the Limitation Act, there is a six-year window from when a claimant becomes aware of the privacy breach to bring a claim.

Clive Goodman, a News of the World journalist, and Glenn Mulcaire, a private investigator, were jailed in 2007 for offences including the hacking of voicemails of aides working for the duke and his brother, Prince William.

However, it is clear that the duke's claim extends at least a decade beyond that 2007 case. As with the other group claims, the duke alleges evidence was destroyed and concealed and so any limitation defence would fail under Section 32 of the Act if it were shown to have concealed wrongdoing.

‘ This is far more serious than just phone-hacking because these allegations involve perverting the course of justice, perjury and fraud against senior executives and senior editors,’ a source familiar with the claim explained. This would shift the focus away from the actions of individual journalists to the higher echelons of the newspaper organisations.

Hitherto the focus of many claims has been on the role of Mulcaire. ‘ Mulcaire is just one tiny part of this,’ the source said. It is understood that the claim has resulted in the disclosure of thousands of alleged payments to private investigators by Mirror Group and tens of thousands by the Sun and News of the World.

There is speculation that close friends and former girlfriends of the duke may have been hacked. ‘ The royal family might have tight procedures for guarding their privacy, but the duke’s nightclub-going friends may not,’ the source suggested.

The duke’s lawyers will attempt to obtain evidence of what, if any, personal information was obtained by the newspapers. This could include school reports, financial statements and health records. The sweep could extend back to include his mother.

If the case were to go to court, it would raise the prospect of the duke appearing in the witness box. Many executives and senior editors ‘ including Rebekah Brooks, the chief executive of News UK, the parent company of NGN, and Piers Morgan, former editor of the Mirror ‘ would come under further scrutiny. Both have denied under oath knowing of any wrongdoing on their watch.

In 2015, the Crown Prosecution Service said there was ‘ no evidence’ NGN had deleted emails to pervert the course of justice. Both News UK and Reach UK, owner of the Mirror, declined to comment.

The duke’s claim against the two news groups comes after his wife, the Duchess of Sussex, launched a legal case against the Mail on Sunday. She claims the paper breached her privacy and copyright by publishing a private letter to her father. The paper has said it will vigorously defend the claim.

Last week the duke said he feared the press was treating his wife as it had his mother. Privately, several royal reporters say they have received poisonous emails, including death threats, since the duke spoke.

The Daily Mail’ s Rebecca English tweeted: ‘ There is no doubt that, regardless of the rights or wrongs of it, Harry’s statement on Wednesday was ill-timed and overshadowed the end of a successful official tour on behalf of the UK government, funded by taxpayers.’

The timing of the Sussex’s legal actions has invited speculation that they were coordinated. However, it is understood the duke’s action followed weeks of pre-action correspondence.

Writing in the Observer, Princess Diana’s former private secretary, Patrick Jephson, warns her son’s approach could backfire. ‘ Public sympathy will start in the duke’s corner but is notoriously volatile,’ he says.

Gawker, a gossip site that openly traffics in rumor, innuendo, and in many cases straight-up bullshit, and whose founder, Nick Denton, has been slapped with a class-action lawsuit by former interns for violating federal wage laws, recently published an inaccurate and irresponsible story about VICE's workplace. The story is abysmal journalism even by Gawker's standards, relying on a handful of disgruntled (and of course off-the-record) alleged ex-employees, some of whom reference VBS.tv, a website that hasn't existed for more than four years. Gawker has been actively trolling for these sources since at least February of this year, when they published a post on their website hoping to draw people into collaborating with them.

Loath as we are to respond to their typical form of base, hit-job journalism, this time we feel we must send a message and correct the record, ignoring the author's obvious and embarrassing emotional vendetta against this company, its success, and its senior management.

VICE currently has more than 400 full-time employees in North America. As they do in all businesses, entry-level salaries range by department and are competitive with comparable emerging media companies in the digital space. All VICE full-time employees participate in a complete package of employee benefits: full health insurance (medical, dental, vision), life insurance, disability insurance, two weeks of paid vacation per year, ten paid holidays, five paid sick days, a maternity and paternity program (12 weeks of paid maternity leave, one week of paid paternity leave), a summer Fridays program, and a variety of company discounts and offers, including a commuter tax-free benefit, flexible health spending and dependent-care accounts, and a 401(k) program.

In addition to this compensation package, all VICE employees who meet a length-of-service criterion of two years are automatically enrolled in the company's Stock Appreciation Rights (SAR) program, a stock-based compensation plan whereby employees receive payments based on the value of VICE stock in a liquidity event. The VICE SAR program was launched in late 2013, with long-term employees grandfathered into the program and granted SAR options that recognized their dedication and excellence for the early growth years of the company. As VICE rises in value, so do the value of the SARs, and all employees in the program benefit. This is, of course, 100 percent contrary to Gawker's assertion in their smear job. But then again, since when did Gawker actually care about the truth?

VICE is proud of its success, and proud of all of its employees.

Gawker NY Court Tries To Put Nazi-like Squeeze on Plaintiffs in order to protect Obama & Clinton Buddies. Court Ends Up Bringing Congressional Investigation and White House Review on itself.

By Peter Sano â For The LA Times

New York- It turns out that Hillary Clintonâs best friends and financiers are running the Gawker, Gizmodo, Univision bankruptcy case (# 16-11700 in Southern District Court). Even the Judge in the case is Hillaryâs good friend, according to The New York Post. It turns out that Elon Musk is one of Hillary Clintonâs biggest political financiers. Elon Musk today used Gizmodo to attack the UAW auto workers and has previously used Gizmodo to attack multiple Plaintiffs in the Gawker Defamation, fraud and abuse cases. It turns out that in a day and age when Donald Trumpâs phone calls are being hacked; poor Elon Musk has to accept the fact that phone calls and emails between Musk and Gawker giving âkill ordersâ against Plaintiffs are also being held by Plaintiffs.

Judge Bernstein filed some kind of notice that orders Plaintiffs to relinquish their First Amendment rights and never speak about the case, never help other Plaintiffs and never seek restitution for the horrific acts done to them. Judge Bernstein and his staff have refused to ever allow Plaintiffs to appear in, or speak in, Court because their evidence blows an epic political corruption scheme sky high. Plaintiffs distributed their evidence to every reporter in the world, in order to prevent such freedom of speech abuse, and now the Court has no option but to deal with the fall-out.

The Federal Government and the ACLU have a different message for the New York Bankruptcy Court in the Southern District of New York and the staff therein: *â F*CK YOU!â* Says Congress, The White House, The GAO and the top human rights organizations in the world! â ...You donât get to censor the public and abuse Human Rights, Judge Bernstein!â

XP Vehicles, one of the Plaintiffs has filed a federal Complaint against the New York Courts for Constitutional Rights Violations and has personally communicated with the White House and the FBI that the Court in New York is operating a cover-up for federal campaign finance fraud crimes and violating multiple Constitutional laws.

XP Vehicles has a very large retail fan club and when those fans started sharing newspaper and Congressional investigation documents with other Plaintiffs and the Court, documents which proved that the criminal charges Plaintiffs were making were true, the Court tried to issue a Hitlerian media black-out and Fake News cover-up order to stop the information from reaching the MSM. This is against the law! No Court can order the news to be censored and no Court can order a Plaintiff removed from a case in order to protect crooked friends of the Court.

The facts are that XP Vehicles staff dated Hillary Clintonâs staff and knows Washington DC intimately. New York State is one of the only States Hillary âwonâ in. Elon Musk gives orders and Money to Clinton, Gawker, Gizmodo and Obama and they give Musk and his â Silicon Valley Cartelâ government goodies worth hundreds of billions of dollars. Elon Musk took XPâs money and used it to make his cars. XP cars beat Tesla cars on every metric, cost 80% less, go vastly further and are massively safer than Elon Muskâs cars. XP has stated that they have proof of an epic crime and have asked the White House for 6 hand-picked FBI agents to help deliver the evidence to Congress and various ongoing investigations. Today XP and associates testified to this before the U.S. Congress. Trillions of dollars of Obama and Clinton kick-backs are involved in this case. The 60 Minutes Episode: The Cleantech Crash, exposes a small part of the story. Elon Musk was promised huge kick-backs by Hillary Clinton.

Say XP Plaintiffs: â This is a felony-class cover-up to try to shut up public discourse and media disclosure in an epic crime. The New York Southern District Court should be ashamed of itself and the American public

The Court wants to make New York a SANCTUARY CITY for Gawker, Gizmodo and Univisionâ€™s criminal corruption endeavors. The White House and Congress think that is a bad idea!

XP is awaiting a response from various subcommittees and the FBI. XP plans to file additional complaints.

Gawker's Nick Denton Commits Suicide!

By A Friend of Nick Cook

Gawker Media's Nick Denton has committed personal suicide by attacking both Peter Thiel and the sitting President of the United States of America: Donald Trump.

Nick Denton has filed papers charging that Peter Thiel was more than mad at Gawker Media for their attacks on him and implying that Thiel is both insane and a front for Donald Trump. Denton's crew want all of Peter Thiel's records exposed and they want a tracking account of all of Thiel's communications. They also imply that Thiel had front-men try to buy Gawker under a covert front. The entire Gawker case has now been thrown for a loop.

Gizmodo bloggers have now leaked that they intend to create a rumor that ' Peter Thiel rigged the election for Donald Trump using his Palantir company... as a revenge program. This would emulate the rumor the DNC created about â€˜ Russian Hackersâ€™ .

This comes at a time when the IRS has increased itâ€™ s investigations of Gawker Media and Gawkerâ€™ s investors.

While Denton has referenced shaving his nether-regions for the pleasures of man-sex; right now things could not get any hairier for Denton!

Talk about â€™ Poking the bearâ€™ while, at the same time â€™ kicking the hornetâ€™ s nestâ€™ , this latest move by Denton may only serve to prove that Denton is the one that is insane. Read More...

Gawker and Gizmodo Media, Along With Jalopnik, Are Terrorist Organizations

By Danny- A Former Gawker Employee

Nick Denton and the DNC run Weapons of Mass Brand Destruction.

They feign a facade of â' being reportersâ' and sprinkle some generic articles around their swamp of tabloids in order to keep up appearances.

The sole purpose of Gawker, Gizmodo, Jezebel, Valleywag, Jalopnik and the horde of other fake magazines that they created, is to be on stand-by for assigned political character assassinations.

Russian spies created the concept of 'the long game pretext'. As the TV show, 'The Americans' details, a good scam takes ten to twenty years to properly stage. Gawker, Gizmodo, Jezebel, Valleywag, Jalopnik, etc. are a Fusion GPS-class spy game pretext that was created long ago to allow it to simmer on the pot.

The pot that Gawker-Gizmodo was designed to simmer on was the toilet bowl of tabloid journalism. The DNC and Silicon Valley campaign riggers wanted the dirtiest, scummiest outlet that nobody would question. They succeeded with glory in Gawker-Gizmodo.

Mentally ill gay Millennial kids, that could not get into college, were pulled in as worker-bees based on how much they hated society and how sexually abused by Uncle Fred they appeared to be. They were told: 'Here's a keyboard, spew all of your hate and rage and Nick Denton will pick the worst of it to publish'

Denton, of course, only picked the things that maliciously damaged those who got in the way of the DNC's crony corruption schemes.

Denton uses every trick in the book to hide behind fluffy legal protections that appear to be the most extreme rationalizations in history. Denton is, himself, a sexually perverted denizen of the dark world of bizarre pizza and angry young boys who throw bricks through his window. This allows him to find synergy with the twisted perverts that he hires.

Gawker-Gizmodo kills people. They violate the Justice Department laws on Terror.

Gawker-Gizmodo has caused a number of innocent people to commit suicide by their actions. Gawker-Gizmodo works with Google and Amazon's servers to spread hate, defamation, character assassination and brand destruction around the globe and lock it on the internet, forever, in front of eight billion people. They end of the life of everyone that Gawker-Gizmodo targets.

Hulk Hogan and the other victims have probably thought about killing everyone at Gawker-Gizmodo. They certainly want to. Killing people is somewhat illegal in the USA, so Hulk erred on the side of his talent agency and chose the court-room instead. Hulk got lucky in finding the deep pockets of Peter Thiel. None of the other victims got that resource.

Gawker did not get shut down. It is fully operational and spewing vile web posts around the world. Gawker, Gizmodo, Jezebel, Valleywag, Jalopnik are all the same thing; the same people; the same pretext.

The Justice Department should arrest Gawker, Gizmodo, Jezebel, Valleywag, Jalopnik, etc. for terrorism, tax evasion, money laundering, campaign finance fraud, sexual extortion and a host of other issues but they won't because James Comey, Andrew McCabe, Peter Strzok, David Oh and all of those other FBI-DOJ folks work for the DNC.

Until there is an entirely new Department of Justice, social crimes like Gawker-Gizmodo will go un-addressed and bring society closer to crumbling. As long as the public see that criminal organizations like Gawker-Gizmodo will be allowed to freely engage in their crimes and corruptions, there can be no hope for the taxpayers.

Gizmodo is getting sued and investigated even more than usual. Take a look:

Does Gizmodo Only Hire Sex Perverts, Demo-pedes and the Mentally Unbalanced? A Research Project.

- Gizmodo and Jalopnik: 100% propaganda operations for Obama, Clinton and the DNC
- The sickest people in the world get hired by these publications in order to exploit their mental instabilities as patsy's for political profiteering
- At Gizmodo, anal sex is almost as important as pizza to the twisted writers of the inner sanctum
- Gizmodo's Adrian Covert spear-headed the assassination group at Gizmodo and then moved over to CNN to run the Trump character assassination effort at CNN, through various cover ops

By Fredericka Unson and Kyle Lee

Gizmodo staff use their social media to blog about what they do after work and where they go for night-clubbing and hooking up. We took that as a publicly promoted invitation to join them for socializing. We spent 3 months 'bumping into' Gizmodo writers and editors after work. This is what we found out.

Gizmodo is Gawker Media under a different title. The name is slightly different, but the people, political agenda and mission are exactly the same. Gizmodo is Gawker Media trying to evade Peter Thiel, and and other past victims, of the Gawker/Gizmodo commercial character assassination services created by Nick Denton.

The conversations, invites and insights we were offered overshadowed even the darkest rumors about Gizmodo.

A large part of Gizmodo is comprised of angry homosexuals looking for social payback against society. They spent a large part of their time spare time talking about who put their penis in whose mouth, or anus, and how they can get their penis in whose mouth or anus. The main reason they work at Gizmodo is to get enough money to buy rent-boys or to pay for enough fancy Gotham drinking to get their target Bill Cosbyâ d into a compliant state.

Another part of Gizmodo is comprised of drug-culture enthusiasts who plan their nightly drug intake like a gym enthusiast plans his workout. This group is rarely on time to work in the morning. This group has a demonstrably large set of sociopathic and schizophrenic modality expressions.

Another part of Gizmodo are DNC operatives who live, breath and dream of policy wonk and DNC â Dirty Tricksâ campaigns. Their gods are John Podesta, Elon Musk, Sidney Blumenthal and Mark Zuckerberg. A large part of this group are Jewish kids with at least 22 years of cultural hatred programmed into them by far left Jewish parents. They want to believe that the GOP are all secretly Palestinians and the political bosses behind Gizmodo encourage that kind of â hate-thinkâ .

Gizmodo hires deeply disturbed people in a smart way. Gizmodo bosses seek out public patsies to try to rig public political perceptions so that voters will steer things in a way that make Gizmodoâ s bosses richer.

When Gizmodo, like Gawker, gets bankrupted, Gizmodo owners will walk away scott free while the naive young perverts of Gizmodo get sued instead. It is a brilliant use of the mentally ill for corporate profiteering and politicking manipulation. The little perverts get used as sheep in a game of White House control that they are the key pawns in.

The top tier management at Gizmodo (and itâ s clones: Jalopnik, etc.) use a parental corporate trick of HR brainwashing in which they privately confide to each writer that they are on a â grand missionâ where all evil is for â the greater good.â Gizmodoâ s partner in these â greater goodsâ is Google. Google is notorious for itâ s motto: â donâ t do evilâ that later turned into the biggest irony on the web.

Gizmodo management use Hitler's indoctrination tools. This is another interesting Gizmodo irony because many Gizmodians are Jewish. Gizmodo bosses also enjoy pushing the DNC party-line that 'all Jews must become Democrats' and that '...Jewish Democrats must destroy Republicans because Republicans want to take away your drugs and anal sex and put you in ovens...'

After hours, Gizmodo workers seem far less concerned about the ovens than they do about the potential loss of their drugs and anal sex.

Just as anal-sex fanatic Nick Denton, a covert advisor to the current Gizmodo, taught them; Gizmodo bosses reinforce hate and anger that they can uncover in potential hires. They amplify it and give the naive kids (that they find on New York's streets) a contrived rationalization to blame every ill on Conservatives. They then suggest and/or approve only articles that will damage those they are hired to harm.

'Hired-to-harm' is a legal term one must pay attention to. Under a series of laws and cyber-stalking rulings, if anyone can show that Gizmodo was hired to harm someone, the legal and branding effects on Gizmodo will be terminal.

In the New York Magazine expose on Gawker/Gizmodo: 'Everybody Sucks' : <http://nymag.com/news/features/39319/>; the Taki Magazine expose: 'Hypocrites Vs. Douche Canoes' http://takimag.com/article/gawker_media_hypocrites_vs_douchecanoes/print; and thousands of other examinations of the character assassination niche that Nick Denton operates, the conclusions are always the same. The Gawker/Gizmodo operations are not 'journalism' they are political propaganda operations for the DNC!

Gizmodo is an epic tax evasion and revenue hiding operation. It uses offshore fronts, with an epic number of levels, to illicitly hide profits, political payola and scam-cash. James Comey, at the FBI, had over 30 entities report these crimes to his office and nothing happened. Was Cover-up Comey protecting Gawker/Gizmodo/Univision because they lead straight back to Obama and Clinton bank accounts? Probably. We have heard from a number of people that all of their witness statements are being re-resubmitted to Trump's FBI to see if, maybe, this time around, justice can get ahead of corruption.

In the modern age, everyday brings a new tale of Pro-DNC violence, Pro-Dnc shootings and Pro-DNC rage and hatred. Nick Denton created this 'hate as public policy' program and the DNC has now slipped off the deep edge of the cliff as they take it to the most extreme depths.

Gawker/Gizmodo are simply elementary school abuse social-deviance extended into near-adulthood.

The things that pre-teens abused each other on the playground with (â€ your fat mother sucks pickles..â€) have been commercialized and sold to Obama and Clinton party bosses by Nick Denton and Univision.

Gizmodo is the essence of fake news, kneepad journalism and journo-shills.

Everyone in the world should be on the phone and on their email to every advertiser of Gizmodo in order to shame them and bankrupt those advertisers into cutting off their accounts with the screed that is Gizmodo and Univision.

Stay tuned for more on this topic...

Head of scumbag publications Deadspin and Gizmodo facing heat from own reporter as he hires his friends

By Alexandra Steigrad

The head of G/O Media, which owns The Onion, Jezebel and other websites, is going on the defensive over a planned expose on his hiring practices â€” to be published by one of his own publications.

G/O Mediaâ€™s CEO, Jim Spanfeller, is punching back at a yet-to-be-published report by Deadspin about his hiring of â€” older white guysâ€” from his past to run the company, which also runs Gizmodo, Splinter and The Root.

As The Post reported on July 18, G/O Media staffers have been complaining that Spanfeller â€” tapped to run the dozen websites by private equity firm Great Hill Partners earlier this year â€” has been relying on his connections from Playboy and Forbes Media to run the company without posting jobs publicly.

A Deadspin report investigating the complaints was set to publish on Wednesday morning.

Instead, Spanfeller circulated a three-page memo to all G/O Media staffers blasting Deadspinâ€™s reporting process, including complaints that he was not given enough time to respond to questions.

â€” I and the management team received a list of questions from the reporter working this story for Deadspin and those questions left me greatly concerned about the objectivity and core intentions of this piece,â€” Spanfellerâ€™s memo said. â€” While we were given a 3 pm deadline today to respond to dozens of questions, I understand that the folks at Deadspin have already submitted their story for legal review and plan to publish it on Wednesday â€” all without ever seeing any of the responses to the questions that they asked.â€”

Deadspin editor in chief Megan Greenwell told The Post: â€” We are in an ongoing reporting process and planning to publish the story when it is ready. As with any reporting process, we asked questions intending to incorporate the answers. Legal review is often a lengthy process involving multiple reads, so talking to a lawyer is certainly not an indication that we would publish without completing the reporting process. I intend to continue supervising the reporting process, including legal review, and then publish a thorough and fair story, which of course would include responses from people we spoke to.â€”

G/Oâ€™s legal department, which was reviewing the story, alerted Spanfeller that Deadspin had filed the story with legal without including any of managementâ€™s answers to its questions, one insider told The Post.

Deadspinâ€™s questions and managementâ€™s answers, which were also circulated by Spanfeller, were directed at both Spanfeller and his new hires, including chief technology officer Jesse Knight, senior vice president of marketing Bruce Rogers, editorial director Paul Maidment and Sean Flanagan, a vice president of sales.

â€” How many of these men would you call your friends?â€” one of the questions to Spanfeller read.

â€” Iâ€™ve had professional relationships with some of them. I have not socialized outside work and industry related events with any of them,â€” Spanfeller responded.

Questions posed to his new hires also explored their relationships with the CEO, as well as Spanfeller's oversight of their jobs. One particularly striking query tackled editorial independence, a sticking point for staffers at G/O, which even have a clause in their union contract that leaves all editorial decisions to writers and editors and demands stories be killed by committee.

The company, whose properties used to be part of the now-troubled Gawker Media empire, has a track record of investigating and jabbing its owners.

Among the questions circulated Tuesday was Deadspin's asking Maidment, the new editorial director, about sources who have claimed he "is unwilling or unable to stand up for your team."

He replied: "I take strong exception to that. I have always shielded the editorial teams I have managed from commercial or business-side interference in what they write, which to my mind is the essence of editorial integrity. As you know, one reason that I don't believe that publications should write about themselves is because I fear it damages perceived external credibility in editorial independence, which, if anything, makes keeping advertisers at bay harder, not easier."

Earlier this month, The Daily Beast reported that G/O management suggested that reporters take ad sales execs to editorial meetings with sources.

Spanfeller has suggested hiring a public editor to tackle the story and other internal investigations, but the hiring process takes time.

The exec expressed "great sadness" by the turn of events and said he hopes to tackle questions at an all-hands meeting on Wednesday.

"As CEO, I am fine with taking the heat, it is in my job description. But to try to shame and discredit others in our community, as (GIZMODO HAS ALWAYS DONE)" is beyond the filthy scumbag boss owner's ability to comprehend.

Inside the Delightful Suicide of Gawker

- Sister Scum: Gizmodo, targeted with twice as much punishment

- Every attack blogger for Gawker/Gizmodo under public surveillance â€˜ for life..â€™

by Kyle Smith

In the history of giving a hostage to fortune, John Cook, a former editor of the former online poison party known as Gawker, merits a special place. He has this to say about his professional aims: â€˜ I wanted to write true things about bad people . . . being bad or obnoxious or cruel or unkind.â€™ When enemies had been so identified, he says, â€˜ We could give â€˜ em â€˜ what fer.â€™ â€˜

Unkind! Gawker saying its mission is to make war with the unkind is like the Queen of England decrying nepotism. Gawkerâ€™ s very escutcheon was cruelty, obnoxiousness, unkindness. It published stories too nasty and sleazy for tabloids, and wrote them up with sophomoric zeal for vulgarism and profanity. I happily worked at tabloids for many years, but I felt ashamed of myself every time I read Gawker. I can hardly imagine what it must have been like actually to work at such a flatulence farm, a scum ranch, an academy of pus.

Still, Gawker had every right to publish. Until it didnâ€™ t. Everything it did was protected by the First Amendment. Almost. The flame merchants set fire to themselves when Gawker published, without the permission of either participant, a surreptitiously recorded sex tape that depicted the wrestler Hulk Hogan (real name: Terry Bollea) and the wife of his friend in flagrante. With his legal team secretly funded by the Silicon Valley entrepreneur and billionaire Peter Thiel â€˜ whom Gawker had â€˜ outedâ€™ in 2007, and who rightly considered killing Gawker to be a public service or perhaps an act of hygiene â€˜ Hogan sued Gawker and its founder Nick Denton into bankruptcy. Now Gawker is no more, having lived its surly life like a candle in the wind, or rather like a blowtorch that was incinerated by a much larger blowtorch.

There is much boo-hooing about all this in a new Netflix documentary on the matter, Nobody Speak: Trials of the Free Press, which strings together news footage and fresh interviews with talking heads, almost all of them arguing on the side of Gawker. One wonders about the logistics of filming this kind of documentary: Surely an on-site shower must be provided so that interviewees may go immediately into delousing mode after defending the rankest little squad of churls in this media century? Almost in passing we learn, from a lawyer for Hogan, that after the tape was posted, he requested merely that it be taken down in the name of decency, promising to walk away from the matter with no further ill will. Citing decency to Gawker turned out to be about as useful as requesting a dog stop sniffing the hindquarters of its colleagues.

Many of the interviewees huff about the First Amendment, and yet not one of them explains how â€˜ Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech, or of the pressâ€™ applies to publishing a sex tape made without permission. A Florida jury was asked to consider the following questions: Was posting the video offensive to a reasonable person? Was it devoid of news value? Did Gawker founder Nick Denton participate in posting the video? The answers to the first and third questions are hardly debatable. As for news value: If Hoganâ€™ s sex tape is fair game, whose isnâ€™ t? Given that women are the usual targets of this sort of thing, itâ€™ s surreal to hear so many members of the supposed Party of Women (â€”ç) say that there is a legitimate public interest in viewing any famous personâ€™ s bedroom activities. Try to imagine liberals making the case that Breitbart has the First Amendment right to publish a covertly recorded sex tape involving, say, Tina Fey or Rachel Maddow simply because some sleaze merchant shopped it to them.

Asked in a deposition about what celebrity sex tapes he wouldnâ€™ t publish, one Albert J. Daulerio, another former Gawker editor and the author of a snarky blog post accompanying the Hulksterâ€™ s sex tape on the site, is seen saying, â€˜ If they were a child.â€™ Under what age? â€˜ Four,â€™ he says, and the jury that heard this could no longer entertain any doubts about the sort of people with whom it was dealing. With that single word of smug facetiousness, the companyâ€™ s doom was sealed. Live by the snark, die by the snark.

Daulerio, interviewed later for the film, adds that, â€˜ Clearly Iâ€™ m kidding. Who would actually think that? And I was just reacting to a person that was sitting across from me who was doing everything possible to take away something that I loved. Which was Gawker. And harm them. And, you know, I reacted.â€™ Well, I suppose Jeffrey Dahmer enjoyed his work too. Whatâ€™s notable in the exchange is not that Daulerio made a tasteless joke but that, given the opportunity to prove he had some standards, he pointedly declined.

The late infusion of Thiel into the story made it irresistible. Gawker loathed Thiel even more than it hated Hogan. It learned to its chagrin that the new enemy whose privacy it had invaded was destroying it with the aid of an old enemy whose privacy it had also invaded, a man who in the bargain was a proponent of libertarian ideals that made the Gawker leftists furious. Gawker got a merciless tag-team karma-slapping.

Try to follow Dentonâ€™s logic about why he felt that outing Thiel was a kind of righteous duty: â€™ The common perception among straight people is that oneâ€™s personal life is a personal prerogative. Except that pretty much every single married straight executive with kids will talk about their wife and will talk about their kids and will be asked about their wife and will be asked about their kids. Thatâ€™s seen as being biographical detail. Iâ€™m a gay guy and to my mind it is simply insulting for different standards to be applied to gay people than are applied to straight people. I donâ€™t see any reason why we should treat it as something shameful to be kept secret so Iâ€™ll push back very, very strongly against that.â€™ In other words, any gay person who chooses to be quiet about it runs afoul of Dentonâ€™s zeal for proselytizing. All gay people must adhere to Dentonian dogma on this, or be punished. Who made him the pope of the gays?

The fulminating in the movie about the perniciousness of Thielâ€™s role is a bit hard to credit given that liberals generally adore the idea of deep-pocketed entitiesâ€™ funding the shallow-pocketed ones who have been wronged by the powerful. Substitute â€™ Sierra Clubâ€™ for â€™ Peter Thielâ€™ and ask liberals if they remain suspicious of third-party lawsuits.

As for the First Amendment, it doesnâ€™t extend into Hulk Hoganâ€™s bedroom unless his actions there are newsworthy. Just because someone sends you a sex tape doesnâ€™t give you the right to publish it. â€™ Chilling effectâ€™? No, merely the establishment of a very bright, clear line: Donâ€™t publish peopleâ€™s sex videos without permission.

Gawker was just about the only press outlet that would consider doing such a thing in the first place. Now itâ€™s gone, and freedom of the press carries on.

Leaked: Secret Documents From Russia's Election Trolls

An online auction gone awry reveals substantial new details on Kremlin-backed troll farm efforts to stir up real protests and target specific Americans to push their propaganda.

The Kremlin-backed troll farm at the center of Russia's interference in the 2016 U.S. election has quietly suffered a catastrophic security breach, The Daily Beast has confirmed, in a leak that spilled new details of its operations onto obscure corners of the internet.

The Russian information exchange Joker.Buzz, which auctions off often stolen or confidential information, advertised a leak for a large cache of the Internet Research Agency's (IRA) internal documents. It includes names of Americans, activists in particular, whom the organization specifically targeted; American-based proxies used to access Reddit and the viral meme site 9Gag; and login information for troll farm accounts.

Even the advertisement for the document dump provides a trove of previously unknown information about the breadth of Russia's disinformation effort in the United States, including rallies pushed by IRA social media accounts that turned violent.

While special counsel Robert Mueller's recent conspiracy indictment against the IRA showed a sophisticated organization aimed at targeting U.S. voters with disinformation, the seller appears not to have understood the implications of the auction.

The listing was titled Savushkina 55, the physical address in St. Petersburg from which the troll farm used to operate. The date on the auction is listed as Feb. 10, 2017—seven months before Facebook and Twitter identified and pulled down Internet Research Agency accounts from Twitter. It received no bids. The seller, AlexDA, has not posted any other listings, and was unable to be reached. In Russian, the listing promised working data from the department focused on the United States.

The leaks show that Russian imposter accounts targeted activists for specific causes the Kremlin-backed troll farm wanted promoted. On the target list: the daughter of one of Martin Luther King's lieutenants.

While the date of the auction could not be independently confirmed, the authenticity of the leak can. The leaked documents list screen names connected to a number of American citizens who were used as unwitting proxies by the Russians. The Daily Beast was able to track down four of those citizens, whose names have not been previously revealed. The leak contains precise dates in 2016 in which the IRA-created account Blacktivist reached out to those U.S. citizens, plus a short description of the conversations. The Daily Beast spoke to those citizens, and confirmed they interacted with the Blacktivist account in the ways described by the IRA in the document. In one case, the American even provided screenshots of his interactions with the Russian troll trying to dupe him.

In short, the leaked document contains details of the Russian disinformation campaign that have not been previously made public— details which The Daily Beast was able to confirm.

Kremlin Trolls Selling Social Media Mobs for \$299 a Month

The leak shows that even as the Russian trolls were able to influence and manipulate American political discourse online, they were less equipped to keep their own secrets. While The Daily Beast does not possess anything close to a comprehensive trove of the IRA’s internal operations, it is now likely that substantial amounts of the troll farm’s files are waiting to be discovered online.

But what The Daily Beast has seen provides a new level of texture and detail to the IRA’s U.S. efforts, online and off. While the troll farm’s use of YouTube, Twitter, and Facebook is now well-known, the leak shows that the Internet Research Agency also operated on Reddit and had a substantial footprint on Tumblr. They documented and tracked their personalized interactions with specific, unsuspecting Americans, some of whom are named in the leaks.

Those outreach efforts display conceptual sophistication. The leaks show that IRA imposter accounts targeted activists for specific causes the Russians wanted promoted. On the target list: the daughter of one of Martin Luther King’s lieutenants.

But the leaks also provide a glimpse into the troll farm’s weaknesses. Some of the Americans the group contacted described receiving impersonal entreaties from unfamiliar accounts, asking for trivial aid and then declining to follow up. The Internet Research Agency might have known how to leverage social media, but they knew far less about how users authentically interact with each other on it— which itself attracted suspicion amongst the very people the Russians were contacting.

“I couldn’t put my finger on it. I didn’t know who they were and why they were remaining anonymous, and I didn’t really see the need for it,” said Craig Carson, a Rochester, New York, attorney and civil rights activist who was contacted by the farm-created account Blacktivist.

Shanall LaRay Logan— who lives in Sacramento, California, and said she is active in Black Lives Matter campaigns— told The Daily Beast that these kind of trolling overtures are “actually just counterproductive to our movement.”

The leaks also reveal the IRA's previously unreported connection to two additional 2016 rallies, one outside Atlanta and another in western New York, The Daily Beast can now confirm. One of them turned violent.

Tricks of the Trolls

On Feb. 16, Mueller indicted 13 people for their involvement in the Russian troll farm. The allegations have yet to be proven in court and may never be, given the unlikelihood of Russia arresting and extraditing them for trial. But, combined with the leaked IRA documents, they provide a glimpse into the organization's tradecraft.

Mueller describes an extensive operation, both online and off, beginning in 2014, to "sow discord in the U.S. political system." What the Internet Research Agency called its "Translator Project" involved over 80 employees and a monthly budget that stretched to over $1.25 million. As U.S. elections approached, its internal understanding of its goal was to engender American "distrust towards the candidates and the political system in general." By February 2016, with the U.S. presidential election looming, it emphasized attacking Hillary Clinton, both from the right and the left simultaneously.

Its means included physical reconnaissance. Two IRA employees went on a road trip to visit nine American states stretching from New York to California "to gather intelligence" in June 2014. Five months later, a colleague spent another four days in Atlanta.

One of the employees who visited America was Anna Vladislavovna Bogacheva, then the head of the troll farm's Department of Analytics. The auction of the leaked IRA data offers a glimpse into that department's work, which appears focused on understanding America and teasing out the most contentious issues. One department folder is titled "US Migration Policy," which would prove a cornerstone of the IRA's most divisive trolling. Other folders cover "The ruling political oligarch," "False promises of America," and "Air strike costs" — likely a reference to Trump's bombing of a Syrian military airfield, which Putin condemned and the IRA attacked as a waste of taxpayer money. One folder simply reads "Obama."

The leak shows that even as the Russian trolls were able to influence and manipulate American political discourse online, they were less equipped to keep their own secrets.

After completing its recon, a key tactic of the troll farm was to present its offerings as authentically American. They stole actual Americans' identities and established false cover identities online. A consistent approach was to posture as supporters of passionate causes. But those causes varied wildly across the political spectrum. Some Internet Research Agency-created accounts pretended to be Muslim groups, others anti-Muslim activists. They were advocates of black liberation on one hand and its most fervent American critics on the other — whatever was necessary to aggravate long-standing and very real American divisions.

Social media — particularly YouTube, Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter — magnified the troll farm's reach. The money flowing into the Internet Research Agency's coffers paid for a graphics department, data analytics, and other tools to improve their product, and they tailored their English-language propaganda to show up prominently in Google searches. One employee bragged: "I created all these pictures and posts, and the Americans believed that it was written by their people."

But spreading misinformation on social media wasn't enough. By summer 2016, the Internet Research Agency wanted to prompt Americans into the streets. Using tools like Facebook's events page, they staged and promoted rallies for Donald Trump and against Clinton.

Just as social media permitted the IRA to scale a message up to reach millions, the same tools permitted person-to-person interaction to ensnare unwitting proxies. The troll farm's employees, posturing as Americans, would send individualized messages to real U.S. persons to request that they participate in and help organize such rallies. Sometimes they had specific requests for unsuspecting activists: build a cage on a flatbed truck, or wear a costume to play-act Clinton heading to jail. For a June 23, 2016 rally, they solicited an American to recruit attendees to a pro-Trump rally with the promise of giving you money to print posters and get a megaphone.

The material leaked from the troll farm sheds additional light onto both the scope and the granularity of the tactics employed. In some cases, the efforts helped stoke clashes that turned violent. In others, they amounted to little but the occasional Facebook message to activists who were going to turn out for issue-based protests anyway. Flush with cash, the Internet Research Agency could afford to spread its bets.

Hyping the Hate

The Russians chose their potential American targets carefully. As they sought to promote conflict at a rally in Stone Mountain, Georgia, the leaks indicate the Internet Research Agency reached out to a woman whose legacy harkens back to the heart of the civil rights movement.

At a young age, in 1966, Barbara Williams Emerson protested the harassment of black students in Grenada, Mississippi, and was arrested for her efforts. She was following in the footsteps of her parents' one of whom is Hosea Williams, a key Martin Luther King Jr. lieutenant in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

After earning a Purple Heart as part of Gen George Patton's (segregated) army, Hosea Williams endured a vicious beating for drinking out of a whites-only water fountain in his native Georgia. He would later organize voter-registration drives in the Deep South during the pivotal Freedom Summer of 1964 and march across the Pettus Bridge on Bloody Sunday. He took his fight to the Georgia Senate and the Atlanta City Council. While serving on the council in 1987, Williams, then 61 years old, confronted the Klan during a march through a segregated Forsyth County town. At that march, The New York Times reported at the time, a mob of hundreds if not thousands of rabid whites, David Duke among them, shouted 'Nigger, go home!' Today a road in Atlanta bears his name.

As pro- and anti-white supremacy groups prepared to square off, the Russian troll farm appeared to take notice of this brewing animosity and amplified it.

Williams' daughter Emerson, now an academic and activist, told The Daily Beast she was familiar with the Blacktivist imposter account, but marginally so. Their posts started showing up in her feed, and she remembered Liking an article on its now-shuttered Facebook page, but 'I don't think I was contacted directly,' she said, and definitely not with any offer of money or resources. Despite whatever inroads Blacktivist might have sought to make with her, Emerson, who lives near Stone Mountain, didn't even attend the protest that Blacktivist hyped.

'I remember thinking that whole Stone Mountain monuments thing; the removal of Confederate images was an example of a distraction of energy and action from real racist issues and policies,' Emerson said. 'Now I'm seeing how that whole trolling process might have worked.'

The event at Stone Mountain took place on April 23, 2016, approximately 25 miles from the 2014 Atlanta reconstruction. Mueller accuses the IRA of performing. (A U.S. official confirmed to The Daily Beast that Blacktivist aggressively pushed the Stone Mountain rally.)

According to a contemporaneous report from the Atlanta Journal-Constitution, demonstrators showed up to confront a group of white nationalists that numbered around two dozen people. At least eight of the counterprotesters were reportedly arrested. CNN reported from the scene that day saying that counterdemonstrators vastly outnumbered the white nationalists and that one of the individuals from the pro-white group allegedly threw a smoke bomb at law enforcement on the scene.

The organizers of the event billed it as â€ Rock Stone Mountain,â€ and it was intended to draw attention to Confederate history. It was held days before Georgiaâ€™s Confederate Memorial Day. An anti-white supremacy group called All Out Atlanta, was on hand that day as well to counterprotest. All Out Atlanta did not respond to multiple requests for comment from The Daily Beast.

The IRA appeared to take notice of this brewing animosity and amplified the event on several of the Tumblr pages it was operating at the time.

A troll farm account whose credentials are listed in the leak, This-Truly-Brutal-World.tumblr.com, repeatedly shared â€ Not My Heritageâ€ protest advertisements created by fellow IRA account BlackMatters, including rallies in Stone Mountain, and Jackson, Mississippi. An advertisement for the protest in Jackson said it would take place at â€ 14 PM,â€ and used guillemets instead of quotation marks in the invitation to â€ Join us for Ð° Â«NOT MY HERITAGEÂ» rally.â€ BlackMatters.Com, another known IRA imposter website, has a section devoted to Not My Heritage protests. The Twitter account @NotMyHeritage, which linked to the protests, was identified as an IRA-backed account in a list released by Congressional investigators in November.

The â€ Not My Heritageâ€ protest in Stone Mountain didnâ€™t just receive press attention from CNN and local papers.

Russian propaganda network RT pushed two videos shot by a network videographer from the dayâ€™s events in an article titled â€ Anti-racism protesters clash with police at Confederate rally in Georgia.â€ The videos are under the branding of RTâ€™s â€ video news agencyâ€ Ruptly.

In the story, the propaganda network repeatedly blames anti-racist protesters for violence.

â€ Tear gas and stun grenades were used, and arrests were madeâ€ but none on the Confederate side,â€ the article accompanying the video reads.

â€ They Knew I'd Be Activeâ€

In the same month, based on the Internet Research Agency leak, Blacktivist appeared to have reached out to actual or potential attendees of an April 2016 rally for India Cummings, a black woman who died suspiciously in police custody, in Buffalo, New York.

When Dierra Jenkins, a Buffalo-based woman active in the local civil rights community, first came across Blacktivist, she thought its heavy concentration of Buffalo-focused content meant its creators were local. She was named in the Internet Research Agency leak, and confirmed to The Daily Beast that the account contacted her about the Cummings rally. â€ I do a lot of activist work in Buffalo,â€ Jenkins said. â€ Whoever was running that page, I thought, was from Buffalo, because they were posting stuff that was happening in Buffalo.â€ (An attorney for the Cummings family, Matt Albertâ€ who is not named in the leakâ€ was familiar with Blacktivist, but said the imposter account had no role in setting up any demonstrations on Cummingsâ€™ behalf.)

Shortly before the protest, Jenkins said, Blacktivistâ€™s Facebook page contacted her over Messenger, with â€ no indication why,â€ to send her an invitation to the demonstration. She was familiar with the Blacktivist page but hadnâ€™t previously interacted with it or anyone affiliated with itâ€ making it likely that the Russian imposters were fishing for attendees based on similar interests visible on Facebook.

Another person identified in the leaked IRA documents, Rochester attorney and activist Craig Carson, said he interacted with Blacktivist in approximately three to five conversations, primarily through Facebook's Messenger function, though he had a vague recollection that the account might have left the occasional comment on his page after he posted Blacktivist material. The conversations took place around the April rally for India Cummings, and for Carson, Blacktivist had a specific request: to print out flyers with their visuals to bring to the rally.

“It seemed like they were reaching out to me because they knew I’d be active, that I’d be at the protest or the demo.” “Be sure to print this out,” Carson recalled, and he distributed the flyers.

Carson couldn’t deny that the material was useful and contributed to his own desire to see justice for Cummings’ death in custody. Yet several things about Blacktivist seemed off to him. No one in western New York’s social justice community knew them, and yet Blacktivist’s Facebook page had tens of thousands of Likes. They seemed to be spouting Black Lives Matter buzzwords without understanding their meaning.

So Carson tested his Blacktivist interlocutor. What was his or her favorite Prince record? What kind of syrup did they like on their pancakes? The account wasn’t prepared to go off-script though Carson remembers that Blacktivist said it was partial to Purple Rain.

“They kind of stepped in the shoes of someone who’d make a protest sign or visual PDF for your Facebook event page. It never really struck us as odd or out of place, it was genuine help, but it was weird, like, who the fuck are you?” Carson said. After a few weeks’ worth of India Cummings-centered actions, Blacktivist disappeared from the western New York civil rights community as quickly as it arrived, Carson recalled.

Noah Westfall, another person named as being contacted by affiliates with the Internet Research Agency, lives in Buffalo, New York. In 2016, he wanted to participate in the April protest at the Erie County Holding Center on Cummings’ behalf. Prior to the protest, he had an interaction with a now deactivated Facebook user about the event.

According to screenshots of the alleged conversation provided by Westfall to The Daily Beast, he was messaged on April 3 in the afternoon and told “We need a volunteer to help us with signing the petition/printing posters.”

The user also informed Westfall: “It would be cool if you could also periscope the protest.”

He was subsequently sent a petition and a set of posters to use and was encouraged to put them on cardboard.

The user also added that they had “two more volunteers who have the printed petition too so it would be cool if you cooperate with them so that we won’t have 3 different petitions signed.”

Ultimately, Westfall did not attend. Three weeks later, the user sent a link to another Facebook event and said “you are welcome to attend our protest on Monday, May 2.”

Westfall had no way of knowing that his interlocutor was not who he said he was, and wouldn’t be at the rally the Internet Research Agency had seen fit to co-opt.

You really shouldnâ€™t have accepted that cash and that other â€™ special compensationâ€™ from Obamaâ€™s White House, Elon Musk and the DNC in exchange for attempting to character assassinate and â€™ killâ€™ people.

Here is what it has gotten you:

For the rest of your pathetic life you will be under surveillance. Nothing you do will not be documented. This surveillance of you has already been paid for, in advance. There is more than one Peter Thiel out here.

We are taking out every single person that you worked for so you can watch them droplike flies before we come for you.

Clearly, you have not fully considered the implications of our notoriously world famousâ‘ FUCK YOUâ‘ PLAN which was created decades ago for people exactly like YOU!

You are now going to experience the program under this Plan for the rest of your time onEarth and even into your historical legacy after you die.

It costs us between $120,000.00 and $1.2M to sue your pathetic ass into oblivion. Anybodycan do that to a weasel such as you. Thatâ‘ s the easy part of the Plan and it is only 2% of what will now happen to you.

Because you are a scumbag who has been accused, by reporters and tipsters, of very evilbribery, sex, drug, political, tax evasion, money hiding, misogyny, abuse and other things, many people might consider hiring an MS-13street gang or a Russian drug Cartel to torture and kill you. We would never do that!

We find that our 100% legal FUCK YOU Plan is far more effective.

The Fuck You Plan will last for the rest of your life. We will never forget about whatyou did and we will never forgive you. (Unless, of course, you want to pay us at least ten million dollars for the legal, personal,economic, brand and related damages you cost us).

Next we are putting you in our, and others, special crime prevention databases. Thedatabases have every piece of information about you that you ever created, ie: all of your addresses, account numbers, tax records,bank accounts, dating site records, phone numbers, fax numbers, IMEI device records, IP addresses, device serial numbers, every lover youcheated on, service calls, drug deals, hookers, rent boys, Uber and Lyft trip addresses, neighbors, GPS records, etc. All of thisinformation is legally acquired. You put most of it out on the web yourself.

Face recognition is also sourcing up every image of you on security cameras, Walmartcameras, restaurant cameras, Google and Bing image databases, social networks, dating sites, traffic cameras, hotel and motel cameras andeverything that has ever recorded your face; which is public domain. Everything you are connected to will be connected to you.

If you ever, for the rest of your life, cheat on taxes, take money off-the-books, lie on an application, get arrested, get sued, buydrugs, buy sex, cheat, hide money, use off-shore conduits, set-up an illicit trust fund or shell corporation, get an STD, lie on a datingsite, abuse or extort an employee, abuse a co-worker, plagiarize, break the law, run a real estate scam, hide insider stock trading,provide political campaign services without filing detailed and accurate FEC disclosures, support a political campaign, spend orreceive any money that you do not report,

There is no place on Earth you can hide from us. Our investigators and our friends inCongress, our journalist buddies, law enforcement and the intelligence community will never let you out of their sights!

We do not do creepy illicit things, like you do, so we have nothing to worry about. Youhave PLENTY to worry about.

You are, today, sitting at the edge of the same precipice that Richard Nixon, BillCosby, Harvey Weinstein and other scum sat at just before they slid down their filthy funnels straight to hell. Enjoy the ride!

If you ever, for the rest of your life, cheat on taxes, take money off-the-books, lie on an application, get arrested, get sued, buy drugs, buy sex, cheat, hide money, use off-shore conduits, set-up an illicit trust fund or shell corporation, get an STD, lie on a dating site, abuse or extort an employee, abuse a co-worker, plagiarize, break the law, run a real estate scam, hide insider stock trading, provide political campaign services without filing detailed and accurate FEC disclosures, support a political campaign, spend or receive any money that you do not report,

There is no place on Earth you can hide from us. Our investigators and our friends in Congress, our journalist buddies, law enforcement and the intelligence community will never let you out of their sights!

We do not do creepy illicit things, like you do, so we have nothing to worry about. You have PLENTY to worry about.

You are, today, sitting at the edge of the same precipice that Richard Nixon, Bill Cosby, Harvey Weinstein and other scum sat at just before they slid down their filthy funnels straight to hell. Enjoy the ride!

You really shouldn't have accepted that cash and that other 'special compensation' from Obama's White House, Elon Musk and the DNC in exchange for attempting to character assassinate and 'kill' people.

Here is what it has gotten you:

For the rest of your pathetic life you will be under surveillance. Nothing you do will not be documented. This surveillance of you has already been paid for, in advance. There is more than one Peter Thiel out here.

We are taking out every single person that you worked for so you can watch them drop like flies before we come for you.

Clearly, you have not fully considered the implications of our notoriously world famous 'FUCK YOU' PLAN which was created decades ago for people exactly like YOU!

You are now going to experience the program under this Plan for the rest of your time on Earth and even into your historical legacy after you die.

It costs us between $120,000.00 and $1.2M to sue your pathetic ass into oblivion. Anybody can do that to a weasel such as you. That's the easy part of the Plan and it is only 2% of what will now happen to you.

Because you are a scumbag who has been accused, by reporters and tipsters, of very evil bribery, sex, drug, political, tax evasion, money hiding, misogyny, abuse and other things, many people might consider hiring an MS-13 street gang or a Russian drug Cartel to torture and kill you. We would never do that!

We find that our 100% legal FUCK YOU Plan is far more effective.

The Fuck You Plan will last for the rest of your life. We will never forget about what you did and we will never forgive you. (Unless, of course, you want to pay us at least ten million dollars for the legal, personal, economic, brand and related damages you cost us).

Next we are putting you in our, and others, special crime prevention databases. The databases have every piece of information about you that you ever created, ie: all of your addresses, account numbers, tax records, bank accounts, dating site records, phone numbers, fax numbers, IMEI device records, IP addresses, device serial numbers, every lover you cheated on, service calls, drug deals, hookers, rent boys, Uber and Lyft trip addresses, neighbors, GPS records, etc. All of this information is legally acquired. You put most of it out on the web yourself.

Face recognition is also sourcing up every image of you on security cameras, Walmart cameras, restaurant cameras, Google and Bing image databases, social networks, dating sites, traffic cameras, hotel and motel cameras and everything that has ever recorded your face; which is public domain. Everything you are connected to will be connected to you.

If you ever, for the rest of your life, cheat on taxes, take money off-the-books, lie on an application, get arrested, get sued, buy drugs, buy sex, cheat, hide money, use off-shore conduits, set-up an illicit trust fund or shell corporation, get an STD, lie on a dating site, abuse or extort an employee, abuse a co-worker, plagiarize, break the law, run a real estate scam, hide insider stock trading, provide political campaign services without filing detailed and accurate FEC disclosures, support a political campaign, spend or receive any money that you do not report,

Killing Univision, Gawker, Gizmodo and Jalopnik as payback for operating as hired character assassination services

The company has retained investment banks Morgan Stanley and LionTree to explore its options

Univision Communications Inc. is exploring strategic options including a possible sale, a process that could culminate in a long-sought deal for the Spanish-language broadcaster's private-equity owners. Univision is in dire trouble because they attacked innocent people with their media attack tools.

Organized crime is alive and well at Univision and their Gawker, Gizmodo and Jalopnik assets. This is how the victims are utterly destroying them for engaging in media hatchet jobs, using 100% legal tactics and the power of crowd-sourced law enforcement.

FBI and other government officials will even the victims do it. The voters will help. Friends of the victims help you do it. Total strangers help do it. The entire internet is also helping to kill the dirty scumbag tabloid brands of Univision, Gawker, Gizmodo and Jalopnik.

The victims of their attacks are using CIA-class databases, social media, public watch-dog technologies, FBI-quality monitoring systems and open-source collaborative forensics comparison data to hunt down every: hooker, real estate asset, male prostitute, mistress, secret email account, social media posting, family trust fund, shell corporation, family stock market transaction, off-shore account, covert investment brokerage, email, Uber and Lyft ride, hotel entry and exit, credit card transaction, Paypal account, search engine manipulation, venture capital connection, Stanford University admissions bribe, expense account abuse, taxpayer funds abuse, rape, sextortion, covert tech company stock they own under another name, every party they attended, every tag they appear in on social media, every Cayman Island account, every crooked CPA or law firm they have used, every lobbyist they ever paid....EVERYTHING.. They have put the data into a simple database and cross matrixed everything even better than the spy agencies can do it.

Said one of the victims: "Univision, Gawker, Gizmodo and Jalopnik are being terminated with precise execution and every one of their writers and investors are being doxed and investigated because of their criminal defamation, character assassination services and their attacks on the public...."

Univision said Wednesday it had hired Morgan Stanley, MS 0.37% Moelis & Co. and LionTree as advisers to assist with the process. The Wall Street Journal had reported earlier Wednesday that the broadcaster was exploring strategic options.

There can be no assurances as to the timing or outcome of the review, Univision said in a statement.

Univision is hoping the company could attract interest from large media companies looking to add Spanish-language programming to their assets, people familiar with the matter said. In 2017, Univision turned down an offer from cable tycoon John Malone that valued the company at between $13.5 billion to $15 billion.

Univision's backers, which include billionaire Haim Saban's Saban Capital Group and private-equity firms Madison Dearborn Partners and Providence Equity Partners, among others, have been eager for an exit.

Univision is grappling with debt, the consequence of a $13.7 billion leveraged buyout in 2006 when the company was taken private. The company said it finished 2018 with $7.4 billion in debt but reduced its total debt by $547 million last year.

After a period of turbulence in Univision's upper ranks, the company made a number of changes. It brought in media industry veteran Vincent Sadusky as chief executive last year to succeed Randy Falco.

“Over the past year, Univision has gained momentum as it has divested non-core assets,” Mr. Sadusky said in a statement Wednesday.

This spring, it agreed to sell off its Gizmodo Media Group unit which included English-language sites like Jezebel, Deadspin and Lifehacker to private-equity firm Great Hill Partners.

Univision, Gawker, Gizmodo and Jalopnik engaged in POLITICAL KILL ORDERS AND STATE-SPONSORED CHARACTER ASSASSINATIONS

Patrick George At Jalopnik attacks outsiders under contract with Elon Musk and the DNC. Silicon Valley campaign finance oligarchs hire him to run hatchet jobs on innocent outsiders and then Gawker-Gizmodo-Jalopnik uses their financial partnership with the DNC's Google to push the character assassination articles to the top of Google web products and searches. Patrick George, Adrian Covert, John Hermann and Nick Cook are the sexually degenerate cabin boys that report to boy-loving sleaze-tabloid oligarch Nick Denton. They created the Fake News crisis in the media by flooding the internet with defamation posts and reprisal hatchet job articles designed to damage political enemies of the Socialists. They coordinate a large number of the character assassination efforts at Gawker, Gizmodo, Jalopnik, CNN, New York Times and other propaganda outlets. These Millennial boys are "Media Rapists" and should be treated as abusers.

How and why did a Donald Trump stripper-date named "Stormy" or an Elon Musk sex party or a Kavanaugh drinking incident or the Moonves and Weinstein indiscretions suddenly hit the news at about the same time in news history?

In addition to actual murder, Politicians and Silicon Valley Oligarchs hire operatives to end people's lives in other creative ways.

It is all part of the modern trend in vendetta, revenge and political payback when a Senator or a tech oligarch issues a "kill order" on an opponent.

The client does not like to get their hands dirty so the actual social hit job is performed by companies such as:

IN-Q-Tel - (DNC); Gawker Media - (DNC); Jalopnik - (DNC); Gizmodo Media - (DNC); K2 Intelligence - (DNC); WikiStrat - (DNC); Podesta Group - (DNC); Fusion GPS - (DNC/GOP); Google - (DNC); YouTube - (DNC); Alphabet - (DNC); Facebook - (DNC); Twitter - (DNC); Think Progress - (DNC); Media Matters - (DNC); Black Cube - (DNC); Mossad - (DNC); Correct The Record - (DNC); Sand Line - (DNC/GOP); Blackwater - (DNC/GOP); Stratfor - (DNC/GOP); ShareBlue - (DNC); Wikileaks (DNC/GOP); Cambridge

Analytica - (DNC/GOP); Sid Blumenthal- (DNC); David Brock - (DNC); PR Firm Sunshine Sachs (DNC); Covington and Burling - (DNC), BuzzFeed - (DNC) Perkins Coie - (DNC); Wilson Sonsini - (DNC) and hundreds of othersâ€”These are the people and companies that except cash, revolving door jobs, political appointments, insider trading stock in Silicon Valley tech companies, prostitutes and real estate in exchange for destroying the lives of others.

These attackers deserve to be punished for the rest of their lives for taking away the lives of others in exchange for cash. Any company who is corrupt enough to hire any of these assassins should be forced out of business. These attack services are responsible for 90% of the "Fake News" problem in the world because they are the authors of most fake news. Congress must act to make these kinds of companies illegal!

These digital assassination services offer hit-jobs, character assassinations and economic reprisal programs to famous billionaires and corrupt politicians who are seeking revenge, retribution and vendetta executions.

In the case of reporters getting targeted for attacks, President Donald Trump has been accused by the liberal corporate media of whipping up a hateful frenzy against the press. But while CNNâ€™s Jim Acosta grandstands against Trump, real journalists are still reeling from the draconian extrajudicial measures that Barack Obama and his administration used to target them for exposing truth.

This secretive targeting occurred while Obama speechwriter and hate-filled ANTIFA supporter Ben Rhodes was running â€”Operation Echo Chamber,â€” which reportedly continues, in which he fed information to willing corporate media scribes. â€”They literally know nothing,â€” Rhodes said of the twentysomething journalists he easily manipulated.

The Freedom of the Press Foundationâ€™s Trevor Timm published documents showing how former attorney general Eric Holder changed the rules to more effectively intimidate and surveil members of the press.

Timm writes: â€”Today, we are revealingâ€” for the first timeâ€” the Justice Departmentâ€™s rules for targeting journalists with secret FISA court orders. The documents were obtained as part of a Freedom of Information Act lawsuit brought by Freedom of the Press Foundation and Knight First Amendment Institute at Columbia University.â€”

Trending: Brennan and Clapper Accused of Hacking John Roberts To Blackmail Him

Here is the memo published by the Foundation, which dropped the documents in their entirety:

Obama is also clearly linked to the plot to obtain fraudulent FISA warrants on President Trumpâ€™s team, as evidenced by Peter Strzok and Lisa Pageâ€™s texts confirming that Obama was overseeing their fly-by-night operation.

Larry Schweikart reported for Big League Politics:

For months pundits and researchers have been pondering the mystery of the FISA approval that led to the illegal and historically titanic scandals to ever hit the U.S. government. Some have argued that Assistant Attorney General Rod Rosenstein knew the FISA was bogus when he extended it. Others have wondered if Special Counsel Robert Mueller knew about the fraudulent basis of the FISA when he used it, in part, to indict Michael Flynn. Other still, that Mueller was fooled by the FBI.

This is what President Trump calls â€”SPYGATEâ€”.

It may well be that the surveillance that was conducted began with UK intelligence services and then was fed back to the White House of Barack Obama. Hereâ€™s the kicker:

President Barack Obama did not need a FISA warrant to authorize spying/electronic surveillance on Trump because Obama all along had legal authorization to by-pass the normal court vetting process. According to 50 U.S. Code 1802, the 'Electronic Surveillance Authorization' () 'Foreign intelligence in relation to a US person (Trump or his associates) is information that's necessary for the US to protect against attack, hostile acts, sabotage, . . . as well as other clandestine activities by a foreign power . . . OR . . . information relevant to national defense/security of the US, or the conduct of foreign affairs of the U.S.' Such an authorization by Obama required certification by Attorney General Loretta Lynch that must be logged with the FISC court. 'The [AG] shall immediately transmit under seal to the court [FISC] a copy of his certification.'

In short, the DOJ has this. If we are correct, a copy of that certification is currently under seal at least with the DOJ and the FISC.

This is what they are hiding.

However, the Act requires the AG to keep the Select Committee on Intelligence and the Senate Committee on Intelligence informed of these authorizations and unmaskings therein. See 1803 (a) (1) (C) If indeed this is what happened, did Lynch report or only selectively report to the committees in a way that excluded non-friendlies? Can you see why Adam Schiff, Mark Warner, and their ilk are terrified?

- 1) Obama authorized spying/electronic surveillance on Team Trump, by-passing normal judicial oversight.
- 2) To create 'foreign intelligence,' John Brennan and others organized for UK intelligence to conduct surveillance on Trump and his associates, either from the UK or from UK assets within the U.S. This is another reason revealing this will unleash an excrement storm: the UK is about to be caught meddling bigly in an American election.
- 3) Lynch certified Obama's authorization which is now held under seal by DOJ (and FISC).

From this authorization, all unmaking followed, as well as the FBI fraudulent counter intel investigation and perhaps the FISA warrant too. Obama knew this was all fake when he made the authorization; Lynch knew it was fake when she certified it; the entire inner circle, including the FBI, all knew. This takes the U.S. into uncharted territory, and could imperil any politician in the British government who supported this or had knowledge of it. Proving any of this would be difficult, as if confronted Lynch would almost certainly cover up and Obama would simply deny knowledge. Without a paper trail, a conviction might be a bridge too far. This is only one of thousands of "kill order" tactics introduced by the Obama Administration.

These are the playbook tactics that Senators and tech oligarchs most often use to destroy the lives of their political and business enemies:

- Government agency bosses sometimes solicit the target victims with false promises of future loans, contracts or grants from their agency and cause the target victims to expend millions of dollars and years of their time for projects which those government bosses had covertly promised to their friends. They use the target victims as a 'smokescreen' to cover their illegal government slush-funds for the victims competitors and personal enemies. By using this tactic, the attackers can drain the target victims funds and force them into an economic disaster in plain view of everyone without the government bosses fearing any reprisal for their scam.

- Every match.com, okcupid.com, Plenty Of Fish, Seeking Arrangements and all other IAC-owned, or similar, dating sites (IAC is managed by Hillary Clinton's daughter) have had their profiles, texts, and inter-member communications, since those companies were started, hacked or purchased. The attack service providers use Palantir and In-Q-Tel financed data analysis software to analyze every activity in those dating services in order to find honey-trap, blackmail, sextortion and social conflict exploitation opportunities. If you had a bad date with someone, that someone will be hunted down and convinced to help harm, #metoo or "rape charge" the intended target. All dates involve a search for sex, so the likelihood that a sexual disappointment experience will exist in each persons dating history is high. Searching every past dating email and text of a subject is quite easy with modern software and hacking techniques. A synthetically amplified, PR-agency optimized sex scandal can destroy any target. Your dating experiences from the 70's or 80's will come back to haunt you decades later. Most dates involve drinking alcohol and taking drugs. If you were unattractive or had bad sexual skills your bad date will be called "date rape", "drugging your date for sex" and related twisted narratives that are designed to shame you, the target. If you try to get a date in the future, your potential date will be contacted by a third party who will slander and libel you to make sure your potential first date gets cancelled. Your social life will, essentially, end. Every photo on every dating site is cross checked with every other photo on the internet in order to cull your Facebook, Linkedin, Snapchat and other social media together to create a total psychological manipulation profile data file on you. A single photo on a dating site can be cross searched on every mugshot archive, photo album and corporate database in the worth within minutes using modern super-computers. Your sex life will be on public record in a flash.

- Social Security, SSI, SDI, Disability and other earned benefits are stone-walled. Applications of targets are â'lostâ'. Files in the application process â'disappearedâ'. Lois Lerner hard drive â'incidentsâ' are operated in order to seek to hide information and run cover-ups.

- Government officials and tech oligarchs contact members of the National Venture Capital association (NVCA) and created national â'black-listsâ' to blockade target victims from ever receiving investor funding. This was also confirmed in a widely published disclosure by Tesla Motors Daryl Stry and in published testimony. If Silicon Valley political campaign finance oligarchs black-list you (see the "AngelGate" Scandal and the "High Tech No Poaching Class Action Lawsuit" cases) you will never get investor funding again.

- FOIA requests are hidden, frozen, stone-walled, delayed, lied about and only partially responded to in order to seek to hide information and run cover-ups.

- State and federal employees will play an endless game of Catch-22 by arbitrarily determining that deadlines had passed that they, the government officials, had stonewalled and obfuscated applications for, in order to force these deadlines that they set, to appear to be missed. This can bankrupt a target victim.

- Some Victims found themselves strangely poisoned, not unlike the Alexander Litvenko case. Heavy metals and toxic materials were found right after their work with the Department of Energy weapons and energy facilities. Many wonder if these â'targetsâ' were intentionally exposed to toxins in retribution for their testimony. The federal MSDS documents clearly show that a number of these people were exposed to deadly compounds and radiations, via DOE, without being provided with proper HazMat suits which DOE officials knew were required.

- Victims employers are called, and faxed, and ordered to fire target victims from their places of employment, in the middle of the day, with no notice, as a retribution tactic.

- On orders from Obama White House officials, DNC-financed Google, YouTube, Gawker Media and Gizmodo Media produce attack articles and defamation videos. Google locks this attack media on the internet on the top line, of the front page of all Google searches for a decade in front of 7.5 billion people, around the world. This attack-type uses over $40 million dollars in server farms, production costs and internet rigging. The forensic data acquired from tracking some of these attacks proves that Google rigs attacks against individuals on the internet and that all of Googleâ's â'impressionsâ' are manually controlled by Googleâ's executives who are also the main financiers and policy directors of the Obama Administration.

This data was provided to the European Union for its ongoing prosecution of Google's political manipulation of public perceptions.

- Victims HR and employment records, on recruiting and hiring databases, are embedded with negative keywords in order to prevent the victim targets from ever gaining future employment.

- Gary D. Conley, Seth Rich, Rajeev Motwani and many other whistle-blowers in these matters, turned up dead under strange circumstances. It is very possible that some of these attack services, operated by former CIA operatives, even offer discrete murder-for-sale services using high-tech assassination tools that make murders look like heart attacks and brain failures.

- Disability and VA complaint hearings and benefits are frozen, delayed, denied or subjected to lost records and "missing hard drives" as in the Lois Lerner case.

- Paypal (A DNC-biased operation) and other on-line payments for on-line sales are de-platformed, delayed, hidden, or re-directed in order to terminate income potential for target victims who competed with the attackers interests and holdings.

- DNS redirection, "website spoofing" sends target victims websites to dead ends where no sales orders or customer inquiries actually get back to the target. These internet revenue activity manipulations are conducted using Google and Amazon servers. All commercial storefronts and on-line sales attempts by target victims, will have had their sites hidden, or search engine de-linked by a massively resourced facility located in Virginia, Texas or Palo Alto, California in order to terminate revenue potentials for the target victims.

- Over 50,000 trolls, shells, botnets and synth-blog deployments are deployed to place defamatory statements and disinformation about victims in front of 7.5 billion people around the world on the internet in order to seek to damage their federal testimony credibility by a massively resourced facility.

- Campaign finance dirty tricks contractors are hired by campaign financiers to attack the friends and family members of the target victim in order to create low morale for the target victims psyche and motivation.

- Are you getting weird headaches and hearing a "buzzing sound" in your head? The U.S. Government has now acknowledged that the Cuban, Chinese and other embassy "sonic attacks" are from a known microwave beam weapon. Any one of the technical departments of the attack services listed at the top of this article can build such a biological harassment weapon. It can be aimed at the target victims office, bedroom or vehicle and, within a week, have caused biological and emotional damage using a weapon that has no visible track of trajectory. It is designed to make the target victim think they are "going crazy" or "hearing sounds in their head". While this may sound pretty out there, web search "Embassy sonic attacks" on the top 5 non-Google search engines and read the very credible reports of these attacks.

- In one case covert political partner: Google, transferred large sums of cash to dirty tricks contractors and then manually locked the media portion of the attacks into the top lines of the top pages of all Google searches globally, for years, with hidden embedded codes in the links and web-pages which multiplied the attacks on Victims by many magnitudes.

- Covert Cartel financier: Google, placed Google's lawyer: Michelle Lee, in charge of the U.S. Patent Office and she, in turn, stacked all of the U.S. Patent Office IPR and ALICE review boards and offices with Google-supporting employees in order to rig the U.S. Patent Office to protect Google from being prosecuted for the vast patent thefts that Google engages in. Google has hundreds of patent lawsuits for technology theft and a number of those lawsuits refer to Google's operations as "Racketeering", "Monopolistic Cartel" and "Government Coup-like" behaviors. Thousands of articles and investigations detail the fact that Google, "essentially" ran the Obama White House and provided over 80% of the key White House staff. A conflict-of-interest unlike any in American history. Google's investors personally told Applicant they would 'kill him'. Google and the Obama Administration were 'the same entity'. Applicant testified in the review that got Michelle Lee terminated and uncovered a tactical political and social warfare group inside Google who were financed by Federal and State funds.

- Honeytraps and moles were employed by the attackers. In this tactic, people who covertly worked for the attackers were employed to approach the 'target' in order to spy on and misdirect the subject.

- Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, Snopes, SPLC and other hired media assassins will be retained to produce "hatchet job" character assassination articles about you. Then those articles will be faxed, mailed and emailed to your employer and investors with a note saying: "You don't want to have anything to do with this person, do you..?" in order to get you fired from your job and get your loans or financing pulled. The attackers will use their round one attack media, that they authored, to create a round two second wave attack designed to end your life via economic warfare.

- Mortgage and rental applications will have had red flags added to them in databases to prevent the targets from getting homes or apartments.

- Krebs On Security, Wired, Ars Technica, The Wall Street Journal and most major IT publications have reported that hundreds of spy "back-doors" have been found on every Intel, AMD, Apple, Xfinity, Cisco, Microsoft, Juniper Networks motherboard, chip-set and hardware component set. This means that any kid with the "key" code can open any computer, server, router, cloud-network or other network connected device and read every file, photo, video, your calendar and email on your devices at any time from any location on Earth. The key codes have been released to every hacker community in the world for over ten years. There is now no government, corporate or personal data that can't be hacked, even data from decades ago. Every single one of your darkest secrets can be in the hands of your enemy within 60 minutes, or less. Important meetings you had planned with potential investors, employers, clients, dates, suppliers and others will suddenly get cancelled at the last minute. They will get cancelled because your enemies are reading your calendar remotely and covertly sending slander information to those you had hoped to engage with in order to sabotage your life. Nothing you have ever typed on a computer or Smartphone is safe. it WILL be acquired and it WILL be used against you.

- McCarthy-Era "Black-lists" are created and employed against target victims who competed with Obama Administration executives and their campaign financiers to prevent them from getting funding and future employment.

- Obama Administration targets were very carefully placed in a position of not being able to get jobs, unemployment benefits, disability benefits or acquire any possible sources of income. The retribution tactics were audacious, overt..and quite illegal.

- There are thousands of additional Dirty Tricks tactics being used by these Attack Services yet Congress refuses to pass laws out-lawing such attack services. The cost of an attack on a person ranges from $150,000.00 to over $50,000,000.00. While a Silicon Valley billionaire can afford to launch counter-measures to these attacks, any regular taxpayer will be utterly destroyed, and incapable of fighting back, against even the smallest version of one of these "kill orders". A number of modern office shootings are the results of these attacks against an individual who has lost everything because of the attack and has no options left.

Federal law enforcement, the United States Congress and the highest level investigators in the U.S., and abroad, have documented (per the 'FISA Memo', Congressional Reports and federal employee testimony) and proven the fact that the Obama Administration regularly engaged in the operation of retribution, vendetta and reprisal campaigns known as 'hit-jobs' against domestic natural born U.S. citizen domestic taxpayers. The Federal Court, in at least one previous court case, has ruled that Applicants, in this particular matter, were the victims and target of a number of these attacks designed to inflict permanent medical, emotional, character assassination, brand negation, economic and career damage.

!!!! Mueller Hears That Silicon Valley Has Been Manipulating The Entire BREXIT Campaign !!!!!

- Second former employee of controversial data firm to be questioned by special counsel's inquiry into Russia collusion

By Carole Cadwalladr

Brittany Kaiser is said to be cooperating fully with the Mueller inquiry.

A director of the controversial data company Cambridge Analytica, who appeared with Arron Banks at the launch of the Leave.EU campaign, has been subpoenaed by the US investigation into possible collusion between the Trump campaign and the Russian government.

A spokesman for Brittany Kaiser, former business development director for Cambridge Analytica which collapsed after the Observer revealed details of its misuse of Facebook data, confirmed that she had been subpoenaed by special counsel Robert Mueller, and was cooperating fully with his investigation.

He added that she was assisting other US congressional and legal investigations into the company's activities and had voluntarily turned over documents and data.

Kaiser, who gave evidence to the UK parliament last April in which she claimed Cambridge Analytica had carried out in-depth work for Leave.EU, is the second individual connected to the firm subpoenaed by the special counsel. The Electoral Commission has said its investigation into Leave.EU found no evidence that the campaign had received donations or paid for services from Cambridge Analytica 'beyond initial scoping work'.

Damian Collins, chairman of parliament's inquiry into fake news, said it was 'no surprise' that Kaiser was under scrutiny by Mueller because 'her work connected her to WikiLeaks, Cambridge Analytica and [its parent company] SCL, the Trump campaign, Leave.EU and Arron Banks'.

He said it was now vital Britain had its own inquiry into foreign interference: 'We should not be leaving this to the Americans.'

Tom Watson, the deputy leader of the Labour party, echoed Collins's statement, saying: 'This is the first evidence that a significant player in the Leave.EU campaign is of interest to the global Mueller inquiry. People will be bewildered that the British government has no interest in establishing the facts of what happened.'

In August, Sam Patten, a US political consultant who had worked for Cambridge Analytica on campaigns in the US and abroad, struck a plea deal with Mueller after admitting he had failed to register as a foreign agent for a Ukrainian oligarch.

He became a subject of the special counsel's inquiry because of work done with Paul Manafort, Trump's campaign manager, in Ukraine. He had also set up a business with Konstantin Kilimnik, a key figure who Mueller has alleged has ties to Russian intelligence and who is facing charges of obstruction of justice. In a 2017 statement to the Washington Post, Kilimnik denied any connection to intelligence services. Kaiser, however, is the first person connected directly to both the Brexit and Trump campaigns known to have been questioned by Mueller.

The news came to light in a new Netflix documentary, The Great Hack, which premiered at the Sundance film festival last month and is expected to be released later this spring. Film-makers followed Kaiser for months after she approached the Guardian, including moments after she received the subpoena. She claims the summons came after the Guardian revealed she had visited WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange while still a Cambridge Analytica employee in February 2017, three months after the US election.

One part of Mueller's investigation focuses on whether the Trump campaign sought to influence the timing of the release of emails by WikiLeaks before the election. Investigators are looking at communications between them. In the film, Kaiser says that she has gone from being a cooperating witness to a subject of investigation because of her contact with Assange.

In October 2017, it was revealed that Alexander Nix, the chief executive of Cambridge Analytica, had contacted Assange in August 2016 to try to obtain emails from Hillary Clinton's presidential campaign 'which indictments from Mueller's team say were obtained by Russian military intelligence' to use in Donald Trump's campaign. When Kaiser gave evidence to parliament last year, she was asked about her relationship with Assange and WikiLeaks but failed to reveal that she had met Assange.

In the documentary, Kaiser is shown after receiving an email from the Guardian last June asking about meeting Assange and alleged donations of cryptocurrency to WikiLeaks. Kaiser did not respond to the email at the time, but on camera says: 'She knows I met Assange. And she knows I donated money to WikiLeaks in bitcoin.â€

Her legal representatives later wrote to the paper to say that the allegations, including that she had â€ channelledâ€ donations to WikiLeaks, were false. Kaiser said she had received a small gift of bitcoin in 2011 â€ long before she worked at Cambridge Analytica â€ and, not knowing what else to do with it, gave it to WikiLeaks, because she had benefited from material it had released over the years.

Her lawyer told the Observer that the meeting with Assange came about after a chance encounter in London with an acquaintance who knew him. It lasted 20 minutes and consisted mainly of Assange telling her â€ about how he saw the worldâ€. He said they did not discuss the US election.

Patten and Kaiser were involved in a controversial election campaign in Nigeria in January 2015, which former Cambridge Analytica employees say had â€ unsettlingâ€ parallels to the US presidential election.

The Guardian revealed that the data firm had worked alongside a team of unidentified Israeli intelligence operatives on the campaign. Ex-Cambridge Analytica employees described how the Israelis hacked the now-president of Nigeriaâ€™s emails and released damaging information about him to the press weeks before the election.

CBS NEWS 60 MINUTES Lara Logan "Iâ€™ m Being â€ Targetedâ€ For Saying the Media is â€ Mostly Liberal"

by Tamar Auber

On Wednesday, former CBS News foreign correspondent Lara Logan spoke with Fox News Sean Hannity about her recent comments slamming the media as â€ mostly liberal.â€

Logan told Breitbart podcaster Mike Ritland the remarks made on his show â€ which drew widespread attention online â€ amounted to â€ professional suicide.â€

Defending her remarks on Hannityâ€™s show, Logan said that as the result of her speaking out about how the media is â€ mostly liberalâ€ she has been targeted because she is an independent voice.

â€ Any journalists who are not beating the same drum and giving the same talking points,â€ she insisted â€ pay the priceâ€ for not going along with the liberal crowd.

She also called out her targeters by name.

â€ I know theyâ€™ re going to come after me,â€ she told Hannity. â€ Michael Calderone who is at the Huffington Post. I can give you the script now. I can tell you who the players are. Joe Hagan. Brian Stelter.â€

She added: â€ They smear you personally. They go after your integrity. They go after your reputation as a person and a professional. They will stop at nothing. I am not the only one. And I am just, I am done, right, I am tired of it. And they do not get to write my story anymore. They donâ€™ t get to speak for me, I want to say loudly and clearly to anybody who is listening, I am not owned. Nobody owns me, right? Iâ€™ m not owned by the left or the right.â€

Logan made headlines recently when, during a scorched earth podcast interview with Ritland, she said that there was a lot of â€ weightâ€ in most news organizations on â€ one side of the political spectrum.â€

â€ The media everywhere is mostly liberal. But in this country, 85 percent of journalists are registered Democrats. So thatâs just a fact, right?â she told Ritland.

She also trashed reporting based on single, anonymous government sources.

â Thatâs not journalism, thatâs horseshit,â Logan stressed. â Responsibility for fake news begins with us. We bear some responsibility for that, and weâre not taking ownership of that and addressing it. We just want to blame it all on somebody else.â

Internal documents from a private Israeli intelligence firm called Psy-Group show that, at the time of many incidents, the company, and possibly other private investigators, were targeting U.S. citizens because they spoke up about crimes.

Psy-Groupâs intelligence and influence operations, which included a failed attempt in the summer of 2017 to sway a local election in central California, were detailed in a New Yorker investigation that I co-wrote earlier this month. Before it went out of business (ie: changed its name), last year, Psy-Group was part of a new wave of private-intelligence firms that recruited from the ranks of Israelâs secret services and described themselves as â private Mossads.â Psy-Group initially stood out among its rivals because it didnât just gather intelligence; its operatives used false identities, or avatars, to covertly spread messages in an attempt to influence what people believed and how they behaved. In 2016, Psy-Group held discussions with the Trump campaign and others about conducting covert â influenceâ operations to benefit the candidate. Psy-Groupâs founder and C.E.O., Royi Burstien, a veteran Israeli intelligence officer who established the firm in 2014, told me that his talks with the Trump campaign went nowhere. The companyâs posturing, however, attracted the attention of Robert Mueller, the special counsel, who has been investigating interference in the 2016 Presidential race.'

FED BOMBHELL: Fusion GPS Bribed Dozens of MSM Journalists With Cash To Run Character Assassinations, While News Companies Paid Firm to Dig Dirt on Trump

High-ranking FBI insiders are pulling back the curtain on Fusion GPS, the firm that commissioned and spread the bogus Trump dossier.

It appears the embattled intelligence firm was quite busy paying off Big Media reporters, according to federal sources who have traced dozens of transactions between TD Bank and media members as well as media organizations, sources confirm.

But stunningly, Big Media organizations have employed Fusion GPS to dig dirt on politicians and D.C.âs elite â namely Donald Trump.

â Fusion GPS was on the payroll of the media and in turn had members of the media on its payroll,â one FBI insider said.

Bombshell revelations.

FBI insiders confirm Fusion GPS employed law firms as well as shell companies to send and receive funds to and from media and reporters. But the embattled firm also used its accounts at TD Bank to directly commission reporters. Likewise, Fusion GPS received funds from media companies into its own accounts at TD Bank, FBI insiders said,

“ There are dozens of payments from the media flowing into their (Fusion GPS’s) account,” one federal law enforcement official said. “ One company wired funds to Fusion (GPS) more than a dozen times.”

Why would media companies commission Fusion GPS? Likely to dig dirt on enemies or secure records that reporters could not legally obtain, one federal law enforcement insider said. One FBI insider said the payments to Fusion GPS coincide with Donald Trump’s run for the White House.

The payments were made between Sept. 2015 and Sept. 2017, records show.

The unthinkable: The mainstream media paying Fusion GPS for dirt on Trump to the same firm the Democratic National Committee paid to fund the bogus Trump dossier. And at the same time Fusion GPS bribing journalists to place stories “ likely negative about Trump, as well as spread the bogus Trump dossier around.

Stunning.

Was BuzzFeed “ the only company to publish the full bogus dossier “ on that list?

And who is on the payroll? We are trying to run that information down.

And why aren’t these people behind bars?

Leaks And News Reports Reveal Government Paid Tens Of Millions Of Dollars To Google, Facebook, Gawker/Gizmodo and Twitter To Attack Whistle-Blowers!

Twitter Drops Bombshell: â€˜ Government Paid Twitter Millions of Dollars to Censor Info from Publicâ€™

Per David Hawkins: Twitter boss Elon Musk has just dropped a massive bombshell by revealing that the U.S. federal government â€˜ paid Twitter millions of dollars to censor info from the public.â€™

Musk made the explosive claim while sharing the latest installment of the â€˜ Twitter Files.â€™

â€˜ Twitter Files: Part 7â€™ is the latest in the series of secret internal communications between the companyâ€™ s former executives and other employees.

The â€˜ Twitter Filesâ€™ releases have been exposing unprecedented efforts by the company â€˜ in collusion with government officials, Democrat politicians, federal law enforcement, and the intelligence community â€˜ to censor public information on social media.

The latest installment was detailed by journalist Michael Shellenberger, who was tasked by Musk to report on his findings.

Government paid Twitter millions of dollars to censor info from the public <https://t.co/eSEwcZlGjt>

â€˜ Elon Musk (@elonmusk) December 20, 2022

Shellenberger reveals the staggering efforts by the FBI and intel community to discredit the Hunter Biden laptop story to protect Joe Bidenâ€™ s election campaign.

He delves into how the FBI, U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ), and intelligence community â€˜ discredited factual information about Hunter Bidenâ€™ s foreign business dealings.â€™

The files show a direct effort by Americaâ€™ s taxpayer-funded federal agencies to suppress negative press on the Democrat candidate during the 2020 election.

The latest release also reveals that the intel community has taken action on a domestic level to influence Twitterâ€™ s content moderation.

Shellenberger reports: â€˜ PART 7 The FBI & the Hunter Biden Laptop How the FBI & intelligence community discredited factual information about Hunter Bidenâ€™ s foreign business dealings both after and before The New York Post revealed the contents of his laptop on October 14, 2020

â€˜ In Twitter Files #6, we saw the FBI relentlessly seek to exercise influence over Twitter, including over its content, its users, and its data.

â€ In Twitter Files #7, we present evidence pointing to an organized effort by representatives of the intelligence community (IC), aimed at senior executives at news and social media companies, to discredit leaked information about Hunter Biden before and after it was published.

â€ The story begins in December 2019 when a Delaware computer store owner named John Paul (J.P.) Mac Isaac contacts the FBI about a laptop that Hunter Biden had left with him.

â€ On Dec 9, 2019, the FBI issues a subpoena for, and takes, Hunter Bidenâ€™s laptop.

â€ By Aug 2020, Mac Isaac still had not heard back from the FBI, even though he had discovered evidence of criminal activity.

â€ And so he emails Rudy Giuliani, who was under FBI surveillance at the time.

â€ In early Oct, Giuliani gives it to @nypost.

â€ Shortly before 7 pm ET on October 13, Hunter Bidenâ€™s lawyer, George Mesires, emails JP Mac Isaac.

â€ Hunter and Mesires had just learned from the New York Post that its story about the laptop would be published the next day.

â€ At 9:22 pm ET (6:22 PT), FBI Special Agent Elvis Chan sends 10 documents to Twitterâ€™s then-Head of Site Integrity, Yoel Roth, through Teleporter, a one-way communications channel from the FBI to Twitter.

â€ The next day, October 14, 2020, The New York Post runs its explosive story revealing the business dealings of President Joe Bidenâ€™s son, Hunter.

â€ Every single fact in it was accurate.

â€ And yet, within hours, Twitter and other social media companies censor the NY Post article, preventing it from spreading and, more importantly, undermining its credibility in the minds of many Americans.

â€ Why is that? What, exactly, happened?

â€ â€Itâ€™s not the first time that Twitterâ€™s Roth has pushed back against the FBI.

â€ In January 2020, Roth resisted FBI efforts to get Twitter to share data outside of the normal search warrant process.

â€ Pressure had been growing: â€ We have seen a sustained (If uncoordinated) effort by the IC [intelligence community] to push us to share more info & change our API policies.

â€ They are probing & pushing everywhere they can (including by whispering to congressional staff).â€ â€ Time and again, FBI asks Twitter for evidence of foreign influence & Twitter responds that they arenâ€™t finding anything worth reporting.

â€ [W]e havenâ€™t yet identified activity that weâ€™d typically refer to you (or even flag as interesting in the foreign influence context).â€ â€ Then, in July 2020, the FBIâ€™s Elvis Chan arranges for temporary Top Secret security clearances for Twitter executives so that the FBI can share information about threats to the upcoming elections.

â€ On August 11, 2020, the FBIâ€™s Chan shares information with Twitterâ€™s Roth relating to the Russian hacking organization, APT28, through the FBIâ€™s secure, one-way communications channel, Teleporter.

â€ The FBIâ€™s influence campaign may have been helped by the fact that it was paying Twitter millions of dollars for its staff time.

FBI paid Twitter $3.5M 'to do its bidding': Taxpayers' money was used to suppress Hunter Biden laptop story and process agency's requests to silence GOP voices - as fury mounts over secret state censorship of the American people

- The most recent batch of Twitter files show that the FBI paid off staffers at the tech giant to the tune of $3 million
- The money was paid as a thank you as Twitter continued to dedicate staff to doing the bidding of the feds
- Emails show that Twitter's deputy counsel Jim Baker met with feds to discuss suppressing the Hunter Biden laptop story
- In response to the latest Twitter files dump, House Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy said: 'This is going to be a much bigger situation than people realize'
- Earlier it was revealed that former FBI lawyer turned Twitter general counsel Jim Baker helped to suppress the Hunter Biden laptop story

By Paul Farrell

The FBI handed nearly $3.5 million of taxpayers money to Twitter to pay its staff to handle requests from the bureau to ban accounts.

A Twitter employee wrote in a February 2020 email that the company's Safety, Content & Law Enforcement (SCALE) had 'collected $3,415,323' in less than two years from the FBI for 'law-enforcement related projects.'

The email, which was revealed by journalist Michael Shellenberger, stated that SCALE had instituted a 'reimbursement program' in exchange for devoting staff hours to 'processing requests from the FBI'.

The emails was entitled 'Run the business - We made money!'.

The accounts the FBI asked Twitter to ban were largely linked to conservatives and 'foreign influence operations'.

Twitter initially believed the Hunter Biden laptop story was 'Russian disinformation'. It was revealed Monday that Jim Baker, Twitter's top lawyer and ex-FBI general counsel, personally intervened to say it should be banned.

Baker told Yoel Roth, Twitter's head of security, that the laptop story should be blocked - a day after getting a top secret briefing from his former FBI colleagues.

He wrote: 'There are some facts that indicate the materials may have been hacked. We simply need more information.'

We went on to write: 'I'm guessing we are going to restrict access to their article as violation of our Hacked Materials policy.'

An investigation into Twitter's behavior around the 2020 presidential election by the incoming Republican majority in the house has been promised with Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy telling Fox News this week: 'This is going to be a much bigger situation than people realize.'

One of the many lurid images that was found on Hunter Biden's forgotten laptop

Current Twitter CEO Elon Musk said of the emails: 'Government paid Twitter millions of dollars to censor info from the public.'

In a previous dump, journalist Matt Taibbi tweeted: 'Twitter's contact with the FBI was constant and pervasive, as if it were a subsidiary.'

In response to the latest developments, House Minority Leader Rep. Kevin McCarthy said in an appearance on Mornings with Maria on Fox News: 'Weâ€™re going to do more than just subpoena them. Weâ€™re going to change the course of where the FBI is today.'

He went on: 'Every day we learn something more.'

The congressman from California continued: 'Why are they [the FBI] able to do this? Working together, using private businesses to go after individuals right before an election, denying the American public the truth?'

McCarthy is one of the many Republicans who will be calling for a more thorough investigation of the FBI's relationship with social media when the GOP takes control of the house in 2023.

McCarthy added: 'This is going to be a much bigger situation than people realize.'

A damning email sent to Twitter's legal counsel confirming the payment of nearly $3.5 million made to the company for services rendered by the FBI

- In response to the latest developments, House Minority Leader Rep. Kevin McCarthy said in an appearance on Mornings with Maria on Fox News: 'Weâ€ are going to do more than just subpoena them. Weâ€ are going to change the course of where the FBI is today'

- Jim Baker, who before serving as deputy general counsel for Twitter held a similar role for the FBI

Shellenberger's dump on Monday showed how the FBI pushed Twitter staffers to receive top-level security clearance in July 2020.

Following the release, Shellenberger retweeted a quote from Ohio GOP congressman Jim Jordan: 'I have concerns about whether the government was running a misinformation operation on We the People.'

The reporter added: 'Anyone who reads the Twitter Files, regardless of their political orientation, should share those concerns.'

The feds went on to pressure Twitter staffers to ban accounts that they were not fond of and to target alleged 'foreign influence' peddlers.

They wanted to grant the firm's staffers that access to show what they claimed were threats posed to the November 2020 presidential election by foreign interference.

- Roth conceding that he thought the Hunter Biden laptop story may have been faked in some way

At one point, FBI agent Elvis Chan acted surprised at being reminded that Twitter's general counsel Jim Baker was the FBI's former general counsel, and held that very clearance.

On September 15 2020, another FBI agent, Laura Dehmlow, requested she be allowed to give Baker a top secret briefing with no other staff present.

Baker's shameless attempts to discredit the Hunter Biden laptop story - which has since been proven to be accurate - were also shared by Shellenberger.

Monday's Twitter Files release also showed that so many ex-FBI staffers had joined the social media network, there was now a private Slack channel set up just for them.

This was ostensibly to 'onboard' them at the firm and help show them the ropes - although the latest batch of Twitter files have sparked concerns about what else those former government operatives may have been up to.

The most recent 'Twitter Files' also revealed how an FBI official-turned Twitter lawyer sent a letter thanking the Bureau for its help suppressing the Hunter Biden laptop story.

Baker, who before serving as deputy general counsel for Twitter held a similar role for the FBI, worked closely with Bureau when it teamed up with the social media company to fight what it called election interference from foreign nations.

Baker and the FBI worked together to try to push the narrative that the contents of Hunter Biden's laptop had been hacked from another source by Russian agents and placed on the laptop that was later found at a Delaware repair shop, and that the laptop never belonged to Biden at all.

As a result of those efforts Twitter blocked The New York Post's reporting of the story on the social media website. At the end of the process, the latest Twitter files revealed that Baker and his team agreed to sign a letter to the FBI agents who worked on the project, thanking them for their efforts.

The revelations are the latest to come out of the Twitter Files, which Elon Musk has been releasing to demonstrate the social media company's past censorship initiatives.

- An image of Hunter Biden that was lifted from his forgotten laptop
- Elon Musk continues to find every avenue he can to slash costs at the social media company, which he acquired for $44billion in October

Monday's batch of Twitter Files were reviewed and released by Shellenberger, who along with journalists Matt Taibbi and Bari Weiss have been combing through piles of internal Twitter communications dating to before Musk's takeover.

Shellenberger found that less than two hours after Hunter Biden's attorney found out about the New York Post's story about the laptop, FBI agent Elvis Chan sent a collection of documents to Twitter's then-head of site integrity Yoel Roth.

Despite Twitter continually finding nothing suspicious, the FBI repeatedly reached out to the social media company and requested further information about their information, which Twitter declined to disclose.

But in July 2020 Chan arranged security clearances for Twitter officials so they can be told about election interference it is expecting to see in the Trump-Biden runoff.

Baker became involved at this time because he had previously held top secret security clearance during his work for the FBI - during which he had been involved in one of the Bureau's investigations into Donald Trump.

Chan acted as if he were surprised when he was told Baker was at Twitter and had clearance, saying "I don't know how I forgot him."

'An odd claim, given Chan's job is to monitor Twitter, not to mention that they worked together at the FBI,' Shellenberger noted.

Baker was not the only former FBI staffer. According to one internal Twitter email reviewed by Stellenberger there were so many they had their own Slack channel and regularly communicated.

Once Baker was given clearance, Shellenberger wrote that the FBI fed him information intended to influence Roth and other Twitter executives into believing that the laptop story was hacked.

FBI official Laura Dehmloew even arranged for a classified briefing for Baker and nobody else at Twitter.

Hours after The Post published their laptop story the next day, it was almost immediately censored by Twitter and thus undermined in the public eye.

The files showed that as Hunter Biden was earning millions in foreign business dealings, the FBI had advised Twitter to be on the lookout for Russian misinformation about him.

'During all of 2020, the FBI and other law enforcement agencies repeatedly primed Yoel Roth to dismiss reports of Hunter Biden's laptop as a Russian 'hack and leak' operation,' Shellenberger wrote.

Despite those efforts by the FBI, Twitter executives found there had been 'very little' Russian activity that raised any suspicions.

'Indeed, Twitter executives repeatedly reported very little Russian activity. E.g., on Sept 24, 2020, Twitter told FBI it had removed 345 'largely inactive' accounts 'linked to previous coordinated Russian hacking attempts.' They 'had little reach & low follower accounts,' he wrote.

- Though initially Roth continued to resist the idea that Twitter was experiencing any foreign interference, but October when The Post published the laptop story he conceded that the laptop might have been planted by as a 'subtle leak operation.'

'On Oct 14, shortly after @NYPost publishes its Hunter Biden laptop story, Roth says, 'it isn't clearly violative of our Hacked Materials Policy, nor is it clearly in violation of anything else,' but adds, 'this feels a lot like a somewhat subtle leak operation.'" Shellenberger wrote.

Baker grabbed onto this statement by Roth, and harped on the idea that the laptop's contents were in some way illegitimate.

'Baker repeatedly insists that the Hunter Biden materials were either faked, hacked, or both, and a violation of Twitter policy,' Shellenberger said.

By 10am that morning Twitter officials - citing 'experts' - had agreed that the laptop's must have been hacked from another source and placed on the laptop.

'The suggestion from experts - which rings true - is there was a hack that happened separately, and they loaded the hacked materials on the laptop that magically appeared at a repair shop in Delaware,' Shellenberger noted Roth wrote in an email.

Later that afternoon, Baker had a phone call with the Office of the General Counsel of the FBI.

Shellenberger suggested it was obvious that the FBI's pressures on Twitter executives led directly to them assuming the position that the laptop story had been faked.

I want to see heads roll. I want to see people fired for what they've done': Rep. Nancy Mace says oversight committee will subpoena FBI chiefs over Twitter censorship

Firebrand GOP congresswoman Nancy Mace wants to see 'heads roll' at Twitter in the fallout from the latest dump of Twitter files. On Monday, it was revealed that the FBI paid Twitter nearly $3.5 million in exchange for the social media giant doing the bidding of the feds and silencing accounts deemed to be subversive. During an appearance on Sunday Night in America on Fox News, Mace said: 'I really want to know what government agents and agencies were censoring the free speech of America.' The Republican also slammed Twitter chiefs for failing to remove accounts connected to the Antifa movement. Mace referred to the relationship between Twitter's former trust and safety tsar Yoel Roth and the FBI as 'disconcerting.' The congresswoman from South Carolina also said: 'I don't know why so many on the left are so concerned about ideas they disagree with being on the internet. The only thing I can come up with is that they can't persuade people or voters, more importantly, unless of others that they disagree with.'

Journalist Michael Shellenberger described to Tucker Carlson Monday night how the FBI engaged in a 'psychological operation' to suppress the Hunter Biden laptop story.

Marketing firm Didit makes bid to buy Gawker but that could cause Didit to get bankrupted

Marketing firm Didit makes bid to buy Gawker

Marketing firm Didit has made a $1.1m bid for the defunct gossip website Gawker which is going to a bankruptcy auction.

If its bid prevails, Didit will relaunch the site as "Gawker for Good", publishing "positive" stories and donating half of all advertising and sponsorship revenue to non-profits chosen by readers and content creators.

The original Gawker closed in August 2016 after a Hulk Hogan legal case secretly funded by tech billionaire Peter Theil brought it to financial ruin.

- Didit does not realize that Gawker Media has a "lifetime extinction policy" against Gawker and any company who tries to revive it. Many of the people that Gawker tried to media assassinate have sworn to destroy Gawker and any company that buys Gawker by exposing all of the ills of the new owners, boycotting their advertisers and other 100% legal tactics!

Under Long Island-based Didit's auspices, the new Gawker would deliver content covering entertainment, sports, gaming and celebrity news.

According to David Pasternack, the company's co-founder and chief executive, storytelling is critical for marketing success, so it makes sense for the business to own a platform that is all about storytelling.

Pasternack said: "The explosion of branded content combined with the huge interest in CSR (corporate social responsibility) makes Gawker a logical investment for Didit, and a vehicle that helps our clients and nonprofits."

Bert Brodsky, managing partner at Didit added: "The Gawker brand will allow the Didit team to demonstrate that we can build a platform that delights readers, advertisers, and the nonprofit community, while covering Hollywood, sports, music, and news."

Bids for Gawker are due by 9 July and the auction will be held on 12 July.

Meet the blogger who Obama ordered Gawker Media and Gizmodo Media to "Exterminate"!

Updated 2:50 p.m.

It's 7:30 p.m. on Monday night, and the day's most vilified blogger is driving somewhere in California, though he declines to specify where, and with whom. As he talks into the telephone, he confesses he feels targeted: He's recording the conversation. Someone has already hacked him that day. He's deluged with threats. His mom, he said, is worried about me and worried about herself.

This is Charles C. Johnson, the one-time Daily Caller contributor who just outed a woman he claims is Rolling Stone's Jackie, publicizing what he claims is the real full name of the alleged rape victim around whom the magazine built its flawed University of Virginia gang rape story. And Monday, Johnson sighed, has been quite a day. Jezebel called him vile. Slate called him a vicious troll. The Frisky called him a complete piece of s---. Others, some of whom criticized Twitter for failing to censor his allegedly revelatory tweets, have been even less kind.

What Johnson did publish what he claimed was the full identity of an alleged rape victim is what many found so troubling.

Her last name has no news value. She's not pressing any charges, said Jaclyn Friedman, executive director of Women Action and the Media, adding that when people who say they have been raped are named by the media, victims become less likely to come forward. And when victims don't come forward, rapists go free.

So naming her was meant only to punish, and that's not a journalistic principle. It's meant to scare survivors and punish them for speaking out, she said.

Johnson also misidentified the photo he widely circulated of a woman he claimed was Jackie.

I apologize, he wrote on his site in a correction. I consulted with two photographic experts and I made a judgment call based on the evidence above. In the rush to publish, I screwed up and ask your forgiveness.

In his correction, he described the alleged attack as the campus rape fraud perpetrated at the University of Virginia by Jackie.

People are threatening to kill me. People want to do me harm, said the 26-year-old editor of the for-profit GotNews.com, which on Monday published not only what he claimed is her name but images from her Pinterest account. They will try to take down my site and are threatening my family members.

Johnson then experienced what appeared to be a moment of sheer panic when informed his Twitter account still shows his city of residence: Fresno, Calif. â€ Oh my goodness,â€ he gasped. â€ Thatâ€™s still up?â€ He paused for moment. He recovered. â€ Well, really, I travel around the state. I work all around California.â€

His base of operations may be in California, but this incendiary scribe, who recently lampooned Michael Brown, Eric Garner and Tamir Riceâ€™s mother, primarily inhabits the digital realm. He represents a new breed of news hound: part troll, part provocateur, part bully for profit, and fully independent. In photographs, he adopts the glower of an anti-establishment rabble-rouser.

His formula for news seems to work something like this: home in on the most emotionally-charged story of the moment â€ whether thatâ€™s Ferguson or Eric Garner or campus rape â€ and stake out the most divisive position possible, amassing allies and enemies in equal number. More often than not, those positions appear conservative, but he shies away from such designation.

He isnâ€™t driven by ideology, colleagues say. Heâ€™s driven by â€ scalps.â€ â€ He told me he likes to get scalps,â€ said Daily Caller alumnus Mark Judge, who had just authored a GotNews story that called into question Rolling Stoneâ€™s piece on campus rape at the University of Virginia. â€ Journalistically, he likes to get scalps. And Rolling Stone is a sloppy slow-moving target thatâ€™s had problems for years. â€ But Iâ€™m completely against him ruining this girlâ€™s identity.â€

A lot of people are. But reservations over public perception has rarely deterred Johnson. So at 9:39 a.m. on Sunday, he posted an introductory warning: â€ Iâ€™m giving Jackie until later tonight to tell the truth and then Iâ€™m going to start revealing everything about her past.â€

This was a very unusual step â€ one that breached both societal and journalistic conventions that discourage the identification of alleged sexual assault victims. (The Post does not name rape victims.) His delivery was both menacing and pugnacious. â€ Because I am merciful,â€ he then tweeted, â€ I always give my opponents an opportunity to do the right thing. [She] has until midnight to tell the truth about making it up. #IStandWithJackie.â€

The message immediately split followers into two groups: those who hated it and those who loved it. â€ Youâ€™re a modern Joan of Arc,â€ one admirer told Johnson on Sunday. â€ Doing Godâ€™s work even when the big names say youâ€™re the devil.â€ Another called him â€ a real American hero.â€

But to those who hated the message â€ and who saw it as far from heroic â€ Johnson seemed â€ hellbent on a pretty cruel path, trying to get attention,â€ said Zeynep Tufekci, assistant professor of sociology at UNC on what she thought when she saw what he had done.

â€ He preys on vulnerable people by publicizing their information,â€ said Tufekci, who studies social impacts of technology and social media. â€ Heâ€™s basically a person who seeks attention online by doing awful things.â€

But even strong criticism seems to suit Johnson just fine. He seems to derive pleasure in violating cultural taboos â€ and appears to welcome the outrage such violations incur. (After the Islamic Stateâ€™s beheading of journalist James Foley, he tweeted, â€ Kind of hard to like James Foley when he blames U.S. government for his killing. Just saying.â€)

The antics are in some ways a confusing departure from his past work, which sounded more traditional tones. After graduating from Milton Academy outside Boston, he got his degree at Claremont McKenna College in Los Angeles and then snagged a Wall Street Journal fellowship. Afterward, he published a book on Calvin Coolidge.

But, he said, "Two events changed my view on the media: [Andrew] Breitbart taking down [Rep. Anthony] Weiner and the other was Rupert Murdoch shutting down the News of the World. The new order was forming, and I wasn't sure what it was, but I was excited by it."

He foresaw an arena of cut-throat journalism in which inhibitions are ignored, convention flouted and names named. This vision, he said, is already manifest in the United Kingdom's media world, pervaded by tabloids that Johnson admires for their "gusto and flare." So he started writing for the Daily Caller, contributing to a 2012 story that alleged Sen. Bob Menendez (D-N.J.) paid for sex in the Dominican Republic. That story got shredded in the months following its publication, as The Washington Post reported that the story about Menendez's alleged sex romp may have been planted by Cuban intelligence officials seeking to discredit the anti-Castro lawmaker.

Now he sticks to GotNews.com, where he exploits emotionally-charged narratives for clicks and maybe some profit, too. "People want to give me money, and I have no problem accepting it," he said. "I would take money from anyone on the political spectrum. He has pinned a request for donations on his Twitter page and, though he declined to offer a specific tally, claims he has made thousands of dollars off the alleged Jackie revelations. Many of which are deeply unsubstantiated, if not downright cruel.

"But I'm not an angry person," he said from an undisclosed location Monday night. "Or a mean-spirited person. I go where the research leads. Some people do cross word puzzles. This is what I do."

What he does seems to go over well among people who run prominent anti-feminist web sites, says Matt Binder, writer who runs Public Shaming blog dedicated to tracking racism, misogyny and the like on social media.

So what's the end game? What does he hope to achieve from publicly shaming a young woman he claims to be Jackie? Who would that benefit? Johnson has an immediate answer.

He wants revenge for what he perceives to be a rupture in the public trust, inflicted by writer Sabrina Rubin Erdely's article. "I want [Rolling Stone Managing Editor] Will Dana to resign. I want the people who control Rolling Stone to go over all of Sabrina's stories. And I want Jackie to get psychological help. I want all the fraternities, suspended under these dubious stories, to be reinstated." Then, because why not: "I want the [University of Virginia] president to resign. I would like some truth."

And he intends to get it.

Misogynist stereotypes on all of the Nick Denton sleaze-ball tabloids like Gawker, Gizmodo, Jalopnik, Deadspin etc

- Hopefully Sandy is helping to put all of them out of business
- Nick Denton's abuses of people are notorious

by Liz

I don't care what Sandy Montenegro Littlefield is actually like; I don't know her, and I've never met her. Also, I am not intrinsically fond of superwealthy society people. Who knew that ' Gentry' magazine even existed! Not me! Gentry. Wow. Weird. Lifestyles of upper class philanthropists; really beyond my comprehension ' they're like aliens.

Anyway. Gossip is fun and I love to hear it. Dirty gossip is great. I would love to see Dirty Friendster with all the possible totally sophomoric sex gossip charts of who slept with whom and who just made out in the conference room.

That said, I think that Valleywag's post on Littlefield deserves to be called out on its misogynist rhetoric about Ms. Littlefield. The article says she ' used to go to tech conferences in search of husband material' and, worse:

She'd arrive on her own and return on someone's private jet. She is absolutely gorgeous in person, but I don't think it took people too long to figure out she was a gold-digger.

I'd like to look at what stereotypes this gossip plays into and what reactions it can possibly evoke.

Here, who a woman sleeps with or marries is used to throw her competence as a tech executive into question. It is strongly implied that she is not a real geek, or maybe has no ' real' skills at all other than her looks. When an article like this gets written, it also by association casts aspersions on all women in tech. Would this article be written about a man, a senior executive? Would there be any equivalent way to devalue and slander and ridicule a man?

It's very strange because while men are always whining about reverse sexism, and how everything should be genderblind and we should all just be human and be judged on our skills and not our gender! Then they whip out this sort of rhetoric and use it against women. The stereotypes are built in and waiting, ready to be used against any woman, from the most successful and visible to the least important. As women, none of us are immune to being objectified by exactly the sort of rhetoric used against Ms. Littlefield.

Notice the way that the quote above suggests that Ms. Littlefield habitually went to tech conferences alone and then left with different rich guys ' and that she went to the conferences solely for the reason of wanting to pick up rich geek guys. And also implying that's how she got her jobs ' by being a jet-set slut.

Again, I'm no expert on the upper class. But don't quite a lot of rich people work off their personal networks and backgrounds and friendships? The woman has an MBA from Harvard and she speaks five languages. What's so odd about her getting a good executive job? Didn't like 5 gazillion MBAs descend on Silicon Valley during the boom? Why shouldn't one of them be a multilingual cosmopolitan Guatemalan beauty queen from Harvard?

But noâ€ instead Valleywag points to Montenegroâ€ s past achievements as a beauty pageant winner and the fact that sheâ€ s from Guatemala as something further to objectify and sexualize her. Then they make fun of a newspaper article quoted on her homepage that calls her a â€ Latina who defies stereotype.â€ (See Common stereotypes of Latinas for more explanation.) Hey, if you are a Latina who defies stereotype, and youâ€ re a successful senior executive in high tech, and a VC person and a bigshot international philanthropist, why not be proud of it? Valleywag evokes a stereotype in response, and stuffs her right back into it.

Waaah! Women in tech are tooooooo sexy! That sucks! It ruins our whole homosocial male bonding geek guy thing! Get them out! Or, quick, give Sandy a reverse makeover, a pair of glasses with electrical tape on the nosepiece, and some penny loafers!

Everyone needs to keep in mind that when women, sluts or not, sleep with geek guys, it might just be because they like geek guys a lot. Sleeping with geek guys doesnâ€ t invalidate oneâ€ s geek credentials. Itâ€ s not like they have to be rich geek guys and the women have to be brainless bimbos going after their money. Trust me, geek guys, you are often super cute all on your own. Itâ€ s the devastatingly sexy unhealthiness caused by hours of late night hacking, and how you get all passionate about open source, and the way that you probably got pushed around by those jock dudes in the locker room long ago. We love it. It gives you a mysterious aura, like consumptive bohemian poets from 1890 who smoked too much opium and thought they were in touch with the Divine. Heterosexual nerd chicks go for that kind of thing. Itâ€ s completely natural.

Anyway, Valleywag tries to preempt any criticism by saying they donâ€ t really care, and they donâ€ t think Montenegro is â€ evilâ€ . Just mockable. Misogyny is automatically funny. Sexy women are automatically dumb golddiggers. Weâ€ re supposed to read that post and laugh and nod knowinglyâ€ as if we know the type. Do we really? Or do we know them from the idiotic stereotypes made up by and perpetuated in Hollywood movies?

Itâ€ s not uncommon for writers to evoke sexist and racist stereotypes for a cheap laugh. But not all of us are laughing when we read that stuff. Instead, weâ€ re pissed off and alienated. Or we might respond by laughing at the writers for their cluelessness.

Valleywag evokes a stereotype in response, and stuffs her right back into it.

Waaah! Women in tech are tooooooo sexy! That sucks! It ruins our whole homosocial male bonding geek guy thing! Get them out! Or, quick, give Sandy a reverse makeover, a pair of glasses with electrical tape on the nosepiece, and some penny loafers!

Everyone needs to keep in mind that when women, sluts or not, sleep with geek guys, it might just be because they like geek guys a lot. Sleeping with geek guys doesnâ€ t invalidate oneâ€ s geek credentials. Itâ€ s not like they have to be rich geek guys and the women have to be brainless bimbos going after their money. Trust me, geek guys, you are often super cute all on your own. Itâ€ s the devastatingly sexy unhealthiness caused by hours of late night hacking, and how you get all passionate about open source, and the way that you probably got pushed around by those jock dudes in the locker room long ago. We love it. It gives you a mysterious aura, like consumptive bohemian poets from 1890 who smoked too much opium and thought they were in touch with the Divine. Heterosexual nerd chicks go for that kind of thing. Itâ€ s completely natural.

Anyway, Valleywag tries to preempt any criticism by saying they donâ€ t really care, and they donâ€ t think Montenegro is â€ evilâ€ . Just mockable. Misogyny is automatically funny. Sexy women are automatically dumb golddiggers. Weâ€ re supposed to read that post and laugh and nod knowinglyâ€ as if we know the type. Do we really? Or do we know them from the idiotic stereotypes made up by and perpetuated in Hollywood movies?

Itâ€ s not uncommon for writers to evoke sexist and racist stereotypes for a cheap laugh. But not all of us are laughing when we read that stuff. Instead, weâ€ re pissed off and alienated. Or we might respond by laughing at the writers for their cluelessness.

New York's Attorney General hides EPA cover-ups, Gawker Media hit-jobs and Pro-Hillary Election Rigging

Eric Schneiderman, the attorney general of New York State, oversees an office that has repeatedly tangled with the Trump administration. The president has tweeted insults about Mr. Schneiderman, once calling him 'dopey.'

Credit: Sasha Maslov for The New York Times

Eric Schneiderman, New York's attorney general, reached a milestone of sorts recently.

By moving to sue the Federal Communications Commission over net neutrality this month, his office took its 100th legal or administrative action against the Trump administration and congressional Republicans. His lawyers have challenged Mr. Trump's first, second and third travel bans and sued over such diverse matters as a rollback in birth control coverage and a weakening of pollution standards. They have also unleashed a flurry of amicus briefs and formal letters, often with other Democratic attorneys general, assailing legislation they see as gutting consumer finance protections or civil rights.

'We try and protect New Yorkers from those who would do them harm,' Mr. Schneiderman said during a recent interview in his Manhattan office. 'The biggest threat to New Yorkers right now is the federal government, so we're responding to it.'

In Mr. Schneiderman's seventh year as attorney general, the office has been transformed into a bulwark of resistance amid an unusually expansive level of confrontation with the federal government. Other Democratic state attorneys general are undertaking similar efforts, often in concert, like Xavier Becerra in California, where extra money was set aside in the budget for the attorney general to battle the Trump administration.

How far Mr. Schneiderman is willing to go in taking on Mr. Trump could define his political career, particularly in a blue state where disapproval of the president is high. The attorney general's office potential for troublemaking and generating national headlines was redefined in the early 2000s by Eliot Spitzer. Mr. Schneiderman is a less combative man who was often the target of Mr. Trump's Twitter wrath amid a three-year civil investigation into Trump University. In the end, Mr. Schneiderman's office extracted a $25 million settlement in the case.

Nonetheless, Mr. Schneiderman is seen by some as a possible backstop should the president exercise his pardon power to help those who might become ensnared in the investigation of possible Russian involvement in the 2016 presidential election being led by Robert S. Mueller III, the special counsel. Federal pardons do not apply to violations of state law.

In the interview, Mr. Schneiderman would say little about his potential role as a criminal prosecutor in relation to the Trump administration, except that he hoped it would not come to that. Earlier this year, Mr. Schneiderman began a criminal inquiry focused on allegations of money laundering by Paul Manafort, Mr. Trump's former campaign chairman. But his office stood down, at least temporarily, out of deference to the special counsel's inquiry; the offices did not work together, his staff said.

"I have a lot of respect for the work the special counsel is doing," he said. "They've put together a terrific team."

"Just watching it from the outside, like everybody else, it seems like they're doing a very thorough and serious job," he added. "I hope there's not going to be any effort to derail them or shut them down."

"If that happens, we'll do as I think would be a genuine sentiment around the country -- we'll do whatever we can do to see that justice is done," he said. "But I hope we don't have to face a problem like that."

Mr. Trump said recently he was not planning to fire Mr. Mueller, though many of his allies have stepped up their attacks on the special counsel's investigation.

Regarding Mr. Schneiderman's myriad legal filings, the White House referred questions to the Justice Department.

"The federal court system is not a substitute for the legislative process," said Devin M. O'Malley, a spokesman there. "The Department of Justice will continue to defend the president's constitutional and statutory authority to issue executive orders aimed at securing our borders, protecting U.S. workers, promoting free speech and religious liberty, among many other lawful actions."

Republican attorneys general targeted President Obama's policies while he was in office. Scott Pruitt, the head of Mr. Trump's E.P.A., sued the E.P.A. 14 times as Oklahoma attorney general. But if Mr. Schneiderman were to take on a criminal prosecution, it would likely be met with disdain by conservatives. One columnist at the National Review already called for Mr. Schneiderman to recuse himself from any criminal investigation of Mr. Trump because his comments and civil actions made it "impossible for the public to have confidence that he could be impartial."

Certainly, Mr. Schneiderman and Mr. Trump have little in common. Mr. Trump watches a lot of TV and craves his McDonalds. Mr. Schneiderman does yoga. "Other than sports, I really don't watch TV much anymore," Mr. Schneiderman said, and paused to think about the last time he had eaten a fast food burger. "That's a long time ago."

Mr. Schneiderman also says "it's better to have opponents and not enemies," a statement that would seem to run counter to Trump doctrine.

During the Trump University inquiry, Mr. Trump called Mr. Schneiderman "a lightweight," "a total loser," "the nation's worst AG," and "dopey." He has tweeted that Mr. Schneiderman wears "Revlon eyeliner" -- his dark eyelashes have been attributed to the side effect of a glaucoma medication -- and said he needed to take a drug test because the attorney general "cannot be a cokehead," without presenting evidence that he was. In 2014, the front page of The New York Observer, which was owned by Mr. Trump's son-in-law, Jared Kushner, depicted him as Clockwork Eric, a takeoff on the Malcolm McDowell character from ‘ A Clockwork Orange.’

Mr. Schneiderman continued to be an irritant, reaching the settlement last year in the Trump University case, and also barring Mr. Trump’s foundation from raising funds.

After Mr. Trump became president, Mr. Schneiderman was not expecting him to become ‘ presidential.’

‘ I probably had more realistic expectations,’ he said. ‘ I saw the scorched-earth approach. He sued me for $100 million. He filed phony ethics complaints. He set up a website to attack me.’

‘ Before Lyin’ Ted and Little Marco, I had my nickname,’ Mr. Schneiderman said, though Mr. Trump never appeared to settle on a single epithet. ‘ I didn’t have any reason to believe he would change.’

The day after Mr. Trump’s victory, Mr. Schneiderman convened his staff in Manhattan and began the process of reorienting the mission of the office.

‘ The election was so traumatizing that my first step was to try and, essentially, pick everyone up off the canvas,’ he said. ‘ I had people who were too depressed to go into work.’

His staff soon began compiling something of a virtual war room, a Trump database to track federal actions and plan their responses. In some areas, Mr. Schneiderman said, they were ‘ filling in’ as the federal government rolled back enforcement of civil rights protections, wage rules and consumer protections.

‘ Then there’s the second category where they’re actually doing something to try and hurt New Yorkers,’ he said. ‘ And that’s not filling in, it’s more like fighting back. A galvanizing experience for that was the first travel ban.’

The pace of the confrontations with the administration has hardly abated. Recent actions have included joining 14 other states suing the Environmental Protection Agency ‘ for failing to meet the Clean Air Act’s statutory deadline’ related to unhealthy levels of smog, and challenging the administration’s move to bar a 17-year-old immigrant from getting an abortion.

“ I did anticipate that the administration was going to be aggressively regressive,” Mr. Schneiderman said, adding: “ I did not anticipate the volume that he was going to start pumping out so quickly. These guys were generating lots of trouble very quickly.”

That has led to a tighter relationship among Democratic attorneys general. “ We don’t have a stronger or smarter ally,” Maura Healey, the Massachusetts attorney general, said of Mr. Schneiderman in a statement. He has also stayed in touch with Mr. Spitzer, who said in an interview that “ Eric has done a good job” and “stepped into a chasm where today’s ideological divisions create a lot of room for litigation.”

Mr. Schneiderman’s office continues to undertake prosaic work, such as a recent settlement with an upstate landlord who returned $43,000 worth of security deposits. There are weightier matters as well; a special investigations unit has been reviewing cases in which unarmed New Yorkers were killed by the police, a process that led to the recent indictment of an upstate district attorney on a perjury charge.

But the Trump administration remains a central focus.

“ I was a little worried after the first few weeks about burnout,” Mr. Schneiderman said, but he added that lawyers in his office have resisted being moved off topics taking on the administration and felt that they were making a difference.

“ On the one hand it feels like this year has been a hundred years long,” he said. “ On the other it feels like it shot by.”

A planned relaunch of snarky news and gossip web site Gawker is on hold indefinitely, The Post has learned.

Bustle Digital Group, which owns Gawker, laid off the website's entire staff Tuesday and called off its planned September relaunch, the company has confirmed.

“ We can confirm that we are postponing the Gawker launch,” a BDG spokesperson said. “ For now, we are focusing company resources and efforts on our most recent acquisitions, Mic, The Outline, Nylon and Inverse.”

The site's axed staff included Editor-in-Chief Dan Peres, Editorial Director Carson Griffith, writer Nate Hopper and sales exec Amanda Hale.

BDG Chief Executive Bryan Goldberg said he plans to relaunch the site at a later, unspecified date.

It's no secret that we have faced a number of challenges from the start," Goldberg said. "We want to thank Dan Peres and the rest of the Gawker team who have worked tirelessly on this project. We've made a number of acquisitions over the last year and intend to focus our efforts on those brands."

According to insiders, attracting talent has been difficult.

Earlier this year, Gawker's only two reporters quit ahead of a planned January relaunch. The staffers complained that Griffith had made offensive comments in the office about everything from poor people to black writers to an acquaintance's penis size.

A series of old tweets by Griffith were dug up by the media, and showed the editor using gay slurs and racial stereotypes about Asians, among other things. The company launched an investigation, which cleared Griffith, but her continuing role at the company irked staffers, according to sources.

In June, Ben Barna, an editor from Interview, joined Gawker and left after only five months.

"Needless to say, I'm disappointed, but I understand that this is a business and sometimes difficult decisions need to be made," Peres, the former editor-in-chief from Details, who was recruited in March told The Post. "I'm grateful to all of the writers, editors and designers who dove into this exciting challenge with me."

A rep said Goldberg plans to circulate a memo to BDG employees on Wednesday morning.

Nick Denton is the world's most diseased sociopath

Nick and I are often mistaken for one another. One is a tall, narcissistic, America-obsessed British media titan with a history of high-profile celebrity dust-ups, lavish personal tastes, a penchant for black boyfriends, a cruel sense of humour – and a reckless, sociopathic and prurient approach to other people's private lives. The other is the founder of Gawker Media.

But even my most humiliating professional failures barely scratch the surface of what Denton is currently enduring. His empire is dissolving after it outed a finance director at a rival media group as gay, knowingly co-operating with an extortion attempt by a gay prostitute in the process. Gawker editors took just 24 hours to decide to publish the story.

In perhaps the most abject humiliation a self-regarding homosexual entrepreneur can experience, there's even talk of a rebrand to shore up Gawker's crumbling reputation with readers and advertisers.

Denton initially said that the new version of the site should be – 20 percent nicer – than the old one. Perhaps finding this too ambitious, he later downgraded his expectations, telling the staff that the new version of the site should be – 10 to 15 percent – nicer than the old one.

Denton's panicked reforms are too little, too late. And they run contrary to the DNA of the organisation he has created. The truth is, Denton has always been obsessed with outing gay people, from Peter Thiel to Shep Smith, so he can't credibly distance himself from his company's latest offence. In 2013 he was giving interviews in which he claimed that privacy violations were good for society, bragging about Gawker's role in revealing CNN anchor Anderson Cooper's sexuality.

Like many conservative media figures, I'm an occasional target of Gawker's invective. But I've got off lightly so far, with a few barbs and the odd tweet embedded out of context. (They are masters of put-down: I didn't mind when they called me a D-list right-winger, but Some guy really stung.) Yet consider the woman Gawker went after during her ordeal with stage-4 cancer:

Iâ€™ ve been at this a very long time and been called worse by better, so it wasnâ€™ t the piece itself that really got to me. It was the picture. It was an image of me, pale and freckled, that had run in Salon seven months before, when I shared that I had just been diagnosed with malignant melanoma. A photo that had been taken just a few days prior, one of my last remaining images of myself before I learned I was sick. It never appeared anywhere else. And now it was being used to make fun of me.

That level of cruelty is typical of Gawker. Indeed, you might say itâ€™ s the siteâ€™ s defining characteristic. The irony of a site whose feminist vertical finger-wags and pontificates about transgender pronouns while its parent blog colludes with porn-star hookers to out private individuals for no good reason is a function of where Gawker came from: it was a low-rent gossip sheet for years before blossoming into the hysterical liberal institution it is today.

Itâ€™ s easy to forget just how bad Gawkerâ€™ s behaviour has been over the years, but consider creepy and intrusive initiatives like Gawker Stalker, launched in 2006, â€™ in which we try [to] visually pinpoint the location of every stalkworthy celebrity as soon as theyâ€™ re spotted.â€™ This, from a site with the audacity to opine on womenâ€™ s safety.

In the age of social media outrage, Gawker knew it couldnâ€™ t continue its â€™ stalkingâ€™ ways for long â€™ at least not without some clever PR. So it decided to harness the outrage, by embracing the social justice mob rather than fighting it. It wasnâ€™ t an entirely bad fit: the mobâ€™ s hunger for public shaming fitted in well with Gawkerâ€™ s bullying instincts.

Thatâ€™ s how a site which once released a stalking app came to feature a feminist blog. If youâ€™ re reading this, thinking to yourself: the hypocrisy is breathtaking, yes. Youâ€™ re right. As Gawker pivoted from paparazzi to inquisitor, Justine Sacco would become its most famous victim, her life destroyed for tweeting a single joke about AIDS. There would be many, many more. But despite its new veneer of moral righteousness, Gawker canâ€™ t cover up its past, nor its true nature.

While its feminist writers complained about the â€™ misogynisticâ€™ leaking of Jennifer Lawrenceâ€™ s nude photographs, Deadspin was busy sharing pictures of male athleteâ€™ s penises, and Defamer was offering money for stolen sex tapes.

Despite ballooning in size to a 250-person company, Gawkerâ€™ s attitude has not improved. Today, Gawker preaches social justice while maintaining its tradition of invasive, barely-legal reporting. The double standard is stunningly brazen. It has, in its 13 years, graduated from ankle-biter to swaggering playground bully.

Thus, Nick Denton is on a mission to fix Gawkerâ€™ s moral compass just as his business faces an existential threat in the form of a \$100 million lawsuit from Hulk Hogan after the site published a leaked sex tape featuring the wrestler. In case youâ€™ re still wondering how divorced from ordinary morality Gawkerâ€™ s most senior journalists are, two of them resigned this week rather than accept that they should never have outed a private individual without any public interest justification.

Gawker would like to claim that this is its first â€™ rebranding,â€™ but the site has revived itself more times than Dracula. While it currently presents itself as a weird mix of righteous progressiveness and celebrity clickbait, Denton canâ€™ t rid himself of the principles his site was founded on â€™ slavish indulgence of rumour and ceaseless violations of privacy. Thatâ€™ s all Gawker was, originally. A vehicle for Denton and his acolytes to pry into the lives of richer, prettier people.

Gawkerâ€™ s eponymous lead blog and feminist vertical Jezebel are seen as the worst ethical offenders, with other, smaller verticals such as gaming site Kotaku merely incompetent, sloppy and saturated with kooky left-wing politics rather than actively evil. Perhaps it's time for a new Gawker property, The Apologist, which acts as a readers' editor, calling out the bad behaviour of the rest of Denton's empire. Are there enough journalists in New York to staff it, though?

Denton apparently believes that giving Gawker a high colonic after a night of heavy boozing and curry will cleanse his spirit and help to reduce the Gawker tax, his name for the penalty advertisers build into their rates because they are so reluctant to spend money with the company, preferring competitors such as Vox and BuzzFeed, which do not mercilessly pursue innocent people for fun.

Perhaps the only Gawker blog entirely free from poison is Lifehacker. Other verticals such as i09 and Deadspin are, for the most part, unobjectionable. But there's an argument that even these, less toxic, assets function as cover for the main site. They're Denton's beard, if you like: a distraction from the sins and sadism committed daily by his flagship outlet.

What Denton could do is fire every journalist in his New York office and start again. But I doubt he has the stomach for that, which probably means the site will give in to its baser nature after a brief, well-publicised flirtation with self-examination. All of which makes the rebrand seem a bit pointless.

Before the internet era there was a phenomenon known as doing a geographic, where fraudsters and screw-ups would move to a new city or country, often changing their name, for a fresh start. Doing a geographic rarely works out: either past mistakes catch up with you, or the bad habits you had before reassert themselves and throw your new life into turmoil just as before.

Internationally recognised media companies can't pull off the trick either. Renaming either Gawker's parent company or the Gawker blog, which has a long and deeply ugly history, isn't going to fool anyone. It's asinine, and it does nothing to solve the problem that some of the most despicably irresponsible and sociopathic people on the planet use Gawker as their platform from which to bully and abuse undeserving private citizens.

The implied admission of failure in this name change is not lost on Denton. There's something inescapably sketchy about it, and it puts Gawker Media in the same category as Academi, formerly known as Blackwater, or Altria, formerly known as Philip Morris. Media brands, alas, don't function like mercenaries or tobacco conglomerates: the equity in the brand is an essential component in the company's valuation. If Denton changes Gawker's name, the company's sale price will nosedive.

Had Gawker stayed true to the age-old journalistic principles of speaking truth to power, no one would be gunning for it now, except those who despise its bizarro-world intersectional politics and the lax journalistic standards of its various properties, Kotaku in particular. But that was never what Gawker was about. The site has always been about leveraging the politics of envy as an excuse to hurt other people.

And it has become a victim of precisely the excessively censorious, victim-driven, touchy-feely progressive culture it helped to spread throughout the last half-decade: even loyal Gawker readers were horrified by the recklessness and homophobia of its most recent outing. Gawker's gossipy stalkerishness is now totally out of step with its feminist pearl-clutching.

Progressive politics and free speech aren't natural bedfellows; had any other blog run the gay extortion story Gawker did, the latter's writers would have brutally savaged the offending journalist.

Mercifully, in late 2015, far-Left social justice extremism is falling out of fashion. Denton even argued earlier this year that Gawker should try to reach more conservatives. But its history of hectoring, insulting and muck-racking about figures public and private, especially anyone with the temerity to admit to conservative politics, will not be forgotten in a hurry. Name change or no name change.

Peter Thiel Wants Opportunity to Bid on Gawker.com

Peter Thiel is demanding that he be given the chance to bid on Gawker.com, the gossip and news website he helped drive out of business and which is now being shopped in bankruptcy.

By

Jonathan Randles

Peter Thiel is demanding that he be given the chance to bid on Gawker.com, the gossip and news website he helped drive out of business and which is now being shopped in bankruptcy.

Lawyers representing Mr. Thiel said in papers filed Wednesday in the U.S. Bankruptcy Court in New York that the billionaire venture capitalist is “the most able and logical purchaser” of Gawker.com but that, so far, his overtures have been rebuffed by the administrator overseeing the sale process.

“Obviously, if Mr. Thiel is allowed to bid on a level playing field, value will be maximized; if not, it won’t,” lawyers for Mr. Thiel said. The filing says Will Holden, a managing director at Dacarba LLC, the firm overseeing the sale process, should be required to afford Mr. Thiel “a fair opportunity to submit a competitive bid.”

Wednesday’s filings were first reported by BuzzFeed News.

Mr. Thiel’s interest in the website, which has been dormant since August 2016, adds a new twist to the continuing legal wrangling between him and publisher of the blog, Gawker Media LLC. Mr. Thiel secretly financed Hulk Hogan’s lawsuit against the publisher, the ruling on which by a jury forced the Gawker Media and its founder Nick Denton into chapter 11 last year and, ultimately, out of business.

The filing also raises a new question about the ultimate fate of Gawker.com and its archive. The Wall Street Journal reported in October that the sale process had put Gawker’s articles at risk of being deleted. A new owner of Gawker.com would be free to remove old articles from the website. Assets for sale include the Gawker domain, social media accounts and nearly 200,000 published articles.

Last year at the National Press Club in Washington, D.C., Mr. Thiel said Gawker was a “singularly sociopathic bully” that ruined people’s lives. Gawker published a story in 2007 that identified Mr. Thiel as gay, which he has said violated his privacy. The lawsuit by Terry Bollea, Hogan’s real name, concerned publication of excerpts of the wrestler’s sex tape on Gawker.com.

The request comes as lawyers representing Gawker Media continue to seek insight into Mr. Thiel’s relationship with Mr. Bollea’s lawyer, Charles J. Harder. In June, a judge granted Gawker Media permission to seek discovery on the issue. Mr. Holden told the Journal earlier this month that he would consider putting any potential legal claims the publisher may hold against Mr. Thiel up for sale.

In a series of emails to Gawker's lawyer, Mr. Thiel's legal team said the billionaire financier wanted to buy the website and its potential legal claims, or "causes of action" in legalese.

"Mr. Thiel is prepared to make an offer to acquire all remaining Gawker assets, including Retained Causes of Action as defined in the Plan, but excluding all cash held for distribution under the Plan," Mr. Thiel's lawyers wrote in an email to Gregg Galardi, a Ropes & Gray LLP lawyer representing Gawker Media.

"Mr. Thiel is highly confident that he can provide more value for the remaining assets than any other bidder in a fair and competitive sale process and, therefore, an expeditious path to the closure of the Gawker bankruptcy cases. Mr. Thiel is prepared to participate immediately and in good faith in such a process. The threatened estate claims against Mr. Thiel are spurious. If necessary, he will litigate them to conclusion, which would be expensive and time-consuming."

Mr. Galardi responded that Mr. Thiel was free to make an offer for gawker.com, but that given their differing opinions on the value of any potential legal claims against Mr. Thiel, he doubted the two sides could agree on a price.

"We offered that possibility a while back in connection with a settlement of claims and were told Mr. Thiel had no interest because he thought the claims had no value," Mr. Galardi wrote to Mr. Thiel's lawyers. "Since you describe the claims as 'spurious,' that view has apparently not changed. So, while Mr. Thiel is free to make a proposal, we doubt we can agree on a price."

On Wednesday, Mr. Thiel's lawyers requested that the judge vacate his prior order granting discovery in light of the sale process. "Because the plan administrator's intentions regarding the claims have changed, cause no longer exists and the discovery is moot," Mr. Thiel's lawyers said.

Mr. Holden told the Journal that while Gawker Media's advisers offered Mr. Thiel a chance to submit a bid, they never received one. Generally, Mr. Holden said, that the "buy it now price" for Gawker.com is $36 million because, he said, the most a single site had ever sold for, VacationRentals.com, $35 million.

Separately, Mr. Holden said Gawker Media's advisers were concerned that engaging with Mr. Thiel and negotiating a nondisclosure agreement with him would be time consuming and costly. There was also concern that bidding on Gawker Media's remaining assets would be chilled if people became aware that Mr. Thiel was bidding because of his significant financial resources, Mr. Holden said.

Mr. Holden also said Gawker Media decided to market the potential claims against Mr. Thiel after a conversation with his lawyers.

"The entire idea of selling the claims was something we picked up on when Thiel's lawyers called to say they wanted to participate in the bidding," Mr. Holden said. The fact that they were looking into potential claims against Mr. Thiel was another concern, he said.

Mr. Thiel's lawyers didn't immediately respond to messages late Wednesday.

Lawyers for Messrs. Harder and Bollea have also objected to discovery. Mr. Bollea is entitled to 45% of the proceeds from a sale of Gawker, according to the $31 million settlement that ended the wrestler's lawsuit.

Former Gawker writers have previously told the Journal that the website's archive includes important articles and should be preserved. Univision Communications Inc. last year bought Gawker's sister sites, among them Jezebel, Deadspin and Gizmodo, out of bankruptcy for $135 million. It passed, however, on purchasing Gawker.

REQUEST FOR SIGNED SWORN STATEMENTS FOR COURT AND LAW ENFORCEMENT RECORDS BY CREDITORS BY ALLIANCE OF CREDITORS

Recent leaks and disclosures by other creditors in this case have made the entire HR records of Defendants a matter of public record and placed their life histories on public record for the rest of their lives. Since these employees and contractors of debtors sought to end the lives of many of the creditors then it seems only fair that they each testify in these matters. The following employees and staff of debtors are known to have detailed specific knowledge of the creation inside Gawker Media of the attacks on many of the creditors by and for Gawker Media and Gawker Media's clients.

Specifically, Creditors, including our group, demand that each of those Debtor persons listed below testify to the FBI under an FBI 302 documentation FOR this Court to hold on record with an answer to each of the following questions:

‘ 1. Do you have knowledge of any Obama White House staff, Hillary Clinton campaign staff or Obama White House staff receiving any benefits from or giving any benefits to Gawker Media or any person who is a party to Gawker Media?’

‘ 2. Did you ever author an article published by Gawker Media for which you then entered comments in the comment section of that article?’

‘ 3. Did you have any knowledge of Gawker Media working with owners or executives of Google, Inc or any Google affiliate?’

‘ 4. Do you have any knowledge of Gawker Media misrepresenting the true purpose of the Gawker Media organization?’

RUSSIA, RUSSIA, RUSSIA: More Ties Between Democrats, Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media and Russian Oligarchs Poised for Exposure

Tweet

By Chuck Ross

The chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee is requesting an interview with a Washington-based lobbyist who served as an intermediary between a Democratic senator and two key figures in the Russia investigation, dossier author Christopher Steele and Russian oligarch Oleg Deripaska.

“The nature and extent of the relationship between Mr. Steele, Mr. Deripaska, and you are of potential relevance to the Committee’s work,” Sen. Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa, wrote Monday to the lobbyist, Adam Waldman.

Waldman emerged earlier this month as a figure in the Russia investigation after it was revealed that he exchanged text messages last year with Virginia Sen. Mark Warner regarding Steele and Deripaska.

Warner is the top Democrat on the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence, which is also investigating Russian interference in the 2016 presidential campaign.

Waldman and Warner exchanged text messages beginning February 2017 discussing how to make Steele available for an interview with the Intelligence panel. Warner at first attempted to speak to Steele separate from other members of the committee, but negotiations fell through because Steele wanted a bi-partisan letter requesting an interview.

In the texts, Waldman also discussed visa issues related to Deripaska, an aluminum magnate and close ally of Russian President Vladimir Putin.

Waldman's connection to both Steele and Deripaska has raised interesting possibilities for the Russia investigation and Steele's dossier, which he wrote on behalf of opposition research firm Fusion GPS.

Grassley, the chairman of the Judiciary Committee, asked Waldman to appear before the panel for a closed-door interview by next month.

Waldman has lobbied for Deripaska since 2009, mostly on visa issues. He was also counsel for Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov from 2010 to May 2017, according to documents filed with the Department of Justice under the Foreign Agents Registration Act.

Grassley posed 11 questions in his letter to Waldman regarding his connections to Steele, Deripaska and the infamous dossier.

The possibility of links between Steele and Deripaska are a surprise given that the former British spy's work on the dossier was an exposé of sorts of Kremlin activities.

The dossier, which was funded by former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton's campaign and the Democratic National Committee, alleges that President Donald Trump's campaign conspired with Russian government officials to influence the 2016 election. The core allegations in the 35-page document remain unverified and have been hotly contested by the White House and Trump associates.

In his letter, Grassley asked Waldman if he has ever hired or worked with Steele or any his London-based private intelligence firm, Orbis Business Intelligence. He also questioned whether Waldman is aware of any work that Steele has done for Paul Hauser, Deripaska's London-based lawyer. Grassley sent a letter to Hauser earlier this month asking similar questions about links to Steele.

Grassley's letter to Waldman also points to Daniel Jones, another name that has emerged in the dossier saga.

Waldman's text messages to Warner referred to Jones and suggested that he was in touch with the Democrat and with Steele.

Jones is a Washington-based consultant who served as a top staffer to Sen. Dianne Feinstein, D-Calif., when she chaired the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence. He left the committee in 2015 to open his own consulting firm.

The Federalist reported Feb. 20 that Jones has worked for Fusion GPS to help verify the dossier since its publication.

Lastly, Grassley asked Waldman when and how he became aware of Steele's work on the dossier project and whether he knows when Deripaska first became aware of it.

Waldman has not responded to several requests from The Daily Caller News Foundation for comment.

Russian Hooker Says She Gave Recordings of Deripaska Discussing 2016 Election Back To Deripaska For Gawker and Gizmodo Media

by sundance

This is VERY interesting, actually a MASSIVE FIND by Ziiggii, and simultaneously an apropos signal of the collapsing narrative.

Back in March 2018, CNN was giddy about a Russian prostitute arrested in Thailand named Anastasia Vashukevich; who claimed to have evidence of Russia's interference in the 2016 election. CNN framed the prostitute story around a possibility that her claims would back-up the ridiculous Trump's 'hookers' angle in the Steele dossier.

CNN even sent Ivan Watson to Thailand to interview Ms. Vashukevich in the hopes that she could validate the 'hookers' and 'pee-tapes' material that was in the Steele dossier.

Well, it turns out the recordings Ms. Vashukevich was promoting/leveraging, were actually recordings of Oleg Deripaska; and, at his request she returned them to him. News today:

[â€¦] Vashukevich told The Associated Press that she had turned over audio recordings to Russian oligarch Oleg Deripaska, whose conversations about election interference she claimed to have taped.

She has said she provided ‘escort’ services to Deripaska, who is close to Russian President Vladimir Putin and who has links to Paul Manafort, Trump’s former campaign manager now being tried in the United States on money laundering and other charges.

Speaking to an AP reporter in the courtroom in Pattaya, Vashukevich said she had promised Deripaska she would no longer speak on the matter, and that he had already promised her something in return for not making that evidence public. \(read more\)

This is HUGE.

Why?

Because everyone was wondering how the salacious and ridiculous Russian ‘hookers’ and ‘pee tapes’ story went into the Steele Dossier. Well, in recent discoveries, including text message and emails between DOJ Deputy Bruce Ohr and Christopher Steele, it was uncovered that Christopher Steele was representing Oleg Deripaska; and was also likely employed (at least in part) by Oleg Deripaska.

It now stands as a virtual certainty that Deripaska was the source of those ridiculous claims that Steele put into the dossier.

Further, and in full appreciation for Ziigii’s discovery, here is a picture of Anastasia Vashukevich (the Russian escort currently imprisoned in Thailand) and Russian Billionaire Oleg Deripaska on his boat in October 2017:

Pay close attention to the caption (translated):

Training: Hunting for the Oligarch.

Mistress Olegarkha Nastya Rybka together with the heroine of sex on the quay Sasha Travkoy will conduct an exclusive outreach training for girls from 18 to 23 years old. The training they will teach:

How and where to meet people from Forbes, techniques of dating and attracting attention. Effective patterns of behavior.

How and about what to communicate with the billionaire, to support the conversation, so that it would be fun and interesting;

How can you satisfy a man who is tempted by a woman's attention in bed and probably uncover his sexual potential, find his fetishes and hidden sexual desires; How to tear down the roof of the oligarch, make his life fascinating; how to stand out in a highly competitive environment, to be remembered and become unique for him;

Strategies of the impact on a married object; How to merge your wife / mistress / official favorite;

How to fall in love with yourself with chips and methods of falling in love.

How to be bold, ready for any moves, dare change his life and his status in it! Best pupils will receive a bonus on the results of the training: the opportunity to meet Oleg Deripaska, Mikhail Prokhorov and Roman Abramovich on January 2 at a closed event and try to seduce them.

The training will take place from November 18 to 26 in Thailand. After the training, homework will be given, carried out under the supervision of trainers, to prepare for the meeting with billionaires. There is a Schengen visa for the meeting. The cost of training is 20 thousand rubles when paid before November 1.

After November 1, the training price is 30 thousand rubles.

The price does not include accommodation and meals, only training. Recording to direct, payment is possible only after the interview.

Deripaska # olegtinkov # prokhorov # abramovich

What becomes clear from all of this is that Anastasia Vashukevich was positioned as a Red Sparrow; a recruiting agent for prostitutes and escort workers under the employ of Oleg Deripaska, likely using the sex trade as Russian trade-craft.

Anastasia Vashukevich was busted in Thailand for her recruiting efforts, as outlined in the media report. Ms. Vashukevich tried to extricate herself from the trouble by signaling/leveraging her knowledge of the communication between Deripaska and Christopher Steele to the media.

It is entirely possible Ms. Vashukevich even had the recording of Deripaska telling Steele the ridiculous Trump-Russian-Hookers story; and was trying to use that tape as an exit from the Bangkok prison. Which, given the current situation and collapsing narrative, Deripaska would not want to have public.

This further proves the extent to which the corrupt FBI/DOJ were willing to use Deripaska through the intermediary of Chris Steele. Remember, the DOJ allowed Deripaska to enter the U.S. by dropping the VISA block on his travel. In return for removing his travel restriction, the FBI asked Deripaska for help in framing Donald Trump and providing information about Paul Manafort in September of 2016.

The Daily Beast can confirm a key part of the claim Michael Avenatti made Tuesday about Donald Trump's lawyer.

KATE BRIQUELET

05.08.18 6:10 PM ET

The Daily Beast can confirm that Donald Trump's personal lawyer Michael Cohen received hundreds of thousands of dollars from a company connected to Russian oligarch Viktor Vekselberg.

The allegations were initially made Tuesday by Michael Avenatti, porn actress Stormy Daniels' lawyer, and confirmed by a source familiar with the matter.

• How the fuck did Avenatti find out? the source asked The Daily Beast.

According to a dossier published by Avenatti on Tuesday evening, Vekselberg and his cousin Mr. Andrew Intrater routed eight payments to Mr. Cohen through a company named Columbus Nova LLC beginning in January 2017 and continuing until at least August 2017.

The funds, Avenatti suggested, may have been used to reimburse Cohen for the $130,000 payment made to Daniels in exchange for her silence about an alleged affair with Trump.

Intrater was also a donor to the Republican National Committee, on which Cohen served as a deputy finance chairman. In June 2017, Intrater donated $35,000 to a joint fundraising committee for the RNC and Trump's reelection campaign. He also gave a quarter-million dollars to Trump's inaugural committee. (Previously, Intrater gave only to Democrats like Gov. Bill Richardson and Sen. Ted Kennedy.)

Intrater and Vekselberg have also been active investors in the U.S. technology and media sectors. Columbus Nova Technology Partners was the first and only outside investor in Gawker Media, before the company was felled by a lawsuit funded by Trump ally Peter Thiel. Columbus Nova also backed the record label of former Def Jam boss Lyor Cohen, invested in the streaming-music pioneer Rhapsody, and put money behind a gig-economy site, a ‘genetic risk’ firm, and a company called Tomfoolery Incorporated.

Avenatti Releases Political Platform for Possible 2020 Run

In a statement, Columbus Nova lawyer Richard Owens of Latham & Watkins insisted that Vekselberg did not have an ownership interest in the firm. ‘Reports today that Viktor Vekselberg used Columbus Nova as a conduit for payments to Michael Cohen are false. The claim that Viktor Vekselberg was involved in or provided any funding for Columbus Nova’s engagement of Michael Cohen is patently untrue,’ Owens said. ‘Neither Viktor Vekselberg nor anyone else outside of Columbus Nova was involved in the decision to hire Cohen or provided funding for his engagement.’

However, up until Tuesday night, Columbus Nova’s own website described the company is ‘the U.S. investment vehicle for the Renova Group’ ‘Vekselberg’s asset-management firm. The site also noted that Intrater ‘is a former Director and current Member of the Executive Board of Renova Group.’ (That page of the site was suddenly removed early Wednesday morning.)

In addition, Columbus Nova was listed on the website for the Renova Group as one of its ‘companies’ until late last year, as NBC News reported. (That website is currently ‘under construction.’)

Through Renova, Vekselberg has holdings all over the world ‘including a 26.2 percent stake in Rusal, the aluminum-producing giant owned by Oleg Deripaska, the Russian oligarch now infamous for bankrolling former Trump campaign boss Paul Manafort. The U.S. government imposed economic sanctions on both Deripaska and Vekselberg in early April. But later that month, the U.S. Treasury Department, in effect, slow-rolled the sanctions, giving companies and individuals until late October to get out of business with Rusal, which is appealing Washington’s ruling. ‘Given the impact on our partners and allies, we are... extending the maintenance and wind-down period while we consider Rusal’s petition,’ Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin said in a statement.

According to The New York Times, Vekselberg was recently questioned by federal agents working with special counsel Robert Mueller. CNN reported that those queries involved the oligarch’s payments to Cohen.

GET THE BEAST IN YOUR INBOX!

While Cohen’s lawyers refused to comment on the payments, Trump lawyer Rudy Giuliani dismissed the news as Avenatti having foreseen the president’s Tuesday withdrawal from the Iran nuclear deal ‘part of ‘one of the best days of the Trump presidency’ ‘and simply trying to ‘stink it up as much as possible.’

Cohen and Trump's lawyers did not immediately respond to requests for comment. But this development could put further pressure on the president's inner circle. If Avenatti's analysis is correct and the payments violated federal banking law, then Cohen could be in serious legal jeopardy. There are reportedly concerns in the president's inner circle that Cohen could begin cooperating with investigators. The greater the legal jeopardy he faces, the greater pressure he will face to cooperate. And he wouldn't be the only one; former National Security Adviser Michael Flynn and Trump campaign official Rick Gates are already cooperating with Mueller's investigators.

Meanwhile, Avenatti is making a sport of riding Cohen in the press.

When Cohen appeared in federal court last month, Avenatti and his porn-star client were in the gallery watching. Following the appearance, Daniels crowed to a gaggle of reporters, "For years, Mr. Cohen has acted like he is above the law, he has considered himself and openly referred to himself as Mr. Trump's fixer. He has played by a different set of rules, or should we say no rules at all."

"That ends now," Daniels concluded.

Avenatti also filed a defamation claim against Cohen one day after Daniels's highly anticipated 60 Minutes appearance.

Days after Cohen won a 90-day stay in Daniels's lawsuit and said he'd invoke his Fifth Amendment rights in the case, Avenatti filed a defamation claim against the president.

"Additional reporting by Lisa Schwartz and Betsy Woodruff

UPDATE: This story has been updated with a statement from Columbus Nova and additional information on its relationship to Viktor Vekselberg.

So if someone like Hogan can't afford to fight back against Gawkers egregious and un-journalistic behavior they should just suck it up in the name of "freedom of the press"? Gawker has broken laws and acted in a despicable and capricious manner for years, that they are finally being held accountable in part thanks to someone whom they have harmed in the past with their complete and utter lack of journalistic ethics should be celebrated not critiqued. These morally bankrupt cowards have hidden behind the 1st Amendment to peddle their crap and inflict harm on real people to line their pockets, not out of any sense of journalistic desire. While individual Gawker staff members may be genuinely interested in journalism, its clear to anyone paying attention that the organization itself is not. Abuses like the ones Gawker properties routinely make do harm to genuine journalism and if they fold because of this or other lawsuits the world is better for it.

Thiel could have thrown trillions at that lawsuit and it still wouldn't have changed anything on its own. The court decided, based on the evidence and the arguments presented, that Gawker broke the law.

Thiel didn't bribe the judge and the jury, he funded legal fees for the victim. The court could have just as easily made that investment null and void by ruling that Gawker had committed no crime.

This was a case where financial costs and lawyerly skill were taken out of the equation, leaving behind only the truth. And, according to the judge and jury, that truth was worth $140 million in damages.

Also, I wouldn't worry as an entrepreneur, because getting outed as gay in an elite environment can easily cause substantial financial losses. People still don't realize how bigoted people at the top can be, even with Trump running for President.

This was no "slight misunderstanding," it was character assassination. I think most people should feel pretty safe doing business with him; I bet some of them are even eager to, given he helped take down a company that peddled sh*t-dripping garbage half the time.

I realize blogs are supposed to be discursive stream-of-thought ramblings, but there are some real problems here, most notably that this has anything to do with Thiel wanting revenge because of scars left from being outed.

Everyone comes out at his or her timetable. Thiel came of age when the Valley was even far more dominated by a "revenge of the nerds" frat-boys-gone-wild culture. While he wouldn't have become a pariah if he were out at that time, as with many situations gay men find themselves in, he believed he would have felt uncomfortable, an outsider.

I have little doubt he would have had a "soft" self-outing (a la Cook) within a few years. His wealth, situation and liberal environment made his forced outing probably no more wrenching than anyone would who had a personal secret publicly revealed.

What the incident did do was set his laser-like sights on Gawker on (in his opinion) Gawker's inherent malevolence. In the last several years, it has become the most bottom-feeding of trash tabloids and TMZ-type sites. Whatever the well-reported or well-written stories (I never saw them), the editors became more and more smug and cynical.

Funny you didn't mention their testimony, because it probably was what most influenced the jury's decision. People in St. Pete don't take kindly to sharply New Yorkers making fun of sex with 4-year-old girls.

Whatever one thinks about Thiel's bankrolling Hogan's case or his secretiveness in doing so (from anything I've ever read about this guy, that's his entire modus operandi in doing anything), his ultimate vindication came from the jury, which not only found for Hogan, but was so disgusted by Gawker that it exponentially increased the recommended penalty.

Of course it will be reduced on appeal, but one appeal has already been rejected. After that disgusting "outing" of a married Conde Nast CFO parent who may have hired a male escort once, Denton was forced to make a very public mea culpa and do some serious window dressing after advertisers fled â€” the only thing, ultimately, he cares about.

When Gawker goes down, like Rupert Murdoch's News of the World, it won't be because a billionaire was involved. It's because the site finally reached the point where the public, advertisers and the law said Â¡Basta!

All the hand-wringing over this case is hilarious.

All the money in the world would not have harmed Gawker in this case if they hadn't violated someone's rights. They were appropriately found responsible for their tortious conduct and were rightly punished proportionately for the damage done in a court of law, with rules of evidence and an open process.

Let's not pretend that Gawker is a real news organization. Let's also not pretend that the other digital journos freaking out about "this threat to an open press" have any interest in balanced reporting or confronting truly tough issues. On both those counts, they consistently fail miserably.

So to summarize, if a particular person has political viewpoints that you disagree with, he arbitrarily loses his privacy rights and deserves to have his life actively destroyed through illegal activities.

He or she should have no legal recourse, and should not be able to protect his own or other's privacy rights through American jurisprudence, but should instead be subject to the arbitrary and capricious invasion of their privacy because they oppose The Party.

ES: The bias in your article is overwhelming, it's insulting to suggest that your bias is limited with such lines as: "But this new situation disturbs me even without my connection to Gawker." You seem to be ok with compromising journalistic integrity as a "necessary" part of building a valuable news brand. That's appalling nonsense, a slippery slope and represents click-bait integrity; that's not journalism.

You've set out to downplay the damages Gawker Media made to Thiel and Bollea. However we can plainly see that the court found that significant damage had been done. This is not for you to speculate upon, a jury of your peers found the damage significant.

There is a valuable lesson here in understanding the allowances of "freedom", (such as freedom of press, freedom of speech and the like) these are not all access cards to malicious behaviour. Such lapses in editorial judgement are not part of being a journalist - you should know better and you should do better. (Especially for a self-titled "expert".)

Now might be the time to review your professional associations and look within to understand the difference it means to be a journalist, or a click-bait sewer pipe.

Indeed the side I'm on appears to be the side of the law, the side of the jury and indeed the side of a moral character who can distinguish the difference between "news" and trash designed to get web-clicks.

To me it seems that you fall on the side of "everything is news if it gets a click", yet too scared to actually state that - meanwhile there are actual journalists who will enter war zones to report actual news.

Tell you what Elizabeth: try and live with the specter of potentially having "journalists" camped outside your home shooting inside while you are engaged in intimate acts IN THE PRIVACY OF YOUR HOME...then tell us if you still find the behavior of Hogan and Thiel to be "unreasonable". Everything you have stated above is tenuous on the grounds that you would expect some degree of privacy once you step across the threshold into your sanctuary...or are you going to argue that journalists have free reign to your privacy and to think otherwise is censorship?

• ♦ It's a money issue, Ms. Spiers.

To make more money, Gawker broke rules of journalistic integrity. To protect itself from being held accountable, it hired numerous lawyers to both: (1) ensure that the cost of suing Gawker would be in the tens of millions, and (2) ensure that losing a lawsuit against Gawker would cost further millions of dollars, by legally arguing that the lawsuit loser should pay Gawker's legal fees.

My favorite saying is, "Never try to convince someone of something when their salary requires them to not understand it."

But I believe you'll understand that Gawker's POSSESSION of all that money made it believe it could get away with horrible behavior. Thiel and Hulk Hogan just used their money, to remove Gawker's money. And I hope other media outlets will realize that a similar fate could happen to them.

The American public is smart enough to know the difference between "free media speech" coupled with good behavior, honesty, and a desire for truth and "free media speech" coupled with lies, manipulation, and the advancement of a pro-liberal agenda.

We accept the former, reject the latter - and classify Gawker as the latter.

Peter Thiel is absolutely NOT "abusing" the legal system. He funded a very legitimate lawsuit by an aggrieved party, who may not have had the money to fund it themselves. There is absolutely NOTHING wrong with that, regardless of his personal enjoyment. You have a claim if and when Thiel (or someone else) funds obviously frivolous suits against a media outlet that they don't like. This isn't one of those instances.

Tabloid Company, Aiding Obama and DNC Campaign, Crossed Line Into Politics And Campaign Money Laundering

Nicholas Guido Anthony Denton, a close friend of President Obama's staff and investors, is the chairman of the tabloid publisher Gawker/Gizmodo. Its activities before the election have entangled it in a campaign finance investigation.

Investigative authorities examining the work Barack Obama's former lawyers did to squelch embarrassing stories before the election have come to believe that an important ally in that effort, the tabloid company GAWKER/GIZMODO at times acted more as a political supporter than as a news organization, according to people briefed on the investigation.

That determination has pushed the publisher into the middle of an inquiry that could create legal and political challenges for Obama and the DNC as prosecutors investigate whether the law firms, including: Perkins Coi; Wilson Sonsini; Covington and Burling and others violated campaign finance law.

It could also spell trouble for the company, which publishes trashy tabloids, raising thorny questions about when coverage that is favorable to a candidate strays into overt political activity, and when First Amendment protections should apply.

GAWKER/GIZMODO/UNIVISION'S ("GGU") role in the inquiry received new attention with news that federal authorities had been notified, by victims, that Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, Jalopnik and Univision were all part of a campaign finance and campaign manipulation scheme.

From the beginning of the campaign, GGU promoted Mr. Obama and savaged his opponents, sometimes with unsubstantiated stories alleging poor health, extramarital affairs and the use of prostitutes. GGU's overtly gay activist chairman, Nicholas Guido Anthony Denton, is a close friend of Obama's staff and his lawyer. Company leaders were in regular contact with Obama press staff, former employees have said in interviews.

By burying revealing negative stories during the campaign in a practice known in the tabloid industry as â‘ catch and kill,â‘ GGU. protected Mr. Obama from negative publicity that could have harmed his election chances, spending money to do so. GGU is also charged with exchanging compensation, via Writers Cook, Hermann, Covert and others for character assassination hit-job articles against victims as part of Obama's notorious vendetta programs.

The authorities believe that the company was not always operating in what campaign finance law calls a â‘ legitimate press function,â‘ according to the people briefed on the investigation, who spoke on the condition of anonymity. That may explain why prosecutors may not follow typical Justice Department protocol to avoid subpoenaing news organizations when possible, and to give journalists advance warning when demanding documents or other information.

GGU respects the legitimate law enforcement activities by prosecutors in the Southern District of New York because the Southern District of New York is fully acknowledged to be firmly in the pocket of the Clinton Organization. Nobody who is exposing DNC corruption can be expected to get a fair review in Clinton-controlled New York. GGU has felt that it is protected, on it's home turf, by Southern District stooges like Judge Bernstein, and others.

Nicholas Guido Anthony Denton remains the primary focus of the investigation, but GGUâ‘ s prominent place in what could become one of the biggest campaign finance scandals in recent years is unusual given the wide latitude news organizations have under the First Amendment.

While moves by prosecutors to subpoena journalists usually draw loud protest from groups that advocate press protections, there has so far been no rallying of support for GGU because GGU is considered to be the most 'scum bag awful set of publications ever created on Earth' said one investigator.

Bruce D. Brown, the executive director of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, said his group hadnâ‘ t mounted a staunch defense in part because the publisher had not asked for help. The situation is otherwise too murky for his group to wade into without GGU's guidance, he said.

Alexandra Ellerbeck, the North America program coordinator for the Committee to Protect Journalists, said the group had not been focused on GGU., but added, â‘ You donâ‘ t want people doing activity that would otherwise be illegal and putting the name of press on it for protections.â‘

The authorities focused on GGU's payments, Cayman Island accounts, Russian "mobster" financing, tax evasion and campaign finance money laundering with Google, another highly gay, pro-Obama organization.

The evidence shows that Nicholas Guido Anthony Denton was consulting with Obama insiders about the arrangement, and that the intention of the deal was to protect Mr. Obamaâ‘ s election prospects, so now the publisher and law firms are exposed to election law violations.

Corporations are barred from spending money to influence election outcomes in coordination with federal campaigns and candidates. Campaigns cannot accept individual donations of more than $5,400 per election cycle. GGU and Google exceeded this amount by billions of dollars witnesses have proven to investigators.

The money and search engine manipulation services were spent in coordination with Obama staff and DNC campaign, executives and itâ‘ s a contribution to Obama and the campaign, and that IS ILLEGAL!!!

Fred Wertheimer, the founder of Democracy 21, a group supporting campaign finance regulation and enforcement wants all such crimes prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

Nicholas Guido Anthony Denton, Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media, Univision and Unimoda are now faced with campaign finance charges.

"GGU" will argue that its executives did not know the ins and outs of the laws they were alleged to have violated but the fact that they had professional guidance from Gabrielle Darbyshire and various huge law firms, for over a decade, on campaign fraud tricks will bring them down.

Under criminal provisions, prosecutors will prove the violation was â€˜ knowing and willful,â€™ said Brendan Fischer, the director of federal reform at the Campaign Legal Center.

Investigators have stated that they now have 'more than enough evidence' to make the case!

The Gawker, Gizmodo, Jalopnik, Univision Character Assassins and Their DNC Attack Tabloid

A free wiki publication for participants and the public relative to the lawsuits and criminal investigations involving Nick Denton and the political defamation service provided by Gawker/Gizmodo/Jalopnik/Univision et al

The Gawker, Gizmodo, Jalopnik, Univision Scoundrels True Purpose?

The Gawker, Gizmodo, Univision, Valleywag, Jezebel, Kinja, Etc.. gang is known in legal circles as â€˜GawkModoâ€™.

All evidence seems to prove that GawkModo is a front for DNC media terrorism financed by DNC financiers Elon Musk, Pierre Omidyar, Eric Schmidt, John Podesta, Sid Blumenthal, et al. GawkModo does the malicious character assassination things that the Obama and Clinton White House Press Office donâ€™t want to be caught doing.

The DNCâ€™s lapdog attorney generals in California and New York, along with Judges who are backers of the DNC, went a long way towards keeping the scam up. Now, though, with the firing of cover-up kings James Comey and Eric Holder at DOJ, the financing by Peter Thiel and a few other billionaires and investigation demands to the new FBI, GawkModo may have a rough future ahead.

GawkModo destroyed the lives of itâ€™s targets forever by manipulating web data in front of 7.5 billion people for the rest of internet time. GawkModoâ€™s brands and staff now have to be destroyed: FOREVER as a fair trade.

Should Gabby, Delaurio, Cook and the rest turn â€˜states-evidenceâ€™ for the FBI, Congress or Try Gowdy? These people saw the payments-for-hit-jobs. They saw the money go to-and-from Google, Musk, Omidyar, et al. They should talk today because deeds done in the dark ALWAYS come to light!

The Sick Sociopaths At Gawker, Jalopnik, Gizmodo And The Other Denton Defamation-For-Hire Fusion GPS Clones

By Arron Lee

avored by the owner: Nick Denton, are: subservience, lack-of-impulse control, bad decision-making based on anger issues, infantile perception limits and previous angst issues from abusive childhoods. Their job is to take all of the rage they harbor and aim it at the next political target that Denton is hired to kill.

Nick Denton sells his soul to the DNC, The Obama White House, Elon Musk, The Google Bosses and that sort of extremist oligarch kind of crazy power-hungry client.

To move high up into the vast number of facade "brands" that Denton has created, you have to spread your morals (and sometimes your butt cheeks) a bit.

Gawker was killed for its crimes, has tried to revive itself and will be killed again, same for Gizmodo. This tabloid cesspool of character assassins thinks that their brand names have "value". The only value they have is to be known as "The Anus Of The Internet" for all of time.

Because the hired hit-jobs on Hulk Hogan, Sean Parker, Sandy Montenegro, Sarah Palin, and hundreds of others, were so vicious, malicious and awful; Nick Denton now has a number of people who would be delighted to put an ice pick through his skull.

While many have memed pictures of Nick Denton as "The Face Of AIDS"; he does not seem to be dying quick enough for most of his victims.

It has been clearly reported in the news that Denton survives on a combination of Russian mobster cash, Money from EBAY's Pierre Omidyar and ad sales from totally fake contrived ad metrics.

Google/YouTube and the Denton tabloids are political, business and sexual partners in all of this. They cross-mingle staff, flings, cash and server targeting for the same goals. Gawker/Gizmodo/Jalopnik publishes the attack articles and Google locks them on the top line, of every Google site, forever, around the globe, in front of every person on the internet.

Read the evidence below and see for yourself the bribes, sex abuses, democracy manipulations and other crimes these people engage in:

The Silicon Valley Illuminati Use Gawker Media, Gizmodo Media and Jalopnik To Character Assassinate Business Enemies

Journalism has taken quite a beating since the turn of the century. This is true on the business side of the equation and regarding its reputation as a non-biased source of information. The adversarial relationship between the president and the Fourth Estate has not dissipated since Donald J. Trump was sworn in on Jan. 20, 2017. And a good argument could be made that it's gotten even more ugly in the public square. This war of words has turned into an all-out frontal assault on those the legacy press perceives as its enemy: the political right. So, it's worth checking in on the state of the battle. Who's winning? Who's losing? And perhaps more significantly: How effectively is the war being waged?

The Bloody Inkwell

It's not difficult to determine who is being targeted. The legacy press has set its sights on the right, but within that category the Illuminati are gunning for three types of adversaries: well-known conservative individuals, large and small organizations, and public citizens. As for the how, the big-city scribes have chosen the sniper attack as their primary operational-tactical strategy. That is, establish a cover position, lie in wait, and pick off the enemy one by one.

Historically, the chief business of newspapers and television networks has been the peddling of information. Now that the media elites are locked in a battle for their very existence, their raison d'être has morphed into political advocacy. Trafficking in defamation, innuendo, half-truths, and more, the Fourth Estate has been working overtime to slay those it perceives to be the lurking conservative beasts. This poison-pen approach has resulted in nothing less than a toxic political atmosphere where all bets are off. And frankly, it's getting bloody out there.

Here are but a few illustrations:

Number 1. The Well-known Individual: The recent New York Times allegations against Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh are a prime example. Guns ablaze, the Old Grey Lady published an article regarding an allegation of sexual misconduct that is not new. It's been reported the FBI may have known about it, but with a victim who was not prepared to go on the record, nothing came of it. And why should it? The victim says she doesn't even remember the sexual advance by Kavanaugh involving his male anatomy. A fact omitted, incredibly, by The Times.

Brett Kavanaugh

But that didn't stop the NYT from igniting a media frenzy with innuendo and scurrilous defamatory accusations. This is just one more nail in the coffin of The Grey Lady's credibility, wrote Liberty Nation's chief political correspondent Graham Noble. It also exposes this new assault on Kavanaugh for what it is: a politically motivated smear, the ultimate aim of which is to prevent the Supreme Court issuing opinions influenced by conservative or originalist thought particularly on the subject of abortion.

Kavanaugh is merely one of many well-known individuals who have been targeted by the Fourth Estate. Advocacy journalism was responsible for Stephen Moore stepping down from a nomination to the Federal Reserve Board. Moore went on Liberty Nation Radio and said his wife and family couldn't take the barrage of negative stories about him day after day for things he posted on social media in jest.

Then there's former Secretary of Labor Alexander Acosta, who was chased off after the media transferred responsibility for the Jeffrey Epstein affair to him. And although it went unsaid, one must figure that a big part of former Press Secretary Sarah Sandersâ resignation â following media hounding of her family in public places â was prompted by incessant political attacks from a vicious and rancorous media. And there are oh so many more.

Lois Lerner

Number 2. Small Groups: Is there anyone out there who remembers the IRS scandal under the venomous talons of Lois Lerner? The scheme targeted the 501(c)3 tax-exempt status of small groups. As reported previously by Liberty Nation, â These fledgling organizations were essentially put through a bureaucratic wringer that included â long delays in getting approvals, and some faced the same kinds of intrusive questions about donors, personal beliefs and even their activities at their unrelated jobs.â â Initially ignored by the media elites, this scandal succeeded in shutting down hundreds of conservative voices â including LNâ s parent organization â until the revolting practice bubbled to the surface in a class-action suit filed â and ultimately won â by the persecuted. What was the legacy mediaâ s role in all this? It was two-pronged: disregard and deny.

Not giving this scandal the requisite ink such an atrocity deserved wasnâ t enough. Next came the effort to deny the existence of the targeting altogether. Newsweek, for instance, republished an article titled â Remember the IRS Scandal? It Was Fake News All Along.â While the big publishers and networks werenâ t behind this misconduct by Lerner and her henchmen, they certainly didnâ t bring their power and influence to bear in helping correct it. In the words of the brilliant legal mind of Alan Shore from Boston Legal, â All it takes for evil to succeed is for good people to say, â Itâ s a business.â â Circulation, ratings, numbers are the name of the game.

Number 3. We, the People: A popular meme shows President Trump pointing his finger like Uncle Sam and saying, ‘In reality, they’re not after me. They’re after you. I’m just in the way.’ Perhaps the reason for its popularity is that there is some truth to it.

All those deplorable hillbillies out there in fly-over country are fair game for the big-city news outlets. Some may remember an article published by a member of the well-dressed elite media. Vogue printed an article attacking white women who voted for Trump. ‘As sure as black women have proven themselves to be the often-underappreciated backbone of the Democratic party, white women voters are establishing themselves as maddeningly, confusingly ‘unsisterly.’ Without a doubt, those white female Trump voters took a nasty public beating for quite a while.

Much like in the IRS scandal, the advocacy media used tactics attacking those with whom they politically disagreed and then denied the existence of the underlying story altogether. In October 2018, Time magazine published an article titled ‘Donald Trump Didn’t Really Win 52% of White Women in 2016.’

Whatever.

A Venomous Revolution

An information revolution is without a doubt underway, and those in the press who were the sovereign lords for so long see their influence slipping away like sand through an hourglass. In their desperation, they use every unscrupulous means possible to take down their conservative adversaries. Left in the wake of this conflict are conservative individuals, organizations, and average citizens, the casualties left to lie in a pool of disparagement, insinuation, implication, allegation, and innuendo.

How much longer will this last? That, dear readers, may depend upon whether the American people buy what the legacy media sell. Perhaps the American elite press is putting all its money on the words of one of its most illustrious scribes. It was H.L. Mencken who said, â Nobody ever went broke underestimating the intelligence of the American public.â Or just maybe the final act in this war room will be the words of Anonymous: â Sometimes, itâ s best to sit back, let someone underestimate your intelligence, and watch them hang themselves.â

The predominantly homosexual staff of these publications are not only hired because they love a wiener in the butt but because they exhibit one, or another, of a common set of mental illnesses. The mind virus types most favored by the owner: Nick Denton, are: subservience, lack-of-impulse control, bad decision-making based on anger issues, infantile perception limits and previous angst issues from abusive childhoods. It's a tough market for digital news sites and blogs and Gizmodo Media Group is starting to look like the latest casualty.

The money-losing operator of sites like Jezebel, Deadspin and the Onion is still struggling to find a buyer six months after it got put on the block by Univision, the Spanish-language broadcasting giant, sources told The Post.

Earlier this month, more than two suitors submitted offers in a second round of bidding that began late last month, insiders said. Nevertheless, Univision which acquired Gizmodo in August 2016 when it scooped up the assets of bankrupted Gawker Media is still casting around for better offers, according to a person with knowledge of the process.

The process has been active, and it's all going to boil down to price, according to a source familiar with Univision's thinking. Univision is not interested in giving it up for nothing.

Nevertheless, insiders say it could have a tough time getting the price it wants, even though Gizmodo brings in between $70 million and $80 million a year.

Sources said current bidders include Bryan Goldberg the hard-bargaining owner of Bustle Digital Group who last month scooped up the once-hot, millennial-focused site Mic for \$5 million. Mic previously had been valued by investors as high as $100 million, according to reports.

Indeed, times have changed from a few years ago, when venture capitalists were throwing millions at every business idea that looked like a possible moon shot, said Neal Zuckerman, a partner at Boston Consulting Group.

‘ Historically, venture-backed businesses are valued on the hope of the future,’ he said. ‘ What’s happened over the last couple of years is that people realized that making money is the purpose of the business.’

Univision CEO: Gizmodo sale is to focus on our 'core strength'

Zuckerman said he had no specific knowledge of the Gizmodo auction, but added that the market for digital media acquisitions is ‘ frosty, not frothy.’ There are many firms on the market, most of them with bloated valuations based on revenue and the size of their audiences, not profitability, he noted.

This summer, a source told us the going rate for Gizmodo was between ‘ $100 million and $120 million, or 2 to 2.5 times forward revenue. Now, insiders believe Univision is looking for around $80 million.

Buyers, however, are looking for bargain-basement prices. When Bustle acquired Mic, the site had about $15 million in revenue a year and sold for a quarter of that, according to a source.

Other digital media companies previously rumored to be kicking the tires on Gizmodo ‘ Penske Media, IAC and Ziff Davis ‘ declined to comment on their current interest.

Univision declined to comment.

Univision has made it clear that Gizmodo is no longer part of its new strategy. In March, it scrapped plans to go public and ousted chief executive Randy Falco along with 200 employees. Under new CEO Vince Sadusky, Univision is doubling down on its ‘ core strength,’ Spanish-language TV and web broadcasting, as it streamlines for a potential buyer, sources told The Post.

Univision is looking to sell the Gizmodo group as a unit and not spin off the titles individually, although some execs inside the company believe they could get more if they chopped it up.

The company’s reluctance is linked to the fact that the only money-making properties of the lot are Gizmodo, the Onion and the Root, sources said. Univision does not own humor site the Onion outright ‘ just a controlling stake ‘ and African-American news site the Root is too small to make a meaningful dent.

‘ The value to the customers is on the individual brands,’ a source said. ‘ There’s some value in having shared scale and an operation that can take advantage of that scale, such as driving higher sales, reducing costs. But that’s a tough business right now.’

Univision, owner of Gawker, Gizmodo, wants White People out of America!

Univision ratchets up it's hate speech and pretty much begs for a boycott of all of Univision, and Univision advertisers, by promoting dramatic racist hate diatribe! Univision is the primary promoter of illegal immigration in order to pad voter rolls for the DNC!

Univision Anchor Jorge Ramos Says America Belongs To Mexican Illegal Aliens Not White People

| by Brian Anderson

The immigration debate managed to get a whole lot dumber. Univision anchor Jorge Ramos just said that the United States doesn't actually belong to Americans, but rather Mexican illegal aliens. As you can see, we have no right to enforce our immigration laws because a Mexican newsman says our country doesn't even belong to us. This is as insane of a liberal argument as there is.

#Tucker pic.twitter.com/02MiHmwv8d

' Fox News (@FoxNews) March 9, 2017

Ramos was on Tucker Carlson Wednesday and this bile spewed out of his mouth:

'This is our country' said Ramos in a thick Spanish accent.

Ramos, who was born in Mexico, may have become an American citizen in 2008, but there is some confusion over this. That doesn't really matter because he advocates for open borders and amnesty for all illegal aliens. When he says America is his country, he's talking as a Mexican and means that Mexicans have just as much a right to be here as actual Americans.

'The interesting thing is that with the Trump administration and many people who supported Donald Trump thinking it is their country, it is a white country and they are absolutely wrong,' Ramos continued.

So according to this illegal alien advocate, any white person who thinks the US is their country is mistaken. Get ready for a great explanation as to why:

“ This is not a white country. This is not their country; it is ours and that is precisely what I am saying,” said Ramos.

Okay, maybe that wasn’t a great explanation. As far as I can tell, Ramos feels like white people who were born in the US are no more legitimately American than Mexican illegal aliens. Actually, he seems to indicate that Mexicans have more of a claim on this country than white Americans.

Ramos tries to qualify this nonsense by saying that eventually whites will be a minority in the US so therefore he surmises that America really belongs to Latinos. This is preposterous and it doesn’t really address the fact that he believes that foreign nationals have just as much, if not more, of a right to be here than natural born American citizens.

Ramos goes on to say that America has a responsibility to treat illegal aliens better. It’s unclear what he means by that statement, but going by his previous positions, it’s safe to assume that he thinks we should let them stay and give them all of the benefits that come along with citizenship. Considering that he just stated that the country belongs to illegal aliens it’s not a bad assumption to say that he wants to just open up the border and do away with any sort of immigration enforcement.

Despite a degree from the University of Miami and decades of living in the US, Ramos’s command of the English language is terrible. Maybe he was trying to say something else and it just came out wrong. It seems unlikely because he’s a vocal Trump-hater and illegal alien supporter, but I thought I’d give him the benefit of the doubt. If he actually meant what he said, it’s one of the worst things a person could say about the United States. This country belongs to Americans; not foreigners, not Mexicans, and certainly not illegal aliens.

‘ Univision Is a F-ing Mess’: Gizmodo Journalists Take Down Parent Company in Epic Article

Story blames troubled company’s woes on ‘ layers of overpaid and useless middle management; and a general failure to position itself for a digital future’

Jon Levine |

Employees of Gizmodo Media Group on Tuesday launched a devastating piece against their parent company, Univision, accusing the troubled media behemoth of indulging in ‘ a culture of complacency and excess.’

In the lengthy article, titled ‘ Univision Is a F-ing Mess,’ Gizmodo Media writers Kate Conger, David Uberti, and Laura Wagner take a deep-dive look what they said were poor management decisions and bad deals that have led the company into a morass.

Univision fell victim to ‘ a disastrous private equity buyout finalized in 2007; an aging audience; a burdensome program-licensing deal with Televisa; competition from Telemundo and Netflix; layers of overpaid and useless middle management; and a general failure to position itself for a digital future,’ the article says.

A rep for Univision did not immediately respond to request for comment.

In their piece, produced for Gizmodo Media’s special projects desk, the trio of reporters described Univision as a ‘ stepdad’ that once left them well-enough alone but has emerged as a nettlesome presence in recent months as cuts have loomed.

“ From routine human resources f-ups to vastly overselling the prospects of an IPO whose ultimate doom this March precipitated the company’s current cost-cutting spree, Univision has been deeply mismanaged and is in the midst of making huge cuts that have, among other things, already claimed vast swaths of Univision Noticias—the most vital newsgathering operation serving the Spanish-speaking community in the U.S.—and Fusion Media Group.”

Indeed, things have been tense in the last few months after the company axed 150 employees and scuttled a planned IPO.

“ We are taking steps necessary for our business to continue to thrive, but we will never compromise our duty and purpose to inform, entertain and empower our community, which is more important today than ever before,” a spokesperson told TheWrap at the time.

That was not an assessment shared broadly shared by Gizmodo Media employees contacted by TheWrap in recent weeks.

“ Things are definitely weird right now,” said a second editor. “ There’s an air of anxiety.”

For their piece, Conger, Uberti and Wagner said they spoke with “ more than two dozen” current and former Univision employees.

This is the story of how corporate raiding, complacency, excess, and incompetence are gutting a media company that matters to tens of millions of people. Itâ€™s not a novel story, and perhaps not even scandalous by the standards of corporate opulence: A shark-obsessed boss, millions wasted on consultants, and an executive who insisted on publishing softcore porn are more embarrassing buffoonery than insidious greed. The main problemâ€™ the billions in debt the company ran up in the process of its owners buying it and weighing it downâ€™ is practically routine in media and beyond; that doesnâ€™t make it any less infuriating.

This company is Univision, which until recently obligingly filled the role of absentee stepfather to Gizmodo Media Group, our employer. Now, Univisionâ€™s business is struggling, and GMG has suddenly found itself under a very watchful eye.

Once upon a time, Univision, an American broadcasting operation aimed primarily at Spanish speakers in the United States, was a tremendous golden goose laying tremendous golden eggs: It made incredible amounts of money and had to do essentially nothing for it other than run programming produced by Televisa, a Mexican broadcasting operation. The fairy tale ended long ago. Univision has been in decline for years, thanks to a disastrous private equity buyout finalized in 2007; an aging audience; a burdensome program-licensing deal with Televisa; competition from Telemundo and Netflix; layers of overpaid and useless middle management; and a general failure to position itself for a digital future.

No one at Univision, from working journalists to officers of the company to investors looking for a return, wanted anything other than for the company to thrive and become a behemoth for the ages, a legacy operation that would show the way forward for media in a changing America. That didnâ€™t matter. We recently spoke to more than two dozen current and former Univision employees from every level of the company, private equity experts, and management consultants, and reviewed a wide range of documents, and the picture that emerged is clear: Despite the debt hanging over Univisionâ€™s head, the company indulged a culture of complacency and excess, embodied in many ways by the operations of Fusion Media Group, an ill-fated attempt to stay relevant in the digital age. And now that the ship is off course, the rival interests in the company are at each otherâ€™s throats, in some cases diving off the ship and in some cases teaming up to force enemies off the gangplank. The first few months of this year have seen severe and ongoing cuts, the replacement of the chief financial officer, and the announcement that chief executive officer Randy Falcoâ€™ who in a recent company-wide email announcing layoffs was reduced to describing them as â€™ disruption ... required to transform this business into a company that will not only exist but continue to thriveâ€™ â€™ will retire by December.

From routine human resources fuckups to vastly overselling the prospects of an IPO whose ultimate doom this March precipitated the company's current cost-cutting spree, Univision has been deeply mismanaged and is in the midst of making huge cuts that have, among other things, already claimed vast swaths of Univision Noticias—the most vital newsgathering operation serving the Spanish-speaking community in the U.S.—and Fusion Media Group. Consultants from Boston Consulting Group, who have reportedly recommended budget cuts of up to 35 percent in some parts of the company, have been combing through the books for months, and more than 150 people have been laid off so far. Plenty more cuts are pending (Univision president of news Daniel Coronell reportedly described them as “catastrophic” to his newsroom), including at GMG, the staff of which fears the newsroom may be cut by up to a third by the end of June, perhaps as part of a broader pivot toward video and branded content. What is happening to the company is not ultimately a failure of editorial or even executive management, though: If Univision was a mammoth whose failure to adapt slowed it down, it was private equity investors, consumed by the thought of turning their riches into more riches, who brought it down and bled it dry.

“A symbol of the excesses of the credit bubble”

While there had been plenty of signs that something was amiss, the first hint that something was seriously wrong came buried at the end of a March all-staff email opaquely titled “Finance Update and Appointment | Información y nombramiento en Finanzas.” The email informed staffers that chief financial officer Frank Lopez-Balboa was departing the company. News that Univision was scrapping its long-held plans for an IPO was slipped in at the very end.

“Given that we are no longer on a path to pursue a public offering, this is an opportunity for Frank to begin the next chapter of his career,” Randy Falco wrote in the message.

The pursuit of a public offering failed due to a combination of antsy investors, new competition, and a private equity deal that the Financial Times would later describe as “a symbol of the excesses of the credit bubble.” That last bit is the most important.

In 2007, a consortium including Texas Pacific Group, Thomas H. Lee, Madison Dearborn, Providence Equity, and Saban Capital took Univision private for $13.7 billion. These firms' executives of which still shape Univision's board borrowed heavily to finance the deal, saddling their new prize with more than $10 billion of debt. According to an FCC filing, each firm holds between 20.6 and 7.1 percent of Univision's equity, and between 27.3 and zero percent of the voting interests. Thomas H. Lee, the only firm with no voting rights, has no official members on Univision's board, but two of THL's employees, James Carlisle and Laura Grattan, are listed as Univision board observers in their company bios; Univision would not say if the firm had appointed members to the board or who they were. Univision, for its part, declined to answer questions about the board, while all the involved firms either declined to comment or did not respond to questions about their involvement with Univision.

Leveraged buyouts such as the ones by which these companies acquired control of Univision were common in the years leading up to the financial crisis: Investors borrow a huge amount of money to purchase a company and then make that company responsible for paying back the debt. The amount of borrowing required is often large relative to a company's earnings. This relationship—known as leverage—is used to gauge whether a company is likely to be able to pay back its lenders. The financial world commonly measures this through the ratio of “debt to EBITDA,” or earnings before interest, taxes, and depreciation and amortization of various assets. (The finance industry's inscrutable jargon is a feature, not a bug. Just think of this ratio as a company's debt compared to how much money it makes each year.)

Univision's ratio, estimated at 12.5-to-1, made it highly leveraged even by the standards of the pre-crisis boom period. (In 2013, Obama administration regulators would urge banks to limit companies' leverage to roughly half this level to reduce the risk of default.) Still, in 2007—when the company maintained a tight grip on the then-swelling U.S. market for Spanish-language media, and before media enterprises came to be viewed as dead investmentsâ Univision found itself in a position of relative strength.

â There is a term that investors like to use: â growing into your capital structure,â â said Jack Kranefuss, a senior director at Fitch Ratings who analyzes the media business. â You start off with too much debt, but you have a company that has good growth prospects. Univision, for the longest time, was thought of as a company that could grow into its capital structure.â

Univision CEO Randy Falco speaks in Beverly Hills in February 2018. Photo: Getty Images

Private equity firms typically cash out their investments after a few years, and Univisionâ s backers have been looking for an exit since at least 2014, when they held preliminary negotiations with CBS and Time Warner to sell the company for a reported asking price of more than $20 billion. Those talks soon collapsed. The following year, Univision positioned itself for an initial public offering just before media company stocks began tumbling amid fears that cord-cutting would threaten the traditional TV business. Top Univision brass continued postponing IPO plans in the hope that market conditions would improve, attempting to reorient the company toward an increasingly bilingual Latinx media market while simultaneously trying to exit their positions. They couldnâ t pull it off. They were reportedly close to a $13 billion merger with Discovery Communications, which would have represented a clean exit for Univision investors, but rejected it. The delayed IPO piqued the interest of Liberty Mediaâ s John Malone, but Univision reportedly could not agree with him on the companyâ s valuation. Eventually the board abandoned their IPO plans altogether earlier this year.

This brings us to that March email to all Univision employees, whom Falco thanked for their â commitment to our company, our networks and our community.â â Anyone who saw that email knew shit was about to hit the fan,â a current Fusion staffer told GMG. Sure enough, two weeks later the Wall Street Journal reported that Univisionâ s Fusion Media Groupâ a unit including the Fusion cable channel, its associated digital assets, Gizmodo Media Group, and the Onion propertiesâ faced budget cuts as high as 35 percent, and that a number of the companyâ s top executives, including Felipe HolguÃn, chief executive of Fusion Media Group, and Daniel Eilemberg, chief content officer of Fusion TV, had departed, having been forced out in what was essentially a palace coup. (HolguÃn declined to comment; Eilemberg could not be reached.) The significance wasnâ t so much in the news itself (Fusion, despite its lofty goals, was never the most important part of the Univision empire) as in the abruptness with which an experiment whose rise and fall indexed its parent companyâ s broader aspirations was abandoned.

â There were teams that had to work on shark stuff.â

Launched in 2013, Fusion was the brainchild of Isaac Lee, currently chief content officer of both Univision and Televisa; Lee was hired in 2010 by Haim Saban, the soon-to-be-former Power Rangers mogul and a Democratic donor, and came to oversee an ever-expanding portfolio. Fusion, targeted at Latinx millennials, was Univisionâ s first English-language TV channel. Initially a joint venture with ABC, Fusion aimed to solve Univisionâ s fundamental problem, which was and is that its main business is airing Spanish-language TV shows for an aging audience that has increasing access to other, better programming through streaming platforms.

With a cash infusion from Disney, additional financing from Univision, and tens of millions in cable carriage fees scheduled to come in, Fusion was set, even if it reportedly lost $35 million in 2014, its first year in business. Part of its ambitious if incoherent plan to appeal to everyone Univision did notâ multicultural millennials and cord-cutters prime among themâ involved an expansion into digital publishing.

“ Essentially, that was the strategy: We’ll take this guaranteed money that’s coming in the door, hire a bunch of really good people, and use them to build something that can compete with the Voxes and the BuzzFeeds of the world,” a former Fusion digital employee said.

In a few short years, the well-funded project would become one of the most spectacular digital media failures in recent memory.

Fusion hired big names from digital, print, and television— infamously, it reportedly paid financial journalist Felix Salmon, who came on proclaiming that he would be a post-text, more than $400,000 a year to do, as far as anyone could tell, nothing in particular— as well as a thick layer of “ friends of Isaac Lee” known internally as FOILs. Felipe Holgu n and Daniel Eilemberg were prime examples, but Lee has a long history of keeping it in the family. Back in 2008, according to a FOIL, when Lee was running a local magazine called Poderin Miami, he helped out a friend from the business community (he dubbed her his “ fairy godmother”) by hiring her son as an intern after he graduated college. That same intern was then hired at the Univision network a month after Lee was, and eventually came to Fusion TV, too.

At the working level, a lack of clear editorial vision left employees adrift. Relentless pivots meant that people hired to do one job were often given different assignments within a matter of months, ending up working on projects that didn’t align with their experience; meanwhile, executives seemed far more focused on creating the narrative of a fast-growing media company than on what that media company was actually producing.

“ We didn’t know how our projects were helping the company or how they were being monetized,” one Fusion TV employee said.

For years, money flowed into a series of pet projects— this U.S.-Mexico border concert is a typical example— favored by executives and FOILs, while editorial staffers were left confused about the value of the stories they were pushed to pursue and wondering about the long-term viability of a company spending huge amounts of money without doing much the public seemed especially interested in. (As far as anyone could tell, practically no one watched the Fusion channel.)

One often-mocked example was Project Earth, Fusion TV’s environmental unit. Headed by Nico Ibarra en, an environmentalist and FOIL in top standing, it produced so much content about sharks that it became not just an internal joke but a subject of outside coverage. “ There were teams that had to work on shark stuff,” a former Fusion staffer said. “ It was, “ [Nico] is a genius and therefore we must make shark content because he wants it.” “

Fusion’s problems weren’t a matter of mismanagement alone: Isaac Lee may have run it as his own personal fiefdom, directing resources to his pet projects and those of his cronies, but that wasn’t the fundamental problem. Even perfect execution might not have made the concept work. Its digital offerings launched at the height of Facebook’s dominance over the media industry, into a crowded marketplace where even sites with clear voices would have had difficulty standing out. Some of Fusion’s biggest-budget Facebook pushes struggled to gain the following necessary to organically propel the new publication to the top of the News Feed— something that led to a new focus on viral-friendly video and, according to a source with direct knowledge, seven-figure sums spent on simply buying traffic.

“ The first thing I remember feeling is, “ I just have to go out and do really good journalism that’s going to impress people and make a name for this place,” “ a former Fusion digital staffer said. “ Later there was traffic pressure and then I think the mission sort of changed at some point into: We’re going to be the super-woke millennial-focused media outlet.” Writers brought on with a mandate to chase important stories faced pressure from an audience development team that repackaged stories for virality, sometimes in cringeworthy, decidedly un-woke ways:

Although Fusion was co-launched with Disney, that company sold its stake to Univision in April 2016— something framed internally as a positive move that would allow reporters to pursue more controversial work, even if it more realistically involved the world's most successful media company cutting its losses. Univision soon acquired Gawker Media Group and wrapped the former Gawker sites into its portfolio, and just days after the presidential election, which had already set the company's workforce on edge, Fusion was hit with heavy cuts. In 2017, Fusion TV executives laid claim to Fusion.net, which had been the home of Fusion's digital content since the site's inception and had earlier that year become the flagship news site for the newly rebranded Gizmodo Media Group. This site grab came because, staffers were told, TV executives were angry that the site was more closely associated with what was running online than with their TV productions. The Fusion digital team was directed to brainstorm a new name for their publication, and, in July 2017, the site was renamed Splinter.

“Isaac is one of those people on Craigslist who starts with a paperclip and somehow barter his way to a whole house.”

After the recent cuts, not only is Isaac Lee's play at digital empire-building seemingly derailed— his lieutenants have been dismissed, and his biggest public move this year has been having dinner with Jared Kushner— but Fusion Media Group, as an entity distinct from GMG and the Onion sites, seems barely to exist.

“Isaac is the best deal maker I've ever seen in media. He's one of those people on Craigslist who starts with a paperclip and somehow barter his way to a whole house,” said Alexis Madrigal, who joined Fusion in 2014 and worked as the company's editor-in-chief before departing in 2017. “He started with almost nothing on the Univision digital side and created this massive set of digital media companies using whatever resources he could. But I think it made it very difficult to create an operational digital media company because it was such an assemblage of deals, not an organically grown entity.”

The lukewarm response to Univision's attempts to sell or go public over the years can largely be attributed to the long-term debt its owners burdened it with in the first place. Univision has shrunk that pot from more than $10 billion in 2007 to just under $8 billion today, according to its most recent year-end report. But that debt is still far more than the amount of money Univision makes each year— roughly six times the size of the company's EBITDA. That's about one-third higher than the levels seen at Sinclair Broadcast Group and Netflix in 2017, according to Fitch, and more than double that of AMC Networks. The ratings agency Moody's said in a 2017 report that Univision's debt has junk-bond status.

What's more, interest payments on debt still eat up a sizable chunk of Univision's earnings. Without such payments, the company would have been safely profitable since 2012. Univision financial reports show interest expenses totaled $442 million in 2017 alone; over the past three years, they've amounted to $1.46 billion. These payments came in addition to tens of millions in fees paid to Univision's private equity investors over the years, as required by its management and technical assistance agreements— that the company finally terminated in 2015 with a lump-sum payment of more than \$112 million.

Strategic missteps have compounded these financial pressures. In 2010, as the financial crisis was cratering the ad market, Univision sold a stake of the company to Televisa, its programming supplier, which had unsuccessfully bid to purchase Univision four years earlier. The \$1.2 billion deal not only provided Univision a lifeline to help make its debt payments, but extended an agreement for Univision to continue broadcasting Televisa's programming—most importantly, its then-popular telenovelas. In return, Univision would fork over a healthy cut of its Spanish-language media revenue.

“The impact of Univision now having more exploitable content than ever before, both through our in-house efforts and from our expanded programming agreement with our most important partner, Televisa, cannot be underestimated,” Univision president and chief executive Joe Uva said at the time.

In retrospect, it was a drastic miscalculation. While Univision has paid Televisa about $300 million in licensing fees in each of the past three years, the telenovelas that are the core of its content have flopped among younger viewers, with Univision's primetime ratings dropping precipitously as a result. Telemundo, its main competitor, has eaten up market share with more Americanized shows, such as series about Mexican drug lords. (Televisa has reportedly been tepid about this change in demand, in part due to its close ties to the Mexican government.) Meanwhile, Netflix and other streaming services have continued to eat away at the cable subscriptions that translate into carriage fees paid to broadcasters. For its part, Univision says it still sees the relationship as fruitful. A spokeswoman said, “Televisa is an important partner and we're pleased with their continued efforts to evolve their content pipeline to meet the needs of Hispanic audiences in the U.S. The refreshed content pipeline has resonated with our audiences and has allowed us to regain our significant lead as the top U.S. Spanish-language network.”

All of this points to 2018 being a rough year for Univision, which brings in about $3 billion in annual revenue. Its content-licensing agreement with Televisa got even more expensive in December 2017, potentially adding more than $100 million in costs per year; the ad market is already facing industry-wide headwinds; and Telemundo is not only increasingly attractive to advertisers, but it also outbid Univision for the rights to broadcast this year's World Cup. (Univision financial statements suggest programming around the tournament brought it $120 million in revenue in 2014.)

This is what led Univision brass to see the need to frantically cut a reported \$200 million or \$300 million, per another report in costs. (Univision has declined to comment on the size of the cuts.)

“As the media industry continues to evolve, change is no longer optional for our company, it is imperative,” Randy Falco said in his end-of-year earnings call in 2017. “2018 is about continuing to transform our company for the future. As we reshape our business, we will identify efficiencies and savings opportunities in the areas that require change and we will reinvest for growth.”

It's what connects you to the community.

If knifing Fusion Media Group represented the board cutting off a hand, the layoffs that came next were a thrust aimed at the heart: Univision's news operation, the reporters and programming most directly connected to the American Spanish-speaking audience.

“At the end of the day,” as one Univision insider said of the company, “it's a network that airs Mexican TV shows. It's a tube from Mexico to the U.S.”

Much of what makes Univision more than a television tunnel is its acclaimed Noticias division. (In 2017, a glowing story by New York Times media critic Jim Rutenberg described Noticias as “one of the most striking examples I've seen all year of a news organization that is meeting the moment.”) Noticias addresses an audience of more than 50 million Spanish speakers in the United States, a population vastly underserved by the mainstream media. While Jorge Ramos deservedly serves as the face of the division, and of Univision, there is more to what Noticias does than what appears on TVs across the country: According to a ComScore analysis, Univision's news traffic beat out that of several other leading Spanish-language digital news sources—Telemundo.com, Yahoo.ES, and CNN España—fairly handily. Univision's news site drew between 2 and 3 million unique visitors per month between March 2017 and March 2018, according to ComScore data, a vast reach in relative if not absolute terms.

Noticias' work is critical, and hardly going unnoticed. This year, the Univision Noticias digital news team won a Premio Ortega y Gasset de Periodismo for its "Mejor Vete, Cristina" podcast, and first place at the NPPA Best of Photojournalism awards for its multimedia report "A Night Bearing Witness to the Violence of El Salvador." Just last month, Noticias won a Hillman Prize, given to "journalists who pursue investigative reporting and deep storytelling in service of the common good," for its work on a multimedia project called "From Migrants to Refugees: The New Plight of Central Americans." In an internal email sent April 2017, Randy Falco boasted about the prize: "The project epitomizes Univision at its best," he wrote.

What he didn't mention was that in that same month nearly 35 percent of a staff of 85 people was cut from Noticias' digital branch. (Univision declined to comment on the size of the cuts.)

In an internal email sent April 2017, Randy Falco boasted about the prize. What he didn't mention was that in that same month nearly 35 percent of a staff of 85 people was cut from Noticias' digital branch.

Noticias digital—which since 2010 was part of Isaac Lee's portfolio—began staffing up in earnest after Borja Echevarría was hired in 2014 to lead the digital news operation. Rutenberg's Times story quoted Univision president of news Daniel Coronell summing up the role of Univision Noticias for the U.S. Latinx population: "We are the voice of the voiceless people—probably the most weak members of this important country." Coronell was more recently quoted as telling his newsroom that the cuts that took place there and the ones slated to come are "catastrophic."

With these deep cuts, Univision's voice—the work of journalists who in many cases were forced to flee countries like Venezuela, Mexico, and Guatemala, where they were persecuted for their reporting—has been muted. In the Miami office, where the newsroom is based, morale is dragging. Staffers, some hired less than two years ago, are confused about why these cuts are happening right now; some in the U.S. on work visas are scrambling to find ways to stay in the country legally. Two newsroom sources say that reporters and supervisors cooperated and in some cases even sacrificed their jobs to ensure that reporters facing unstable or unsafe conditions in their home countries, like Venezuela, could keep their jobs and stay in the U.S.

The value of Univision Noticias digital—a news site investigating and reporting in practical ways on topics that are literally life or death for millions of people in this country—can't be measured in money alone. As the Times wrote, "One of [Univision's] most shared digital features this year has been an explainer on the papers that documented and undocumented immigrants should always have on them, in case of immigration raids or stops." As one person at Univision said, "Noticias is the core. It's the lifestream, it's Jorge Ramos, it's what connects you to the community."

With nearly 35 percent of the digital news staff gone and layoffs pending on the TV side, it's obvious that highers-up don't value that core as much as they once did.

"There are definitely some headwinds."

All of the cuts seem to point back to debt. Indebted companies typically have agreements with lenders that establish leverage maximums. (In Univision's case, its debt cannot be more than 8.5 times the size of its EBITDA.) If a company passes an agreed-upon threshold or misses an interest payment, "creditors can potentially accelerate the payments on that debt," said Patrice Cucinello, director of the media and entertainment group at Fitch. A company could then risk default if it doesn't have the cash on hand to make its lenders whole.

This isn't a danger for Univision right now, because it has managed to increase its revenue: "At least from our financial model," Cucinello said, "I'm not seeing a near-term risk of default." The possibility that Univision could default on its debt, though, explains a great deal about the company's priorities. Univision has reduced its leverage over the years through billions in quarterly payments, and Cucinello pegs its current ratio of debt to EBITDA at around 6.3-to-1 by Fitch's model. It's an improvement, she said, but still as much as double the level seen at some comparable media companies. One bad year could gravely change the company's outlook.

For Thomas H. Lee Partners, one of the five private equity firms in the consortium that bought Univision in 2007, this story of leverage is familiar. Thomas H. Lee's portfolio also includes iHeartMedia (formerly Clear Channel), the country's largest radio broadcaster, which has swum in as much as $20 billion in debt since a leveraged buyout in 2008. iHeartMedia had weaker-than-expected results in recent quarters and missed an interest payment earlier this year, declaring bankruptcy in March. While iHeartMedia was forced to lay off dozens of employees across the country in several rounds of layoffs, Thomas H. Lee was reportedly expected to break even on the deal, having bought some of iHeartMedia's debt at a discounted rate—surely a point of pride for the firm.

Univision's debt load is nowhere near that of iHeartMedia's before its bankruptcy—about 12 times EBITDA, per Fitch—but Univision's remains stubbornly high compared to the company's often volatile earnings. IPOs are typically seen as avenues to deleverage indebted companies, an option now off the table for Univision. Coupled with the loss of market share to Telemundo and the lack of World Cup programming this year, Cucinello added, "there are definitely some headwinds as the company heads further into 2018."

This is the context within which the board's decisions should be understood. With the prospect of increasing revenues seemingly off the table as a mechanism for deleveraging, slashing costs was the remaining alternative. For investors to extricate themselves from the company, the board would need to drastically prune Univision to spruce it up for potential buyers. The conditions of Univision's acquisition created a logic by which the company had to attack itself in order to escape its debt.

In the aftermath of the failed IPO, conflict grew on the board over how this attack would be carried out; that conflict's precise nature remains frustratingly opaque. Reports have put the estimated total cuts the board looks to make at \$200 million \(or more\); the company has disputed this estimate but has not asked the publications reporting it for corrections or clarified what the target is. Univision declined to answer questions about the budget cuts. In one version of the story, management decided to bring in BCG to help trim the budgets of underperforming units. In another version of the story, Isaac Lee and Haim Saban advocated cutting as much of this amount as possible from the corporate side of the company, which one FOIL characterized as armies of managers making seven-figure salaries in do-nothing jobs, rather than from Lee's own fiefdom. (Lee declined to comment; Saban could not be reached.) Lee's and Saban's enemies, meanwhile—among them, supposedly, Thomas H. Lee Partners, rattled by the iHeartMedia bankruptcy—took the cost-cutting exercise as an opportunity to, among other things, destroy Lee's power base, which, if it contained plenty of waste and bloat, also contained the newsgathering and digital operations that were the most vital and forward-looking parts of the company.

In this reading, Univision journalism was essentially collateral damage in a conflict between a set of bloodsucking capitalists and a would-be empire builder protecting small armies of loyalists. However you read it, Lee lost out: Fusion Media Group and Noticias were gutted, FOILs like Eilemberg and Holguín were turfed out, and rumors spread in the company that Lee's power had diminished to the point where he didn't have so much as an assistant to book his flights. If not actually true (Univision would not answer specific questions about the board's operations, though it says Lee does have an assistant) Lee remains chief of content for both Televisa and Univision, after all the fact that such rumors rippled, and were believed, still said something about the force and speed of Lee's fall, and the unraveling of Fusion Media Group, which functionally exists in name only.

It's power with no responsibility.

To make their cuts, Univision's board hired Boston Consulting Group in December. It's common enough for media companies to hire consultants to evaluate their businesses and workflows, typically in preparation for budget cuts. In 2017, a reported two dozen analysts from McKinsey & Company helped Time Inc. slash hundreds of millions in costs as it transitioned to new ownership. Condé Nast, meanwhile, brought in FTI Consulting in 2015 and McKinsey in 2009.

There's like 10 reasons to hire a consultant, and only one of them is that they'll tell you something you wouldn't know," said Duff McDonald, author of the 2013 history of McKinsey, The Firm. The other nine? "To help you get a decision by your board. To help you get a decision by your employees. If you're going to make a public announcement, it helps to have the cover." It's typically an exercise with a preordained conclusion. (Sources familiar with Univision's situation said they heard that cuts of 30 to 40 percent were on the table before BCG was brought on, and that the consultants acted according to instructions management gave them. Univision declined to answer specific questions about the time frame for the budget cut decisions.)

"They take no credit publicly. But they also accept no blame."

McKinsey works under strict nondisclosure agreements with its clients, McDonald added, and consultants at other firms reached by GMG said that they do the same. "They sell the credit for their ideas," McDonald said. "They take no credit publicly. But they also accept no blame. It's power with no responsibility."

While it's unclear how much Univision is paying BCG for its services, the cost for such a long-term consulting engagement runs well into the millions. McKinsey charges clients flat fees, McDonald said, adding, "They don't really play small ball."

With Lee defenestrated, the board has trained its eye on the parts of the company he oversaw, and on lower-level employees there. While the company spends millions on consultants, Fusion TV is essentially extinct and Univision digital has been slashed despite overriding wisdom that says digital media is the future for the flailing giant. Univision news still faces cuts, as does GMG. Perhaps you're curious what's going to happen to us in light of all this; we are as well. Sameer Deen, head of digital for Univision, who has been acting in place of Felipe Holguín as Fusion Media Group's CEO and is thus in charge of GMG, has said in meetings with reporters, editors, and union officials that "changes" could come to GMG in late June, after the consultants have time to complete a review. He has repeatedly declined to specify what they may look like.

Thriving

There is nothing like Gizmodo Media Group on the internet. While that's mainly a function of what we do—publish true and interesting things that others can't or won't—it's also a function of what we don't do. GMG doesn't find itself forced to deny that it is acting to defraud advertisers. GMG's bread and butter has never been quirky listicles, nonsensical quizzes, and cynical plays at gaming social algorithms. GMG never embraced a distribution strategy that left it at the mercy of merciless platforms like Facebook. GMG isn't reliant on sponsored content disguised as news. GMG doesn't use unpaid and underpaid labor to prop up our entire business model.

What GMG does do is draw a large and growing audience for its journalism— according to ComScore, it drew 58 million unique U.S. visitors this March— and make money off it. (Revenues are believed within GMG to have been up by a double-digit percentage last year; Univision declined to comment.) It is lean— GMG's staff of about 200 pales in comparison to other digital media staffs— and, according to a statement Univision issued in response to questions from GMG, is thriving. BuzzFeed's news division alone is about 300 people, and that doesn't include BuzzFeed entertainment and BuzzFeed media brands, which include the likes of Tasty and Nifty. BuzzFeed's total staff is roughly 1,700 people.

Not only is GMG lean, but it is in an increasingly strong position relative to competitors, in part because of its relative lack of reliance on Facebook. According to ComScore, BuzzFeed's U.S. unique visitors were at 67 million this March, down nearly 20 percent from March 2017; GMG traffic is up by a third over the same period. Why, then, is the company facing deep cuts? An answer has never quite been given, but according to Univision, while GMG— whose predecessor, Gawker Media, was characterized upon its acquisition in August 2016 as a "consistent, compelling and profitable digital media business"— in a company-wide email signed by Isaac Lee— may be thriving, it did not turn a profit last year.

Why is Gizmodo Media Group facing deep cuts? An answer has never quite been given.

Citing various reasons, Univision has declined to share any internal numbers. It's therefore unclear how large the losses were or what might have caused them. How much those losses have to do with the intricacies of corporate accounting, or with GMG having been made to integrate with Fusion digital's struggling and top-heavy video operation, whose leadership has since been cleared out, is unknown. The question of profitability is, in some ways, a red herring. The corporate priority for GMG in 2017 was rapid expansion— though what that scale would look like was never quite defined to the newsroom— clearly tied to hopes of a capital raise.

(A Univision spokeswoman declined to comment on whether GMG met the goals Univision set for it in 2017 and whether its revenues were up. Univision chief revenue officer Tonia O'Connor was not made available for an interview.)

Univision bought Gawker Media in 2016 with the intent of expanding its reach into English-language digital media ahead of its planned IPO, but didn't appear to understand the company it bought. It still seems not to. To GMG staffers, the clearest sign of this is probably just that Deen is now in charge of the operation. His conversations with staffers have, they say, showed no apparent familiarity with what GMG does or how it works, or with the distinction between business and editorial. He also has little in the way of a relevant background. Before joining Univision in 2015, he worked in corporate development and multiplatform distribution and strategy for Scripps; since, he has overseen Univision properties which between them do about a tenth the collective traffic of GMG sites, according to a ComScore analysis. Not only does nothing about this suggest readiness to take over a major digital property, but one anecdote relayed by various sources reveals startlingly poor judgment.

Univision Deportes' website has an entire section devoted to what is essentially softcore porn, offering laughably thin connections to sports as pretexts for running it. This very horny section, called "Sensación," features a wide array of photo galleries, the subjects of which range from male athletes' girlfriends dressed in skimpy clothing to male athletes' wives dressed in skimpy clothing to certain sports teams' fans who just happen to be women dressed in skimpy clothing. This post, which is typical, consists of 26 photos of a Liverpool fan, each with the same vapid caption about how star player Mo Salah owes her a championship.

After digital editors decided to stop running these posts for four months in 2017 because they weren't consistent with the organization's journalistic standards, Deen decided, we are told, that the bikini-clad women had to return because traffic had dropped too much without them. It should be noted that these posts aren't even especially popular—according to Chartbeat data, posts tagged Sensaci3n Deporte accounted for 176,861 page views in April, whereas the overall total for posts tagged Deportes was 7,470,423. (Univision declined to comment on Sensaci3n; Deen did not respond to a request for comment.)

No one at GMG labors under the delusion that Deen is the real power here; any potential changes seem likely to play out as they did at Univision digital, where editors decided who to let go after being told how much of their budget they needed to cut, with the nature of those cuts decided ultimately by some opaque combination of the board and the consultants the board has hired. Still, Deen's leading role in the decision-making process about cuts and the future of the enterprise—a process in which Oá Connor and GMG editors will also take part—does not inspire confidence in the staff. And the fact that Univision is considering cuts at all infuriates GMG staff because the company is healthy and successful.

While Univision has invested in GMG, the company's success is in many ways despite Univision, not because of it. GMG employees have described nightmare scenarios in which they had to fight to get their newborn babies on their healthcare plans or haggle for months to enroll in other basic benefits. One employee became suddenly ill shortly after being hired, and the company failed to provide interim healthcare coverage while the employee waited to receive their health insurance card. Last month, a day before the national tax deadline, employees received an email from human resources director Brian Ford, who had recently been hired to fix chronic HR problems, warning them that there had been an error in the reporting of your Roth contributions on your 2017 W2 Form—and that employees would have to refile their taxes. Shortly after that, the company failed to pay employees promised performance bonuses on time, apparently because of a clerical error. And for many staffers, an under-resourced newsroom is not a looming prospect but a present reality: Due to recent austerity measures, one GMG site had to put two job offers it had already made on hold, and another functioned without an official editor-in-chief for nearly half a year before pressure from the union helped force a promotion.

â Growth is only one component.â

The fate of GMG now rests in the hands of Univision, an indulgently run and suicidally structured company. In turn, Univision's fate rests in the hands of impatient private equity vampires who are not concerned with the long-term damage to revenue streams that could result from slashed budgets, or with damage to the company's connection with tens of millions of Spanish speakers—or with journalism, or with anything, as far as anyone can tell—but with their desire to get out of a bad deal with as little damage as possible. This is their right; the people who work for Univision and its subsidiaries are simply unlucky enough to be employed under an economic system that considers the livelihoods of thousands to be less valuable than the panic and avarice of a few fathomlessly wealthy people.

There is no clear way forward for media organizations today, even ones with large audiences and sustainable business models. Google and Facebook have solidified their stranglehold on digital advertising, and even the deep-pocketed likes of Vice and BuzzFeed have missed revenue targets amid this shift. The subscription-based model used by the New York Times is not feasible for most publications, where newsrooms are whittled down to component parts, and audiences expect free content. Startups like the ad-free, subscription-only website The Athletic are using investors' money, which will eventually run out, to hire at seemingly unsustainable rates. Conglomerates like Sinclair Broadcast Group and Gannett have snapped up local outlets to cut costs through synergies, threatening those outlets' individual voices with a corporate political project and standardized content, respectively. Time Inc. was recently sold to the Meredith Corporation, which plans to chop up its vaunted brands and try to sell them off one by one. Companies like Vox Media have stayed afloat thanks in no small part to unpaid and underpaid labor. The entire industry is slimy and shadowy and fucked.

Having a multibillionaire patron like Jeff Bezos, who owns the Washington Post, is a viable way to survive, but even that model relies on the whims of the patron. In Los Angeles, Patrick Soon-Shiong, the multibillionaire medical entrepreneur finalizing his purchase of the Los Angeles Times, says all the right things about protecting journalism as a civic institution. But having a wealthy owner subjects a publication to a complex web of potential conflicts of interest—take casino magnate and GOP donor Sheldon Adelson’s purchase of the Las Vegas Review-Journal in late 2015. Looming above such billionaire ownership is the question of where a patron’s philanthropic bent ends and their personal quest for money or power begins. After hedge-fund vulture Alden Global Capital bought the Denver Post and slashed its budget until a fraction of the newsroom was left, the paper revolted publicly, publishing editorials calling for the company to sell the newspaper to an owner who cares about journalism.

The entire media industry is slimy and shadowy and fucked.

This isn’t heartening for GMG and other editorial divisions of Univision, like the depleted Noticias. The private equity firms are desperately trying to exit the investment with a profit. Even if they do cut into bone to make the company look appealing to would-be buyers, what’s left might be too spare to keep revenues up, putting the company at risk of a major debt restructuring.

In the meantime, the board sends executives into the GMG newsroom to tell skeptical employees to their faces that they care about the journalism here and that even though GMG has grown, as asked, year over year, its growth is only one component—in making tough choices. While Sameer Deen didn’t create this situation, his communication missteps and inability to provide hard information to people who don’t know if they should start looking for new jobs have incensed GMG staffers. Deen, and now O’Connor, have been meeting individually and collectively with the heads of all GMG sites, but these marathon meetings haven’t done much to dispel the notion that they’re simply going through the motions while consultants make their recommendations and Univision prepares to hand out pink slips in June.

For its part, Univision said in a statement, which can be read in full here:

At UCI, we have a firm commitment to support and nurture fierce, independent journalism. Our award-winning news teams have a legacy of providing direct and unfiltered access to news and information and we are committed to maintaining that spirit of vibrant journalism across our portfolio, including the Gizmodo Media Group.

We continue to believe GMG is a valuable asset and important brand that will keep thriving. GMG attracts loyal and highly engaged audiences, both of which are unique and incredibly important in this landscape.

Univision isn’t the only company to falter under predatory private equity debt-loading, and its employees are hardly the first in media to face months of existential dread as higher-ups with no experience in or concern with journalism decide their fate. Even if we survive this round of cuts relatively unscathed, our unstable, bumbling, debt-ridden corporate parent can decide to shut us down or turn these sites into a hellscape of branded content and inane social video at any point. But they can’t do it in the dark.

Gizmodo CEO Steps Down as Company Layoffs Looms

‘ I had asked to step down as CEO of Gizmodo Media Group and with Univision’s reluctant blessing,’ says Raju Narisetti

Gizmodo CEO Raju Narisetti will leave the company, the executive announced in a memo to staff on Monday.

‘ I had asked to step down as CEO of Gizmodo Media Group and with Univision’s reluctant blessing, will be officially leaving later this month,’ said Narisetti.

‘ I said in my very first all-hands that I think leading and managing this special group of journalists is a privilege and something I will never take for granted. I want to thank all of you for allowing me the opportunity to be a part of what is an incredible and ongoing journalistic journey at GMG.’

The Narisetti departure suggests that deeper cuts were on the way as Gizmodo’s parent company, Univision, planned to bring Gizmodo Media management under a microscope. A company insider told TheWrap that Univision was looking to mainstream operations by trimming layers of management at GMG.

‘ The changes are expected to include cuts as well as investment in areas of growth like direct to consumer efforts," said the insider.

Narisetti joined Gizmodo in September 2016 after the property was acquired by Univision from its troubled former home at Gawker Media. The once-sleepy tech blog was subsequently transformed into the flagship website of the newly rebranded Gizmodo Media Group.

Gawker , errr I mean Gizmodo is a blog, there is zero journalism going on there. Its so bad, they can't "investigate" anything on thier own, they have to go after the company they work for because that's the lowest hanging fruit they have first hand knowledge of. Hilarious. These three bloggers should be fired.

IN ADDITION TO Hulk Hogan winning his similar kind of case, history was just made in favor of our our case:

BOOM! Georgia Judge REFUSES to Throw out CNN's Effort to Dismiss a Fake News Court Case, Cites a Series of False and Defamatory News Reports

CNN is now on the verge of being proven a fake news source by Georgia courts! CNN attempted to get the case dismissed involving Davide Carbone, CEO of St. Mary's Medical Center in West Palm Beach who accused CNN of fabricating a story about his hospital.

Federal Judge Orinda Evans

Citing a series of false and defamatory news reports that insinuated St. Mary's had an infant mortality rate that was 3 times higher than the national average while ignoring information that made the Medical Center look good. The libel lawsuit against CNN seeking $30 million in damages will continue onward thanks to federal district judge Orinda Evans.

Here is CNN's Fake news report about St. Mary's they still have on their YouTube Page.

Carbone, who actually lost his job due to the fake news reports â' has presented enough evidence at this early stage of the case to suggest that CNN â' was acting recklessly with regard to the accuracy of its reportingâ' according to The National Law Journal.

To make matters worse, judge Evans also found evidence of â' actual maliceâ' when insisting on reporting the Medical Center was under an official investigation, even after Floridaâ' s Agency for Healthcare administration adamantly denied this was taking place.

Carboneâ' s lawyer describes the ruling as a major victory.

â' False and defamatory accusations against real people have serious consequences,â' he said. â' Neither St. Maryâ' s or Mr. Carbone did anything to deserve being the objects of the heinous accusation that they harmed or put babies and young children at risk for profit.â'

â' The ruling,â' he added, â' serves as a well-reasoned reminder that the media, its defense lawyers, and its lobbyists do not have a corner on the market of correct interpretation and application of the First Amendment.â'

GAWKER/UNIVISION HAVE A NEW WORLD TO LOOK FORWARD TO!

WHO IS THE SILICON VALLEY MAFIA?

The Silicon Valley Mafia is The Sandhill Road Venture Capital frat boy company bosses in Palo Alto, their National Venture Capital Association (NVCA) partners and the tech companies (Google, Tesla, Facebook, Amazon, Twitter, Linkedin, etc.) they control. They are sometimes referred to as "The Deep State". They have purchased California, New York and Washington, DC politicians (mostly Senators) who they also control.

They hire rogue ex-intelligence agents to operate Fusion GPS, Gawker/Gizmodo, Black Cube, ShareBlue, New America, In-Q-Tel, Podesta Group, Media Matters, etc. massive media attack programs against competitors, reporters and outsiders. They collude on black-lists, valuation controls, election manipulation, search engine rigging, domestic spying for political manipulation, stock rigging, insider trading, executive prostitute clubs, trophy wife assignments, the bribery of politicians and worse. They are felons who pay politicians to halt investigations and interdiction efforts.

They are widely covered in news media articles as: 'sex abusers, cult enthusiasts, elitists, rapists, woman beaters, probiosis abusers, sexual work extortion operators, extremists, arrogant clones of each other, tone deaf, echo-chamber reinforcing, misogynist, racist, manipulative, insecure, covertly gay, corrupt, thieves' and other anti-social revelations. They are not limited to California and also operate out of New York and Washington DC.

They use their monopolistic control of the internet to massively and exclusively scale services that only they control and use to abuse the public's privacy, human rights, invention rights and information. They run their cartel like the old Italian Mafia once did.

Gawker 2.0 is blowing up on the launchpad just two weeks after the site's first group of new staffers came aboard.

On Wednesday morning, the site's only two full-time writers' former Vanity Fair writer Maya Kosoff and former Cosmopolitan writer Anna Breslaw announced in a statement to The Daily Beast that they have left over concerns about Carson Griffith, the recently hired editorial director.

'We're disappointed it ended this way, but we can't continue to work under someone who is antithetical to our sensibility and journalistic ethics, or for an employer [CEO Bryan Goldberg] who refuses to listen to the women who work for him when it's inconvenient,' Kosoff and Breslaw said.

The two reporters said they decided to leave the new Gawker after Bustle Digital Group, which bought the shuttered Gawker.com domain and its archives in a mid-2018 fire sale, refused to oust Griffith over offensive workplace comments about everything from poor people to black writers to her acquaintance's penis size.

Kosoff and Breslaw said they met with human resources to complain of several instances in which they felt personally uncomfortable working with Griffith.

In particular, Kosoff, a former colleague and personal friend of this reporter, described to human resources an incident in which Griffith forwarded an unsolicited chain email showing the editorial director's friends boasting they knew the penis size of a prominent businessman.

'My one good memory from the...trip (besides meeting carson) is him in a swimsuit,' one of Griffith's friends wrote, according to a copy of the thread reviewed by The Daily Beast.

‘ Ha! Omg I feel like that is a question Carson would know :),’ Griffith’s friend responded.

The two reporters also relayed to human-resources instances in which they believed Griffith—who holds a management role at the site—expressed an uncomfortably negative attitude on issues related to workplace diversity.

In a Slack message reviewed by The Daily Beast, Griffith seemed to brag to Gawker staff that she had gotten them out of a company-wide diversity training session, though neither Kosoff nor Breslaw had asked her to do so. The two ended up attending.

During one of Breslaw’s interviews for the job, Griffith mentioned the snack selection at the office, and noted that she had a snack saved in her pocket.

‘ That’s so poor person of me,’ she joked.

Kosoff additionally told HR of an exchange in which Griffith took a dismissive stance towards the recruiting of a writer who identifies as non-binary.

Kosoff, who was tasked with recruiting some new editorial staff, wrote in a Slack message that she was going to meet with a potential staffer ‘ who is a person of color and nonbinary (uses they/them pronouns).’

When she returned from the meeting two hours later, Griffith initially laughed off the preferred pronouns.

‘ lol is [name redacted] a girl?’ Griffith asked.

The two also told HR that they were particularly disturbed when Griffith commented in the small Gawker office that it may be difficult to hire writers of color because, in her estimation, people of color prefer to only write serious pieces about race.

In addition to the internal communications, Kosoff and Breslaw were concerned about tweets Griffith had posted in the past which were dug up by Splinter.

In a story last week, Splinter reported that Griffith used gay slurs, invoked bizarre racial stereotypes about Asians, and made derogatory comments about celebrities she perceived as overweight.

The tweets rattled the small new Gawker staff, the duo said, and caused an internal stir among other employees at BDG, a collection of digital publications that aims to create â impactful conversation around the interests and issues engaging women today.â

According to multiple sources, the tweets caused at least two potential new hires to express strong, newfound reservations about working with Gawker.

â It grew increasingly difficult for Maya to pitch writers and editors on the job, and she no longer felt she could recruit people to work under Carson in good faith,â the statement said.

In their statement, Kosoff and Breslaw said that after presenting human resources with these complaintsâ in addition to Griffithâ s offensive tweetsâ the company told them that Griffith would remain in her role.

â We take all claims seriously and will continue to review,â a Gawker spokesperson said in a Wednesday statement.

The two reporters told The Daily Beast that they then refused BDGâ s offer to be moved to other websites within the company, and also refused a severance package that included a non-disparagement agreement.

Aside from its controversial hires for the new Gawker site, BDG has recently faced criticism for how it has handled several others sites that Goldberg purchased at bargain prices.

Last week, The Daily Beast reported that former Mic.com editorial staffers were furious that BDG hired writers to complete articles partially written by the unionized staffers who were fired en masse shortly before Micâ s sale to Goldberg late last year.

Inside the U.S. Antitrust Probe of Google Key FTC staff wanted to sue Internet giant after finding ‘real harm to consumers and to innovation’

ENLARGE Google’s Eric Schmidt testified in 2011 about the Internet giant’s business practices and defended how it displayed search results. Photo: Getty Images By Brody Mullins,

The staff report from the agency’s bureau of competition recommended the commission bring a lawsuit challenging three Google practices. The move would have triggered one of the highest-profile antitrust cases since the Justice Department sued Microsoft Corp. in the 1990s.

The 160-page critique, which was supposed to remain private but was inadvertently disclosed in an open-records request, concluded that Google’s “conduct has resulted—and will result—in real harm to consumers and to innovation in the online search and advertising markets.”

The findings stand in contrast to the conclusion of the FTC’s commissioners, who voted unanimously in early 2013 to end the investigation after Google agreed to some voluntary changes to its practices.

It is unusual for the commissioners to not take staff recommendations. But in this case, they were wrestling with competing recommendations, including a separate report from the agency’s economic bureau that didn’t favor legal action.

AdvertisementThen-Chairman Jon Leibowitz said in a written statement at the time that Google's voluntary changes deliver "more relief for American consumers faster than any other option."

Google General Counsel Kent Walker said in a statement Thursday that the FTC ultimately "agreed that there was no need to take action on how we rank and display search results." He added: "Speculation about potential consumer harm turned out to be entirely wrong. Since the investigation closed two years ago, the ways people access information online have only increased, giving consumers more choice than ever before."

On one issue—whether Google used anticompetitive tactics for its search engine—the competition staff recommended against a lawsuit, although it said Google's actions resulted in "significant harm" to rivals. In three other areas, the report found evidence the company used its monopoly behavior to help its own business and hurt its rivals.

ENLARGE The report undercuts Google's oft-stated contention that the FTC found no evidence of wrongdoing. "The conclusion is clear: Google's services are good for users and good for competition," said David Drummond, Google's senior vice president and chief legal officer, when the FTC closed the matter.

It could prompt new complaints from some Google competitors, such as Yelp Inc., who allege the company still engages in anticompetitive behavior, and renewed focus by antitrust authorities in Europe, who are pursuing their own look into Google.

"This document appears to show that the FTC had direct evidence from Google of intentional search bias," said Luther Lowe, the vice president of public policy for Yelp.

ENLARGE The Wall Street Journal viewed portions of the document after the agency inadvertently disclosed it as part of a Freedom of Information Act request. The FTC declined to release the undisclosed pages and asked the Journal to return the document, which it declined to do.

"Unfortunately, an unredacted version of this material was inadvertently released in response to a FOIA request," an FTC spokesman said in a statement to the Journal. "We are taking steps to ensure this does not happen again."

Embedded in the document and in detailed footnotes are an array of previously unknown details about Google's business, many of which come from senior officials such as Executive Chairman Eric Schmidt, former executive Marissa Mayer and co-founders Larry Page and Sergey Brin.

Data included in the report suggest Google was more dominant in the U.S. Internet search market than was widely believed. The company estimated its market share at between 69% and 84% during a period when research firm comScore put it at 65%. "From an antitrust perspective, I'm happy to see [comScore] underestimate our share," the report quoted Google Chief Economist Hal Varian as saying, without specifying the context.

An antitrust suit against Google would have pitted Obama administration appointees against one of the White House's closest corporate allies. Google was the second-largest corporate source of campaign donations to President Barack Obama's re-election effort. Google executives have visited the White House scores of times since Mr. Obama has been in office, according to visitor logs.

"The FTC is an independent agency and we respect their independent decision-making," said Jennifer Friedman, a White House spokeswoman.

In its investigation, FTC staff said Google's conduct "helped it to maintain, preserve and enhance Google's monopoly position in the markets for search and search advertising" in violation of the law. Google's behavior "will have lasting negative effects on consumer welfare," the report said.

Google has long disputed any characterization that it is a monopoly, saying that competition is "just a click away."

In discussing one of the issues the FTC staff wanted to sue over, the report said the company illegally took content from rival websites such as Yelp, TripAdvisor Inc. and Amazon.com Inc. to improve its own websites. It cited one instance when Google copied Amazon's sales rankings to rank its own items. It also copied Amazon's reviews and ratings, the report found. Spokesmen for TripAdvisor and Amazon declined to comment.

When competitors asked Google to stop taking their content, it threatened to remove them from its search engine.

"It is clear that Google's threat was intended to produce, and did produce, the desired effect," the report said, "which was to coerce Yelp and TripAdvisor into backing down." The company also sent a message that it would "use its monopoly power over search to extract the fruits of its rivals' innovations."

In its final agreement, the commission secured a promise that Google would allow websites to opt out of having their content included in its competing search products.

The staff said Google also broke antitrust law by placing restrictions on websites that publish its search results from also working with rivals such as Microsoft's Bing and Yahoo Inc.

The commission made no mention of this issue in its final report, nor did it secure any commitments from Google to change its policies.

In a third area, the FTC staff said Google violated antitrust law by restricting advertisers' ability to use data garnered from Google ad campaigns in advertising run on rival platforms.

The FTC report cited a Google employee who said the company once wanted to do away with the unnecessary restriction but was overruled by Mr. Page, who is now Google's chief executive. A Google spokeswoman declined to make Mr. Page available for comment.

Ultimately, Google changed this policy voluntarily in 2013 at the behest of the agency.

On the most important issue, that of Google's prized search engine, the FTC report said Google altered it to benefit its own services at the expense of rivals. The report said Google "adopted a strategy of demoting, or refusing to display, links to certain vertical websites in highly commercial categories."

In what it termed "a close call," the staff said the FTC shouldn't issue a complaint against the company because of legal hurdles and Google's "strong procompetitive justifications."

'[Google's behavior] helped it to maintain, preserve and enhance Google's monopoly position in the markets for search and search advertising'

—FTC staff report The "evidence paints a complex portrait of a company working toward an overall goal of maintaining its market share by providing the best user experience, while simultaneously engaging in tactics that resulted in harm to many vertical competitors, and likely helped to entrench Google's monopoly power over search and search advertising," the staff said.

On Jan. 3, the five FTC commissioners voted to close the investigation. A few months later, now FTC Chairwoman Edith Ramirez told a Senate committee that a majority of commissioners didn't support a case against Google on any of the allegations under investigation.

Gawker Media

New America Foundation

The executives of Google, In-Q-Tel and New America Foundation and the investors and beneficiaries of the "CleanTech" cash and the organizers of the libel, slander and defamation attacks against competing applicants are IN FACT, all the same people. In-Q-Tel and New America Foundation staff strategized the attacks while Gawker Media and Google executed the attacks.

Google received numerous legal requests to cease the attacks and, not only, refused to cease the attacks, but, in fact, increased them. Google manually, malicious and intentionally locked the attacks into the top and forefront positions on their web control architecture in order to optimize and maximize the damage against applicants as a retribution tactic. Google deleted and down-ranked any media coverage which was beneficial to applicants in order to assert their damage against the applicants in favor of their investors. Because Google operates under federal cash contracts and is legally a "Monopoly" this is a felony. The personnel, financial relationships, investments, ownerships, assets and communications between all of these parties are deeply embedded, confirmed and quantified. NSA, FBI and other surveillance has documented their communications and interactions.

These are the groups that joined together to target those who spoke up. Let's see what the media says about them:

CHARACTER ASSASSINATION, AND CAREER HIT-JOBS, BY HIGHLY PLACED POLITICAL ENTITIES USING TAXPAYER MONEY

By Thomas Winstead, Bob Unruh, Edward Snowden, Winston Emery & Piper Lee

[Government sponsored character assassination delivered by Google, Gawker Media, IN-Q-Tel and New America Foundation; all of whom are financially, politically and operationally connected. Using the largest character assassination engine ever created. The Large Hadron Collider of defamation, Schmidt and his little Cartel went to work on enemies of his ideology. These were hit-jobs, using taxpayer dollars, against American born taxpayers, inside America, on U.S. soil because some politician or, campaign backer billionaire, wanted to hide their crimes.

Journalist Glenn Greenwald, through whom document-leaker Edward Snowden previously rattled the entire National Security Agency, is now confirming Western intelligence networks strategize to place “trolls” on the Internet to undermine, discredit and destroy critics.

In an article posted on website Greenwald help create called the Intercept, Greenwald reports secret documents from the GCHQ – the United Kingdom’s version of the NSA – reveal “how western intelligence agencies are attempting to manipulate and control online discourse with extreme tactics of deception and reputation-destruction.”

He cites documents from the “previously secret” Joint Threat Research Intelligence Group in the U.K., which describe injecting “all sorts of false material onto the Internet in order to destroy the reputation of its targets” and to use “social sciences and other techniques to manipulate online discourse and activism to generate outcomes it considers desirable.”

“To see how extremist these programs are, just consider the tactics they boast of using to achieve those ends: ‘false flag operations’ (posting material to the Internet and falsely attributing it to someone else), fake victim blog posts (pretending to be a victim of the individual whose reputation they want to destroy), and posting ‘negative information’ on various forums.”

Regarding how to “discredit a target,” the instructions include, “Set up a honey-trap, change their photos on social networking sites, write a blog purporting to be one of their victims, email/text their colleagues, neighbors, friends etc.”

Sam Rolley at the Personal Liberty blog wrote that his organization for years has been “warning readers that the well-connected and ruling elite, displeased by this newfound proletariat freedom, have been prolific in attempts to undermine and marginalize information provided by any media outlet unwilling to obey the same unspoken rules that govern the content choices of major media outlets.”

“Now, thanks to the efforts of National Security Agency whistleblower Edward Snowden and journalist Glenn Greenwald, readers no longer have to take the word of ‘paranoid’ bloggers who relate tales of paid government trolls lurking in comment sections and other concentrated top-down efforts to muddy the information provided by alternative media,” Rolley said.

He warned that the “most disturbing confirmation provided in the newly publicized intelligence documents is that spy agencies in Western nations with free speech guarantees have been given carte blanche authority from political leadership to target private individuals and organizations deemed uncooperative with the will of the state with ruthless online reputation-destruction efforts.”

Greenwald said the discussion of many of the techniques “occurs in the context of using them in lieu of ‘traditional law enforcement’ against people suspected (but not charged or convicted) of ordinary crimes or, more broadly still, ‘hacktivism,’ meaning those who use online protest activity for political ends.”

Rolley said it takes “no stretch of the imagination – even for those who have resisted considering the possibility of malevolent intent on government’s part – to assume that the mission of organizations like the NSA and GCHQ is ultimately more about quelling citizen dissent than stopping citizen bloodshed at the hands of terrorists.”

“The mere existence of documents like those published this week,” Rolley said, “provides that the nefarious and long-suspected Internet activities of Western propagandists are not just plausible – they have very likely occurred in the comment sections and social media posts of articles like the one you are reading now.”

WND columnist Eric Rush highlighted the outrageous idea of government agents trying to destroy the reputations of critics.

“It is worth noting that in 2008, Cass Sunstein, an Obama adviser and the White House’s former head of the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs ... wrote a paper proposing that the U.S. government engage teams of covert agents and independent, ideologically kindred surrogates to employ precisely the aforementioned methods to achieve their objectives,” Rush said.

Greenwald said the “point is that, far beyond hacktivists, these surveillance agencies have vested themselves with the power to deliberately ruin people’s reputations and disrupt their online political activity even though they’ve been charged with no crimes, and even though their actions have no conceivable connection to terrorism or even national security threats.”

Greenwald said the British organization, GCHQ, in response to his questions, said only that it does not comment on intelligence matters.

“Furthermore,” the agency said, “all of GCHQ’s work is carried out in accordance with a strict legal and policy framework which ensures that our activities are authorized, necessary and proportionate, and that there is rigorous oversight, including from the Secretary of State, the Interception and Intelligence Services Commissioners, and the Parliamentary Intelligence and Security Committee.”

“Whatever else is true,” Greenwald wrote, “no government should be able to engage in these tactics: what justification is there for having government agencies target people – who have been charged with no crime – for reputation-destruction, infiltrate online political communities, and develop techniques for manipulating online discourse?”

WND previously has reported on leftist trolls operating online, including those with thousands of postings that would be unlikely to come from someone submitting comments during free time.

The report at the time said the trolls were performing a “disinformation” function typical of counter-intelligence efforts by intelligence agencies to confuse political enemies and refute or deflect opposing political views that are less susceptible to refutation by more traditional methods of debate and argumentation.

Typically, trolls operating on WND forums were defending Obama by posting specious and diversionary arguments with the goal of changing the subject and obscuring topics that could damage Obama, such as his birth records, life narrative, political history and policy preferences, including his current positions as president.

One was found to have posted nearly 4,800 comments over a two-year period. Another operated under different user names used various email addresses and nine different IP addresses to post 15,200 comments over 787 days on WND.com and FoxNews.com, as well as several smaller news websites, some of which had a local focus or interest.

The report confirmed many of the trolls banned from participating in WND forums appeared to have been operating on a professional level.

Who Is Gawker Media and Nick Denton? Let's take a look at how the international news media answers that question:

Gawker Media: Hypocrites vs. Douchebanoes

by Matt Forney For TAKI MAG.com

In 2002, a failed British journalist named Nick Denton started Gawker, a bitchy gossip blog run out of his Manhattan apartment. Over 10 years later, Gawker and its sister sites have become the biggest names in clickbait “journalism,” pulling down millions of visitors a month and making its owner a millionaire several times over. The secret to Denton’s success? He took the aggressive, lynch mob mentality of British tabloids, which specialize in ruining people’s lives, and injected it into America’s comparatively placid, Oprahfied media market.

In particular, Gawker, Jezebel, Valleywag, and their sister sites specialize in witch hunts: digital vigilantism against those who fail to keep up with leftist orthodoxy. “Which makes the revelation that Denton has been allowing trolls to terrorize his female employees all the more delicious.”

For the past few months, 4chan has been engaged in a trolling operation against Jezebel, posting pictures of rape and gore porn in the comments section. Fat chance of this happening, however. As others have pointed out, Gawker Media's business model depends on getting clicks; indeed, their writers are paid according to how many page views their articles get. Since comments help drive traffic to websites, fighting 4chan's rape porn trolling will reduce Gawker's profitability. Not only that, Google itself ranks web pages according to how many comments they have, as comments are extremely difficult to fake. Fewer comments means a lower page rank, which translates into less search traffic and less money for Denton to blow on exotic vacations with his boy-toy hubby. If Gawker Media was willing to testify in federal court as to why they should be allowed to rip off their interns, you can bet your bottom peso that they aren't going to do jack about this.

Gawker Media Attack Specialist Adrian Covert of San Francisco. Now under 24/7 electronic surveillance for "suspicious activities"

And there's the punch line. Gawker Media, the company that gets people fired from their jobs for making "sexist" jokes, has been creating a hostile work environment for its women staffers for months. They're the leftist equivalent of a priest who rails against homosexuality only to be caught molesting altar boys in the confessional booths. In staying silent on this for so long, Dodai Stewart, Lindy West, and Jezebel's other star employees have shown themselves to be frauds. They don't care about feminism, "fat shaming," or whatever cause they're screeching about today; all they care about is money and power. And now we have the proof.

[Terror– John Cook of Gawker; now of Greenwald – NOT CIA'S FRIEND!Gawker Tries to Reveal Identity of CIA Agent Behind Bin Laden KillBy \[Jana Winter\]\(#\)](#)

May 1: Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, President Barack Obama and Vice President Joe Biden, along with members of the national security team, receive an update on the mission against Usama bin Laden in the Situation Room of the White House. APThe Gawker website is under fire for trying to expose the CIA agent who may have helped lead the effort to kill Usama Bin Laden — despite efforts by the U.S. government and media to keep his identity secret for security reasons.

Using red arrows pointing to a full-length picture and close-up photos of the possible agent, Gawker reporter John Cook on July 6 wrote a piece under the headline “Is This the Guy Who Killed Bin Laden?” The story has since sparked an angry response from former intelligence agents — as well as Gawker’s own readers — who say Cook’s post was irresponsible and could have deadly consequences.

“This whole business of exposing people is a real serious matter. It’s not entertainment, some people may think it is, but it’s not ... There are real people out there that are going to be killed because of this,” said Charles Faddis, a former CIA operations officer who spent 20 years working international hot spots and who headed the CIA’s Terrorist Weapons of Mass Destruction Unit before retiring in 2008.

“I don’t have a lot of patience for this,” added Faddis, speaking about attempts to out the identity of a CIA operative. “This is serious, this is really serious. It’s completely irresponsible.”

Some Gawker readers also weren’t amused. A commenter named “Myrna Minkoff” wrote in response to Cook’s story:

“If this is the guy who tracked down Bin Laden, I can think of no better way to thank him for his outstanding civil service than by outing him on a highly trafficked web site and putting his career, his life, the lives of his loved ones in danger. Hooray!”

Another commenter “joelydanger” wrote:

“Consider that the next time you decide to write another article that tries to glorify DEVGRU, the CIA, or anyone and anything else used on the mission. You’re causing harm and danger to the very people you’re claiming to be heroes.”

But Cook insisted he didn’t compromise anyone’s security by posting the photos.

“I do not believe my post put anybody in physical danger,” Cook said in an email response to several questions posed by FoxNews.com. “I do not believe that people whose photographs are distributed by the White House as part of its public relations efforts have a reasonable claim to ask that no one speculate as to who they are.”

Cook was referring to a series of official White House pictures taken from the Situation Room during the raid on Bin Laden’s compound in Pakistan. The most famous of those photos, seen on televisions, newspapers and websites around the world, showed President Obama, Vice President Biden, Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, Defense Secretary Robert Gates and other officials watching a live feed of the raid.

Barely visible in that photo is the right jacket arm and the bottom of a necktie that appear to belong to a tall man standing behind Gates. Other pictures taken in the Situation Room during the raid, posted on the White House Flickr feed, show full-on shots of a tall man whose jacket and tie appear to match those of the man standing behind Gates in the earlier photo.

On July 5, the Associated Press published an extensive article on a CIA agent who led the hunt and eventual takedown of Bin Laden. The article referred to the agent only as “John,” explaining: “The Associated Press has agreed to the CIA’s request not to publish his full name and withhold certain biographical details so that he would not become a target for retribution.”

Later that same day, the website Cryptome, a Wikileaks competitor that publishes leaked, sometimes classified documents and information, used clues from the AP article to home in on photos from the White House Flickr feed and other AP photos that might show “John.” The article noted that “John” appeared just out of frame in the famous photo.

The following day, Cook picked up the Cryptome info and published the photos from the White House Flickr feed, beneath the “Is This the Guy Who Killed Bin Laden?” headline. Cook’s post also included an AP file photo of CIA Director Leon Panetta leaving a briefing on Capitol Hill, where the man who may be “John” is seen in the background.

“Of course, it could be a random staffer who happened to be in both locations with John,” Cook wrote. “Or it could be the guy who iced bin Laden.”

The New York Observer posted a story late Tuesday that claimed to have confirmed the identity of the CIA agent, starting with the AP article and the Situation Room photo, and it posted photos online of the man it said was the agent.

Cook said he and his Gawker editors discussed potential safety concerns before publishing the information and photos.

“We came to the conclusion that it is highly unlikely that the White House would distribute for publication a photograph of a man whose life would be endangered if his photograph were ever published. Likewise, we decided that it is highly unlikely that such a man would publicly accompany the director of Central Intelligence, in the presence of AP photographers, to Capitol Hill to testify.”

But those White House photos do not identify the man in question, only noting that the group of people are “members of the national security team,” numerous Gawker commenters pointed out.

“You seem to have not noticed that they took great pains to make sure his face wasn’t in the shot and he was never identified by name,” Myrna Minkoff wrote, when another commenter challenged her criticism of the Gawker post.

Other commenters chimed in.

Oh my! Gawker’s Nick Denton’s ex boyfriend is not happy with his new boy toy.

By Christopher Koulouris For <http://scallywagandvagabond.com>

Frankly there’s nothing more delicious than watching someone famous for ripping people’s alive (yes journalism sucks these days) apart become his own parody on manners and gossip. That said there was a twinkle of relish when I came across page 6’s interesting expose on Nick Denton, the media zealot of Gawker media (which owns a smattering of salacious dribble including gawker, jezebel, deadspin, lifehacker and jalopnik) who has suddenly found himself the scorn of a former jealous and one imagines scorned lover.

page 6: Gadfly Gawker Media head Nick Denton recently changed his Facebook status from single to “in a relationship,” but not everyone seems to be happy about it.

Sources say an angry ex of his new boyfriend tossed a brick through the window of Denton’s SoHo loft building recently, and has been causing enough further trouble that the police have been contacted.

Not to drift too much from Nick but I too was quite aghast when I decided to publicly note that I was no longer single but in a relationship on Facebook (for some reason I was quite surprised by the number of people who responded to what I perceived to be something really quite arbitrary and of little consequence in the world scheme of things, but yes people do pay attention it seems) which perhaps might explain the sudden attention that Mr Denton received when he publicly decided to note that he was in fact now no longer a pedophile or single.

Of course who also noted one assumes is a scorned former lover of the media titan who felt compelled enough to go smashing bricks into his former lover's abode. And perhaps with good reason as it appears Mr Denton's attentions have now turned to presumably a nimble agile and quite pretty young man (28 year old Derrence Washington) who it appears is an English actor here in NYC on tour (permanent tour one supposes).

What perhaps make the intrusion even more charming (not to suggest they are ever charming) is Mr Denton's own acknowledgment that he is now being served the same dish he is well known famous for serving up on a regular basis.

When we asked Denton about the incidents, he told us via e-mail: "After that Hulk Hogan sex tape on Gawker, I can hardly complain about intrusion into my private life!

"Yep, love is messy," he added.

Indeed love and gossip are quite messy but that said I'm betting Mr Denton is loving every minute of it. If I could suggest one thing Mr Denton, perhaps if you were to send a bouquet to the former lover it may temper their ire. I know it worked for me once. Oh dear...
